MISS MARJORIE SCHNEIDER.

PUSH TO PREVENT KISS BLAMED FOR DEATH OF ROGERS

Girl Companion of Mrs. Reid's Nephew Quoted as Saying She Feared She Had Killed Him.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 14.—Coroner Mix has announced that he has cleared up some of the missing details of the manner in which Charles C. Rogers, nephew of Mrs. Ogden M. Reid, came to his death through an accident in the automobile of Miss Marjorie Schneider on the North Haven turnpike on the night of Nov. 1, after the Yale-Army football game.

The Coroner admitted that Mrs. Ruth Hulse, friend of Miss Schneider, who broughe her back to New Haven from the scene of the accident, testified that, on the way to New Haven, Miss Schneider said: "I pushed him and I'm afraid I killed him," meaning Rogers, who was riding in the front seat beside her. Mix explained, however, that Miss Schneider testified she had no recollection of having pushed Rogers or of having said she did.

This situation left Mrs. Hulse's testimony without corroboration, and the Coroner found Rogers came to his death by accident. Even had Mrs. Hulse's testimony been corroborated, however, it would not have precluded a decision of accidental death.

These facts have been common knowledge in New Haven for several days but had not been published for lack of official confirmation, the transcript of the testimony not having yet been filed. The testimony, now being transcribed, will be filed in a few days.

It is expected it will indicate that, while Miss Schneider was driving, Rogers attempted to kiss her and she pushed him away in some manner which, according to the Coroner's findings, caused him to fall from the car, his head striking a pole by the roadside.

A theory different from that of the Coroner is that Rogers' head struck the steering wheel and then the windshield in front of the wheel. That theory would account for the breaking of the windshield and Rogers' torn ear and bruised neck and shoulder.

Jacob P. Goodhart, Miss Schneider's local attorney, has given assurance that his client will appear in town court in North Haven Monday morning to answer the charge of driving while under the influence of liquor.

FARRAR'S 'CARMEN' ATTACKED

PARIS, Nov. 14.—Geraldine Farrar is the object of a bitter attack in Le Petit Bleu, for what it calls her "sabotage" of the opera, "Carmen."

It declares she places the card scene in the first act, introduces a minuet from "L'Arlesienne" and substitutes a ballet for the chorus. Something should be done, it says, to prevent Americans taking such liberties with French music.

THOUSANDS IN CORTEGE OF SLAIN GANG LEADER

24 TRUCKLOADS OF FLOWERS

Underworld Chieftain's $10,000 Casket Buried in Lot He Bought for Pal, Also Slain.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—The body of Dion O'Bannion, slain because of his ambition to be absolute monarch of the underworld, was carried to Mount Carmel Cemetery for burial today. Pomp and magnificence, such as only the free-handed gang chieftains attempt in these prosaic days, attended O'Bannion on this last journey.

In the vicinity of the undertaking establishment, in the chapel of which brief services were held by a priest, 5000 persons gathered an hour before the time set for the departure for the cemetery. Scores of uniformed policemen mingled with the crowds. Five squads of detectives of five men each, with their automobiles, were present and "frisked" all persons who might be suspected of carrying weapons. Automobiles were parked in double rows for blocks in every direction. Only close friends were admitted to the services.

Thousands Follow Hearse.

Behind the hearse containing the $10,000 silver bronze casket rode thousands of persons. Many were his sincere mourners—men and women and children he had befriended. Others were his companions—slim, dark, suspicious men, who had attained under his leadership the comparative ease and rewards of the bootlegger and the beer-runner. These latter probably were those who fixed and executed O'Bannion's death sentence. It was their surest opportunity for concealment to be seen among the mourners. All the gangsters who failed to drop their work to pay these last respects were coupled with his enemies, and the sharp eyes of his friends searched the thousands and noted the absentees.

Block after block the cortege extended—one of the largest funerals ever held in Chicago. Floral designs costing thousands of dollars preceded the hearse. At the cemetery they were banked in a seemingly endless profusion on the lot which O'Bannion purchased last winter for the burial of John Sheehy, killed by a policeman in the Rendezvous Cafe. That purchase has been cited as an example of O'Bannion's munificence. It was his intention, it is said, to use the same plot for the burial of others of his pals who should happen to be killed before they had an opportunity to choose their own graves.

Two Dozen Flower Trucks.

More than two dozen trucks were required to transport the flowers to the cemetery. As they drove up to the front of the undertaking rooms, the crowds which closed in

VILLAGE DISAPPEARS IN ISLAND OF JAVA QUAKE

Shocks Last Two Days, Death List Reaches 300; Tremors Centered About Health Resort.

By the Associated Press.

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 14.—The Island of Java has been severely shaken by earthquakes. Already 300 persons are reported killed and countless are missing.

The earth shocks extended over Wednesday and part of yesterday. Many native towns in the Kedu district, a central residency of Java, have been destroyed by the landslides. One village completely disappeared into the river.

The shock centered in the health resort of Wonosobo, where all the buildings collapsed.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—A dispatch to the Morning Post from Amsterdam quoting reports received from Java, says the river near Kampong has been transformed into a mud channel, in which the bodies of men and animals are lying.

Forty-five houses in the Leksono district have disappeared entirely. The whole of Dessah Badjigan has been engulfed in the Pring River.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Reports from Batavia that the Island of Java has been severely shaken by earthquakes recalled that Rafael Bandandi, the famous Italian seismologist, on Nov. 8, predicted earthquakes for Nov. 11 "in the extreme East, probably in the Philippine Islands." Java is southwest of the Philippines, in the Malay Archipelago. The seismologist also forecast earthquakes in the Far East between Nov. 16 and 17.

FIREMEN OF 3 CITIES FIGHT BIG JERSEY CITY FIRE

Flames Spread, With Explosions, From Chemical Plant to Sugar Refinery and Soap Works.

By the Associated Press.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Nov. 14.—Damage running into millions of dollars through the destruction of factories and other buildings was caused today by fire in the Gammontown industrial section of the city. The fire, starting at 9 o'clock this morning, burned fiercely until 2:45 this afternoon, defying the combined efforts of fire companies from Hoboken, New York City and the entire Jersey City force, augmented by six Lehigh Valley Railroad tugboats and two New York City fire boats. The Richardson Chemical Co. salpeter plant, the American Sugar Refinery Co.'s abandoned plant, one small building of the Colgate Soap Co. plant and four smaller factories were destroyed. Two rows of three and four story tenement houses, with their contents of furniture and personal property, were wiped out, turning upward of 2000 tenants out of homes.

Fifteen Seriously Hurt.

Fifteen persons were seriously injured or burned. Many others were cut by glass blown out over a half-mile radius by a series of explosions. The flames were reported clearly visible from lower Manhattan. Great clouds of smoke drifted across the North River.

The city block bounded by Essex, Morris, Warren and Washington streets became a roaring furnace when the fire leaped through dozens of streams of water and explosions blew out walls and the roof of the saltpeter plant. Many firemen were overcome by fumes. Many persons were treated for cuts from flying glass and effects of fumes which rolled across the city and the Hudson River.

Children Run From School.

Soon after the start of the fire this morning, 2000 children from a nearby public school were rushed out. As they ran into the street, an explosion tore the roof from the saltpeter plant, hurled it into the air and scattered it in all directions for several blocks. The children fled through the street. Hundreds of policemen finally got them out of the danger zone. Parents and children in tenements in the vicinity were removed in taxicabs and ambulances to safe regions.

L. K. RHINELANDER WEDS DAUGHTER OF 'ODD JOB' MAN

Bridegroom, of Huguenot Ancestry, and Well-Known New York Family Has Moderate Fortune

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Leonard Kip Rhinelander, whose Huguenot ancestors settled at New Rochelle in the seventeenth century and passed down a name that became one of the best known in New York society, married, Oct. 14 in New Rochelle, Miss Alice Beatrice Jones, whose father is variously described as a taxicab driver, odd-job man and "retired real estate man."

The last description of the father is given by the bride, a pretty girl of the Spanish type. On her marriage license, obtained from City Clerk Harmon, she gave her age as 23, and said her father and mother were born in England.

Rhinelander gave his ago as 22 and said he was the son of Philip Rhinelander of No. 18 West 48th street, New York, and the late Mrs. Adelaide Kip Rhinelander, who was burned to death in her Tuxedo cottage in 1915.

The two were married by Mayor Harry Scott, with Harmon and the Mayor's secretary, Harry Cole, as witnesses. Until a week ago they lived at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Jones, at an address stated on the marriage license records as No. 763 Pelham Road, New Rochelle Inquiry there revealed that Jones lived in a small frame house at the end of an alley, or lane, back of 763 Pelham Road.

He refused to answer any questions about his daughter's marriage, shut the door and turned away. A moment later an expensive roadster drove up before the house. In it were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Kip Rhinelander.

The young man—tall, with reddish brown hair and a close cropped red mustache, said he had lived at his father's home in Manhattan until the day of his marriage and that he had been employed at the office of the Rhinelander estate.

Silent on Father's Attitude.

He denied reports that his father had sent him on western trips several times in an effort to break off the romance, but refused to say whether his father approved of the marriage. He said he had met Miss Jones at a party in Stamford.

BUTLER TO BE ACTUAL G. O. P. SENATE LEADER

HE WILL SPEAK FOR PRESIDENT

By CHARLES MICHELSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—William Butler's appointment to fill the vacancy caused by Senator Lodge's death, means the return of the Hanna-Penrose type of senatorial control, according to the diagnoses of the politicians.

He will not be titular leader, as was Lodge, that honor being reserved for Senate veterans, but he will be the actual captain and director-general of Republican strategy and policy. There is no likelihood that Butler will vacate the national chairmanship of the Republican party when he takes his seat in the Senate; in fact, precedent suggests that the two offices will be so handled that one will supplement the other.

Mark Hanna, 20 years ago, was both United States Senator and chairman of the Republican National Committee. The parallel goes even further, for Hanna was to McKinley what Butler is to Coolidge. Wherefore the expectation of the return of the old system of bossing the Senate.

Inevitably Butler will be the President's spokesman on the floor; whatever he says will be regarded as the word from the White House, and, in his capacity as the head of the Republican committee, he will be in a better position to enforce compliance with that word than any grand vizier since Hanna's day. With the backing of the President he can, if he desires, hold the political future of every Republican Senator in the hollow of his hand.

Old Guard Still Angry.

This is no happy situation for the Old Guard, which is still burning with resentment at the treatment accorded it at Cleveland, but the Old Guard is powerless. It will have to be good, consequently there is no likelihood of such a situation as obtained last spring when the Republicans, led by Lodge, killed the Mellon plan that President Coolidge asked for and flouted him on the World Court.

The Mellon plan, if the administration wants it, will go through next time, in all probability, for it is doubtful if enough insurgents will stand to their guns to help the Democrats take the revenue program away from the majority.

The story has reached Washington that the Massachusetts Democrats are challenging the validity of the law that permits the Governor's appointee to function until the next general election two years hence. It is true that the United States Constitution appears to provide that a special election shall be called, but it goes on to say that the State Legislature shall direct the manner of election. As the Massachusetts Legislature is hopelessly Republican, the theory of the invalidity of the law is not taken very seriously.

Butler takes his seat at once, which militates against the idea of a special session, unless Senator Borah, who seems to have taken the lead of the movement to bring Congress together can bring President Coolidge around to his view that the Republican party owes it to the people to fulfill its pledges of farm relief and tax reform at the earliest possible moment.

If the present Congress can agree to a horizontal cut of all taxes there will be no objection from either the President or Secretary Mellon, but if somebody objects with the idea that this course may be used to bury a general program of tax reform, the administration will be equally content.

The Republicans generally are prepared to take the President's program, the Democrats are in two minds about it, some of them believing that the opportunity for substituting a Democratic measure for the administration schedule may arise again, and others feeling that it is their best strategy to let the majority follow its own bent—and reap whatever advantage might result from the dissatisfaction the minority feels must follow the postponement of fulfillment of campaign promises.

$600,000 WILLED TO WASHINGTON U. BY ELLIS WAINWRIGHT

Two Nieces "Remembered" but Bequeathed Nothing —$50,000 to St. Louis Children's Hospital.

ART COLLECTION TO THE CITY MUSEUM

Adopted Daughter Mentioned in Codicils to the Will but Not Given Share in Estate.

Washington University will receive between $600,000 and $700,000 from the estate of Ellis Wainwright, former brewer, realty and traction owner, whose will was filed today.

Of his estate, which is estimated from $700,000 to $800,000 in value, Wainwright left $50,000 to the St. Louis Children's Hospital; $50,000 to three individuals and $10,000 for the care of his cemetery property; his art collection to the St. Louis City Art Museum; and made two other bequests of personal property. The will then provides:

"All the rest, residue and remainder of my estate, of every character, wheresoever situated. I give and devise absolutely to the Board of Trustees of Washington University, in the City of St. Louis, State of Missouri. I direct that the Board of Trustees of said Washington University shall have full authority to apply and use said fund and properties as in the discretion of said board may be best for the interests of said university."

Gratitude Expressed by Hadley.

Chancellor Hadley of Washington University, when told of the bequest, said: "The trustees will be very grateful for this gift. There are many useful purposes to which the money could be put."

Wainwright's will says as to his two nearest relatives, "I remember my nieces, Dorothy Baker Stimpson and Ellen Baker Kretschmar (now Mrs. Thomas May), but leave them nothing."

Mrs. Stimpson is the wife of the Rev. K. A. Stimpson, an Epicopal clergyman, formerly of St. Louis, now living in Paris. Mrs. May, who lives in Pittsburg, was at Wainwright's bedside when he died in the Buckingham Hotel eight days ago.

Art to City Museum.

The will provides, in connection with the art bequests, that if the present method and system of control of the Art Museum shall be changed, so as to place the management and maintenance of the museum under the supervision and control of the municipal government of the City of St. Louis, or of the State of Missouri, under any ordinance, act or law, then the works of art shall go, instead, to Washington University.

The Personal Bequests.

The personal bequests of money are: To William A. Haren, manager of Wainwright's business affairs, $25,000; to Mrs. Dorothy Brown, wife of Carroll Brown of Portland, Me., $15,000, and to Jeanne Labouret of Paris, $10,000.

As to Haren and Mrs. Brown, it was provided in the will, dated April 8, 1922, that if aWinwright survived them, the bequests should be void. As to eJanne Labouret, it is stated that "her whereabouts may be ascertained through Monroe & Co., bankers, of Paris."

Mr. and Mrs. Brown, it was learned, are long-time friends of Wainwright. Jeanne Labouret, who was 10 years old when the will was made, two and a half years ago, is a French war orphan, in whom Wainwright became interested during his latest stay in Paris.

In a codicil added to the will March 1, 1923, Wainwright provided that Rosalind Velva Kendall, whom he at one time adopted legally, should have no share or interest in his estate.

At the time of the adoption, it

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.

WILLIAM WRIGLEY, who has made millions in the manufacture of chewing gum, has found another fortune on his famous Santa Catalina Island off the Southern California Coast. He said today that an old silver mine has been discovered on the island and already 10 carloads of ore, realizing $6500 to each carload, had been shipped to San Francisco.

There will be no gold rush, however, as Wrigley owns all of the island.

"It looks like a big thing," said Wrigley, "and I'm going to develop it, not that I care so much for the profits but simply to develop the natural resources. The mine is about 25 miles from my home and about 2000 feet up in the hills."

When found, he said, the only tunnel was covered with dense underbrush. The mine has probably been lost for 60 years, he added.

COOLIDGE WOULD BALANCE BOOKS BEFORE CUTTING TAX

President Wants to See How Government Stands at the End of Fiscal Year, June 30.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—The administration does not feel that the question of tax reduction should be taken up until the Government's books are balanced at the close of the fiscal year, which ends next June 30.

Until that time it is the opinion of President Coolidge that the actual amount of reduction possible cannot be determined and scientific action is thus impossible.

Meanwhile, the President had no intention of calling a session of the new Congress, March 4. It was stated today at the White House he would not call a special session unless he considered it very necessary.

Taxation, the President feels, should be among the first problems to be considered by the new Congress, which, if not called into extra session, will meet for the first time in December, 1925.

Mr. Coolidge expects such farm legislation as is necessary to be enacted at the coming short session of Congress.

MAIL HOLDUP CASE PLACED IN HANDS OF JURY AT QUINCY

DEFENDANTS IN MARSHAL'S CUSTODY

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

QUINCY, Ill., Nov 14.—The case of "Dinty" Colbeck, Egan gang leader, and eight others, charged with the $53,134 robbery of the Postmaster and his assistant at Staunton, Ill., May 26, 1923, went to the jury in Federal Court here at 11:50 a. m today

Immediately after the retirement of the jurors the bonds of the defendants were declared vacated and they were placed in the custody of United States Marshal McClure.

The jury did not go out for lunch, but sent out at 1 o'clock for sandwiches and coffee.

Charges Against Men.

Eight of the defendants including Colbeck, are charged in four counts which include robbery of the mails, assault upon a custodian of the mails, aiding and abetting in or concealing the theft from the mails, and possession of the matter stolen from the mails. The ninth defendant, Gus Dietmeyer, who was not mentioned in evidence bearing directly on the robbery, was charged only with the first two counts, the Court taking counts three and four from the jury with respect to Dietmeyer.

In the instructions to the jury, which began at 11 a. m., United States District Judge Fitzhenry told the jury that any person who aids, abets, counsels or commands the commission of a crime against the United States is a principal. It is on this charge that Dietmeyer's fate is with the jury, even though there was no evidence to show that he participated in the actual robbery. Some evidence that he participated in preliminary plans and in the speed trial of the robbers' car was offered. If the jury finds he took part in these first plans it may find him guilty as a principal under the instructions of the Court.

Court's Instructions.

"All the defendants in this case are to be charged as principals to the crime," the Court said. "There are no accessories before the fact. If any one of them are found to have aided, abetted or otherwise caused the commission of the crime he is a principal."

The Court gave the usual charge on the testimony of the witnesses and on the weight to be attached to what they said, warning the jurors that they may take into consideration the attitude of the witness on the stand, his feelings for or against the persons in the case and other facts in forming a judgment as to the reliability of the testimony.

"Three of the defendants in this case have seen fit to go on the stand and testify in their own behalf," the Court said, referring to Hackethal, Colbeck and Ryan.

"They were exercising their legal right. In determining the weight to be accorded to their testimony you will apply the same tests as you do to the other testimony, bearing in mind the fact that the defendants are interested in the final determination of the case.

"Others of the defendants have not taken the stand, but you are to draw no conclusion of guilt from the fact that they did not appear."

Charge on Alibi Defense.

The alibi defense interposed by some of the defendants drew a special charge from the Court. An alibi, he pointed out, was a legitimate defense and once established meant complete vindication.

"Yet," he said, "such a defense is one of the easiest to interpose in a case of this character and the hardest to disprove. You are instructed to consider the evidence upon which the alibi defense is built with great caution."

The diametric opposition of testimony for witnesses for the Government and defense was the subject of a charge by the Court, who declared it possible that some of the witnesses testified falsely. He told the jurors that if they found a witness had testified falsely in a material fact they were at liberty to reject any or all of his testimony except it be corroborated in some of its details by competent evidence.

Further Instructions.

In view of the fact that the chief evidence against the defendants is the testimony of Ray Renard and Thomas Saatkamp, admitted accomplices in the crime, the Court instructed the jury that such testimony, while admissible, should be received with caution unless corroborated in substantial detail by the testimony of others not connected with the crime.

"Renard and Saatkamp were accomplices in the commission of this crime," the Court said. "They are competent witnesses. If you, on consideration of their testimony and of the other evidence, believe the defendants guilty you will be warranted in bringing in a verdict of guilty."

The Court expressed no opinion on the worth of the evidence as may be done in Federal Court.

Arguments of counsel occupied five hours last night, five attorneys speaking for the defense and two for the Government and the time being divided equally between the two sides. The night session lasted until 11:20 p. m.

Prosecutor Assails Policemen Who Testified for Defense.

St. Louis Police Department officers who testified for the defense were condemned vigorously by District Attorney Thomas Williamson in his argument to the jury last evening. As was told yesterday, one of the police witnesses, Sergt. Peter McGauley, testified in support of "Red" Lanham's alibi, and four, Capt. William Stinger, Detective Lieutenant W. C. Murphy, Lieut. William Walton and Detective Sergeant Leonard Ising, testified that the character of Ray Renard, chief witness for the Government, was bad.

Making an apparent appeal to the State pride of the Illinois jurors, Williamson said:

"Of the nine defendants, eight are from St. Louis and only one is from our own State. This one, Frank Hackethal, was merely a tool used by the Missouri men to get information which enabled them to rob an Illinois postmaster.

"The eight defendants are from St. Louis, where the police force is of such a character that its members can be used to make alibis and for other purposes of the defense. They are of St. Louis and the conceptive genius which gave birth to the robbery plan was of such high character that they saw the utility of keeping themselves out of the thing until the last minute—they saw the utility of using the man Hackethal as their tool."

Repeatedly Criticises Police.

The voice of the vigorous Williamson trumpeted through the corridors of the Federal Building as he traced the robbery of the postmaster and attacked the defense which had been set up. Much of his fire was directed at the alibi witnesses of Oliver Daugherty, Lanham and Hackethal, and repeatedly he took occasion to criticise the St. Louis policemen who testified.

Sergt. Ising came in for particular criticism.

"If Ising is a sample of the men who compose the police force of St. Louis," said District Attorney Williamson, "there appears to be good reason why Illinois must suffer from the St. Louisans who come to our State to rob our mail and plunder its guardians."

The District Attorney complimented James E. Carroll of St. Louis, counsel for Colbeck and the four others known particularly as Egan gangsters. He said that Carroll's efforts in the cross-examination of Renard had been remarkable, yet that Renard had met the test.

"Such brilliancy, such tact, such an uncanny ability to search the heart of a witness, I have never seen surpassed in an examiner," Williamson said. "He searched Renard's heart and found there the truth. We admit that Renard has been a bad man. We could not expect to get the inside story of a robbery from a clergyman, a business or professional man of standing. Renard spoke the truth, and he came through the severest test that could have been applied."

Other Lawyers Who Spoke.

Williamson in his closing plea for conviction, stood close to the jury box and spread his arms wide. William Baer of St. Louis, Edward Pree of Springfield, Tom Rowe Jr. of St. Louis and John E. Wall of Quincy, defense lawyers, followed him in order.

"Will you believe the whitewashed felon, Renard?" Wall demanded. "Will you give credence to this gun toter, this car thief, this confessed robber of the mails? You have heard in this court the testimony of men whose duty it is to ferret out crime and hunt down criminals—such are the police of St. Louis. We find these men coming here to tell us that the character of Renard is bad."

Similar references to the weight of the testimony of the policemen for the defense were made by other defense attorneys. Harold Bandy of Granite City, last of the defense speakers, finished at 10 p. m. Special Prosecutor Dyer of St. Louis then made his final summing up of the Government's case, speaking more than an hour, and giving a detailed review of the testimony of Government witnesses.

TWO FUGITIVES IN WOODY MURDER BROUGHT BACK

Edward Silvey and Albert Gregori Caught Through Alertness of St. Francois County Deputy Sheriff.

All four men charged by a Coroner's verdict with the murder of Police Sergeant Robert E. Woody, when he and a patrolman surprised them in an attempted holdup at Fair avenue and Penrose street, early last Sunday, now are in custody here.

One had surrendered on the spot and named his companions, while a second was caught nearby within an hour. The other two were arrested at Bismarck, Mo., yesterday, through the alertness of a Deputy Sheriff of St. Francois County, William A. Black of Elvins. These men are Edward Silvey, 21 years old, and Albert Gregori, 20.

Black, who had known Silvey since the latter was a boy in St. Francois County, read in newspapers that the pair were being sought for the Woody murder. He told friends in Elvins, where he is also City Marshal, to let him know if Silvey came to town. Yesterday morning word was taken to Black that Silvey and two other men had stopped in a dilapidated car in front of the home of Silvey's uncle, but had driven on when they found the uncle was not alone.

Arrested by Deputy Sheriff.

The deputy followed the machine to Bismarck and encountered Silvey and Gregori leaving a barber shop, at 9 a. m., after they had inquired about the next southbound train. Their driver had left town. They surrendered without resistance, belying the police circulars that had warned they were daring bandits—"Take no chances in effecting their capture."

City detectives drove to St. Francois County and brought the prisoners back last night. They were lodged apart, Silvey at Central District and Gregori at the Soulard Street Station, awaiting questioning by Chief of Detectives Hoagland. The detectives reported that Gregori had admitted on the way here that he was one of the party of four bandits who committed a series of holdups Saturday night and early Sunday, culminating in the killing of Sergt. Woody, but denied that he fired any shots. Silvey has refused to make any statement.

When word of the capture of the two men was received the Police Board was about to fix the amount of reward to be paid for their arrest. This business was not finished, but it is believed Black will be rewarded. He was once instrumental in having Silvey sent to the reformatory for burglary.

Confession Obtained From One.

The others under arrest, charged with participation in the murder, are Nicholas Hare, who confessed to the series of holdups, naming the others, and Clay Cratty, who denies knowledge of the robberies or shooting.

Sergt. Woody was buried with full police honors in St. Matthew's Cemetery yesterday. Patrolman Henry Wiese, who was with him when he was shot, drove behind the hearse in the police car in which they had ridden that night.

The bride's uncle, Warren McElroy, shoe manufacturer, testified to the impulsive nature of his niece. She did not always give the serious thought to things that she should, he said. Eugene Cuendat, city registrar and neighbor of the Collinses, said he knew her all his life and testified to her retired life and impulsive disposition.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.

LIMBURGER cheese is 133 per cent dearer in the current market than it was in 1913 and not half so pungent. Cheese experts insist it is not made with the care it formerly was and that less attention is paid to aging it.

FASCIST DEPUTY INSULTED, FIGHTS DUEL, IS WHIPPED

TURIN, Italy, Nov 14.—A duel with swords was fought today at Vercelli between the Fascisti Deputy, Belloni, and the Liberal Deputy, Rossini, in which the former was wounded six times.

Deputy Rossini was untouched. The combatants remained unreconciled after the meeting at arms, which was due to alleged insulting epithets applied by the Liberal Deputy to Deputy Belloni.

Conn., three years ago and had been much in her company since that time. They are now living, he said, in the Pintard Apartments, No. 650 Main street, New Rochelle.

Although Jones refused to discuss the marriage with newspaper men, he discussed it briefly yesterday afternoon with Samuel H. Swinburne, who, as attorney, has represented him in real estate deals. He told the attorney he was going to take up certain statements made in a published account of the marriage and would report back to him.

He did not return, and Swinburne said he did not represent him in any way connected with the marriage. He added that he had known Jones for some time and that, while he had been employed as a bus driver at the Travers Island clubhouse of the New York Athletic Club, he had not been a taxicab driver, so far as the attorney knew. He said Jones had not been engaged at any occupation recently and that he owned considerable property.

At the home of Philip Rhinelander the butler said last night his employer was "out of the city." The man said he had heard nothing of a wedding in the family. Efforts to obtain information from other members of the family also were unsuccessful.

Bridegroom Wealthy.

Young Rhinelander is independently wealthy, having been left about $48,000 under his mother's will and having come into a legacy of $336,127 when he became of age in June, 1923. The latter sum was left by his kinsman and namesake, Leonard Kip Rhinelander.

Although the father's view of the marriage is not known, the family in the past has been much disturbed over marriages which did not meet with social favor. Leonard Kip Rhinelander's uncle William C. Rhinelander of Schenectady, was cut off with $1000 under the will of William Rhinelander, grandfather of Leonard Kip, because in 1876 he eloped with Margaret McGinnis, a seamstress employed by his mother.

Young Rhinelander is a member of the Huguenot Society, Sons of the Revolution, Society of Colonial Wars, Nicholas Society, Riding Club, Society of the War of 1812, and Badminton Club.

His millionaire father, long a leader of society, is a member of many clubs, including Union, Downtown, Baltusrol Golf, Calumet, Tuxedo, Badminton and Metropolitan. Among societies of which he is a member are the Huguenot Society and Sons of the Revolution.

Mrs. Adelaide Kip Rhinelander, who lost her life in the explosion of an alcohol lamp at Tuexdo in 1915, was a granddaughter of Mayor Brady. She was wealthy in her own right and for some years had been a society leader and favorite.

CHIEF ORDERS INQUIRY IN TESTIMONY OF POLICE

An official inquiry was begun today into the "conduct and testimony" of the five St. Louis Police Department officers, above the rank of patrolman, who appeared Wednesday as witnesses for the defense in the trial at Quincy, Ill., of "Dinty" Colbeck and eight associates, Egan gangsters and others, for the Staunton mail robbery.

Chief of Police O'Brien directed Chief of Detectives Hoagland to prepare a report on the matter. Hoagland, who went to Quincy under subpena as a witness, but was not called by the defense, heard the testimony of the others. He returned to St. Louis last evening.

Chief Hoagland said today that pending his report and official action thereon, he could make no comment on the testimony of the police witnesses. "Except to say," he added, "that I was somewhat astonished."

Condemns Police Witnesses.

District Attorney Williamson, in his plea to the jury at Quincy last evening, condemned the police witnesses for the defense, and spoke of St. Louis as a city "where the police force is of such a character that its members can be used to make alibis, and for other purposes of the defense." He attacked Detective Sergt. Leonard Ising particularly, saying that if Ising were a fair sample of the St. Louis Police Department, "there appears to be good reason why Illinois must suffer from the St. Louisans who come into our State to rob and plunder."

Chief Hoagland left Quincy after being informed by the defense lawyers that they did not wish to put him on the stand. If he had testified, he might have said, as four others of the police witnesses did, that the character of Ray Renard, the Government's chief witness, was bad. But he would then have been asked, by the Government's lawyers, who Renard's associates were. And he probably would have replied, naming some of the men on trial as pals of Renard.

Witness Supported Alibi.

The Government lawyers tried to get one of the police witnesses, Detective Lieut. W. C. Murphy, to state that the defendants were associates of Renard, but he did not name any of them, though he named some others not involved in the present case. It is believed that Hoagland's recollection would have been keener on this point, and that the defense lawyers realized this when they discarded him as a witness.

In the inquiry instituted by Chief O'Brien, it is understood that the police witnesses will not be blamed in any way for going to Quincy and testifying, as they were under subpena and were required to do so. The inquiry will relate rather to their demeanor as witnesses, and the attitude which they appeared to take toward the Federal Government's effort to convict the St. Louis gangsters; also to any possible association with the defendants outside the court room.

One of the police witnesses, Sergt. Peter McGauley, testified in support of "Red" Lanham's alibi. The others, who testified to Renard's bad character, were Capt. William Stinger, Lieut. William Walton, Lieut. Murphy and Sergt. Ising. Of the five, only Murphy and Ising are subordinates of Hoagland, but his statement will relate to them all.

WOMAN TEACHER GIVEN MEDAL BY GRATEFUL MEXICANS

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14.—Miss Nora Sterry, principal of a school in what yesterday was the quarantined pneumonic plague district of Los Angeles, is wearing today a gold medal, symbolic of the gratitude of the residents of the district. Miss Sterry, who had taught in the district for 12 years, went through the quarantine lines when they were established to aid the residents, Mexicans, who had confidence in her.

When she entered the plague-srticken district, she raised the American flag over the school house and made the school the center of new hope for the 1500 Mexicans who, shut off from the rest of the city, were panic stricken. She comforted them and convinced them the plague would be conquered. She established a kitchen in the school and prepared meals for those without food. Mexican musicians were recruited and each afternoon a concert was given in the school yard.

Miss Sterry, in departing yesterday from the district after the quarantine had been lifted, was surrounded by grateful residents, girls bearing flowers and, as the musicians played, the medal, paid for with pennies collected in the neighborhood, was pinned on her breast.

Health officials say the disease has been eradicated from the area.

The recs showed, Egan asserted, that of the money received for sale their stock, the Hawkins comy had appropriated for its own up to the time of his audit 312. Egan said dividends nting to $335,593 had been to stockholders in societies were operating, and almost in dividends was paid for perating organizations.

Audit Rejected.

orge B. Buist of Fort Wayne, another accountant, testified n audit of the Hawkins comby him in 1921 was rejected company official because it have had a decidedly detrial effect on the sale of stock. examination, he related, ed the parent company was g salesmen enormously high missions; he quoted a rate of 000 in commissions for sale of 000 in stock. He declared the ated concerns had been operat a consistent loss when he his audit.

mes E. Power, who said he from St. Louis, broker for S. Hawkins, fugitive head he mortgage company, was an portant witness today. Letters telegrams exchanged between wkins and Power were introd as evidence, purporting to e that Hawkins had knowledge the financial precariousness of loan concerns of which he was ing control, and the fact that ation of both these concerns being stopped by the author- These companies were the ed Home Builders of St. Louis the Co-operative League of erica, Pittsburg.

dozen men and women from rts of the United States re- on the witness stand how had turned over their savings the glittering certificates of promoted by the Hawkins rn.

One of these witnesses was Mrs. n Pearson, who is 73 years old, feeble. She had put her $3200 Hawkins stock, on which she been guaranteed full protec- and regular dividends of 8 cent a year. When the Dis- Attorney inquired where she ed, she answered faintly: "I no home. I am compelled to out, and my home is wher- I happen to find work."

Pearson related that she investment advice of William M. Jones, secretary-treasurer of the Indiana State Board of Agriculture, whereupon he induced her to take her money out of the Indiana Rural Credits Association and put it in Hawkins securities, giving her a receipt for the stock she traded in. She said Jones had been her neighbor near Fairmount, Ind.

Widows Lost Their All.

There were other elderly women, mostly widows, testifying who had lost their all in the crash, and some of them now are hard pressed for means of a livelihood. But there was one among them, Mrs. Belle Kendall of Farmersburg, Ind., who invested $1500, but retrieved part of it. Indeed, she was the only one yet reported to have salvaged anything from the wreckage.

"The salesman was so fidgety that it worried me," Mrs. Kendall explained. "He squirmed in his seat so much while selling to me that I thought his chair wasn't setting well, and so I gave him an easier chair. His nervousness weighed on my mind after he had gone, and so I took my stock to a banker at Twelve Points, a village near Terre Haute, and sold it to him for $1000. I had to take a loss of $500, but did right well, don't you think?"

The District Attorney admitted that she had performed an extraordinary feat in finding a banker "to buy that stuf."

Experience of Another Woman.

Details of a $500 investment in the parent concern in 1920 were told by Mrs. M. M. Cloyd of Richmond, Ind. Mrs. Cloyd said she was urged by letter to transfer her Hawkins stock for an equal amount of stock in the Detroit Welfare Loan Society. Following completion of the transaction, Mrs. Cloyd said, she investigated the latter company and found there never had been a firm in Detroit bearing that name.

Unfulfilled promises to stockholders largely constitute the basis of the Government's charge of conspiracy to defraud by use of the mails.

Letters warning Hawkins investors against permitting "swindlers" to pry loose their Hawkins stock for other issues of a "less secure" nature were read by District Attorney Elliott. In one of the Hawkins form letters issued from Portland, Ind., a reward of $1000 was offered any Hawkins stockholder who provided evidence against any persons attempting thus to defraud them. In other letters, stockholders were urged by the company to throw their subsidiary stock into a giant pool to "keep the stock out of the hands of preying brokers and to aid the investments in maintaining their high values."

Among the defendants is William Sacks of St. Louis, politician and former banker. Sacks was a trustee of the United Home Builders, a housing trust, control of which he sold to the Hawkins company for a consideration to be paid out of liquidation revenue of the concern. The Government will attempt to show this was a violation of his trusteeship and that part of the transaction was negotiated through the mails.

"RADIO SPONGER" JAILED

German Given 17 Days for Installing Set Without License.

By the Associated Press.

MUNICH, Germany, Nov. 14.—Seventeen days in jail was the sentence imposed by a local Judge on a "radio sponger," who installed a receiving set in his home without the stipulated Government license.

Many others, who have illegally erected radio apparatus, will be brought into court in the near future, the authorities say.

was stated that Wainwright planned to provide for the musical education of Miss Kendall. Wainwright's friends here understood that the adoption was set aside legally, but the codicil does not so state. It says:

"Whereas, on or about the twenty-seventh day of October, 1922, before the Surrogate of the County of New York, and State of New York, I, in compliance with the statute relating to the adoption of children, duly adopted Rosalind Velva Kendall, she being over the age of 21 years.

"So that there may be no misunderstanding of my complete intention with regard to the adoption of said Rosalind Velva Kendall, I do hereby certify and declare that I have made various provisions for the said Rosalind Velva Kendall during my lifetime, and that it is not my desire or intention that by reason of such adoption, or otherwise, said Rosalind Velva Kendall should in any way share in my estate, upon my decease.

Object of the Codicil.

"I am advised, inasmuch as I leave a last will and testament expressing my complete wishes and intentions with regard to my estate at my decease, that the said Rosalind Velva Kendall has no legal interest in my estate at my death, but I make this codicil to my said last will and testament for the express purpose of completely declaring it to be my intention that whether or not she might have any such interest by reason of any statute or by reason of such adoption, that it is my express intention, after careful consideration, that she have no interest whatsoever in my estate, at the time of my decease.".

The will constitutes Max Kotany, William A. Haren and Herman C. Stifel as executors, without bond. the witnesses to the original will were C. Norman Jones and Henry Nicolaus. The codicil, executed in New York, was witnessed by three residents of that city. The filing of the will today was by Attorney Marion C. Early.

The sum of $10,000 is left to Bellefontaine Cemetery Association for the perpetual care and maintenance of Wainwright's lot, on which the family mausoleum stands. The ashes of Wainwright's body were placed in the mausoleum following cremation.

The art works listed in the will are:

Paintings—Shaefer, Girl and Pigeons; Lynch, Flower Girl; Harpignies, The Village Church; Ziem, The Grand Canal; Pasini, Exterior of a Building, and Two Arabs with Horses; Rico, Venetian Scene; Emil van Marcke, Le Moulin d'Eau; Tito Conti, Girl Mandolin Player and Eichhbaum, Portrait of Mrs. Wainwright.

Aquarelles: Isabay, The Procession; Ziem, Setting Sun; Ziem, The Harbor at Marseilles; Barye, The Old Lion; De Camps, The Hunter; Maris, The Dunes; Israels, Children at Sea Shore; Weissenbruck, Landscape.

Mrs. Stimpson and Mrs. May, the nieces who were not made beneficiaries by the will, are the daughters of the late Edward Baker and the late Mrs. Katie Augusta Baker, who was Wainwright's sister. They inherited $800,000 or more from the estate of their mother, who died in 1921.

The estate, it was learned, includes two-thirds of the stock in the Wainwright Building, at the northwest corner of Seventh and Chestnut streets, which was built by Wainwright's mother.

At the time when the will was made, the relations of the Art Museum with the city government were under discussion, and proposals, from city hall sources, has been made, looking toward legislation to lessen the control of the Museum Board and place the institution more in the hands of the city administration. Wainwright disapproved the idea of "turning the museum over to politicians," and therefore provided that if the system of control were changed, his bequest of art works should be diverted to the university. Nothing came of the city hall proposal at the time, and it has not been revived since.

THREE KIDNAPED AFTER HOLDUP OF RAILWAY STATION

Seven robbers, armed with 14 revolvers and three sawed-off shotguns, held up the Baltimore & Ohio station at Salem, Ill., at 12:40 a. m. today, rifled four mail pouches and kidnaped the night agent and two Salem youths, driving 70 miles to East St. Louis.

The three captives, released on Black Bridge over Cahokia Creek at 4 a. m., told of a wild ride from Salem at 60 miles an hour during which the robbers fired a fusillade of shots at an automobile which blocked their path. After releasing their prisoners, the robbers drove toward McKinley Bridge with $13.45 in cash. A check of the rifled pouches today established that nothing of value was taken from them.

"Covered" by Four Revolvers.

The agent, Howard C. Hudson, said he was seated at his telegraph instrument, when four revolvers in the hands of two men were thrust through a broken window into his face. A third man, who had slipped through a rear door, pressed a revolver against his back.

At the time, William Williams, 17, and Sherman Webb, 18, of Salem, were in the waiting room conducting a harmonica duet beside the station stove, and were interrupted by the two outside men as they passed through to join their accomplice. The youths and the agent were compelled to lie on the floor.

The three robbers emptied Hudson's cash drawer and cut open four mail pouches examining the contents. Frequently they asked for "the payroll," but Hudson assured them that no such thing existed.

The three prisoners were marched to a Buick automobile parked behind the station, where four more men were waiting. Each of the robbers had two revolvers, besides the three shotguns and a quantity of ammunition. Apparently they had concluded there was nothing worth taking from the pouches.

Fire at Auto.

Leaving Salem, the machine moved over a circuitous route, speeding through Odin, Vandalia, Greenville and Collinsville. A mile west of Collinsville, Hudson related, a Ford coupe blocked the road and the robbers opened fire, smashing the windshield and riddling the tonneau as their car shot past. Whether anyone was injured has not been established.

The robbers and their captives were in East St. Louis before the holdup was discovered by the crew of a freight train, who found the station signal set against them and went in to investigate. Ordinarily, Hudson would have signaled them to move on.

At Salem today it was stated that payrolls for various firms are received by the banks today, but they do not come through the B. & O. station.

Hudson is the same B. & O. operator who was held up at Sandoval Oct. 9 and robbed of $50. The Salem station was held up once before on the night of April 12 last when two men took $70 from a former night agent.

"FRIENDS'" ART ADVICE NETS BIG COMMISSION ON FAKES

PARIS, Nov. 14.—That a large proportion of the European antiques at present in American museums or in the hands of art collectors are fakes, was stated yesterday by Jean Vigouroux who, for years, managed the New York branch of the store of the late Joseph Demotte, antique dealer, and is now being sued by the estate of his former employer for funds he is alleged to have embezzled.

"American art collectors never admit they have been deceived and this is the reason why they do not complain," he said.

It is not only Americans who are taken in by clever art fakers, however, but also such institutions as the Louvre Museum. Workmen employed by Demotte, when cross-examined, admitted that only the busts of the Kings of the Parthenon, the pride of the French Museum, are genuine. The rest of these famous statues are made in dealers' workshops, while, of the renowned Lasquenets du Barrios, only the calves are genuine and the trunks and heads were manufactured in the same workshops.

"American amateurs, when buying antiques, are always suspicious if they are approached by dealers, but their suspicions are allayed when they are advised by people prominent in New York society to buy some of the wonderful finds. They believe the advice is disinterested but these 'disinterested friends' always obtain large commissions, sometimes as much as 50 per cent, from the sale of these fakes," Vigouroux continued.

The Marquis Boni de Castellane, who was called as a witness for the defense, admitted that this practice is common in the best society but stated that these intermediaries as a rule do not know whether the antiques are genuine or faked.

Metropolitan Museum Head Believes Statue Authentic.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Robert W. de Forrest, president of the board of trustees of the Metropolitan Museum, discussing the testimony of Jean Vigouroux in Paris that the St. Paul statue is a fake, said yesterday:

"I believe that there is a statue of St. Paul by Luca della Robbia in the museum. I have nothing to say about it except that I have every reason to believe that it is thoroughly authentic."

George Blumenthal, a member of the Purchasing Committee, refused to make any comment on the authenticity of the statue, saying "Vigouroux's word is good for nothing. I refuse to make any statement concerning Vigouroux or anything he may say."

to view them were held back by a special detail of police from the Chicago Avenue Station. One of the largest of the designs was a heart, built of 2000 American beauty buds, and bearing in the center the single word, "Husband."

Another design, seven feet tall, represented a broken pillar done in white carnations and was inscribed "Our Pal." The most spectacular of all, however, was a blanket of roses, lilies and orchids, on which the employes of the Schofield company, in whose shop O'Bannion was killed, had worked all day yesterday. It was 10 by 7 feet.

Chief among the mourners were the widow, Mrs. Viola Kaniff O'Bannion, and his father, Charles O'Bannion. Eight of his boon companions, men whom he liked to have about him in life, were his pallbearers They were Louis Altiere, on whom the mantle of his leadership has temporarily fallen; Earl Weiss, George Moran, Daniel McCarthy, Frank Gusenberg, Matt Foley, Max Eisen and Vincent Drucci. The services in the chapel were short and simple. There were prayers for the soul of the departed and sacred music by a six-piece orchestra. Then the eight pallbearers carried out the great gleaming casket and the procession started for the cemetery.

Throngs View Body.

So heavily banked with the floral designs was the entire undertaking establishment that only a narrow lane, barely sufficient for the passage of two persons abreast, was left. Through this, two lines moved during the morning hours preceding the services, just as they had moved for the previous 36 hours—one line moving in as the other moved out.

A mammoth funeral was held yesterday for Michael Merlo, Italian labor leader and friend of O'Bannion. It was Merlo's name that was mentioned by one of the three slayers a moment before the florist was shot dead, and the police have held the theory that Merlo's henchmen, released by the death of their leader, may have been the killers.

At the time the funeral reached the cemetery today, the Chief of Police and the Mayor were conferring on a program to curb the power of the gunmen gangs. They announced that a drive would be made against the warlike elements of the underworld. A renewal of the order to "shoot to kill," any known gangmen who resists arrest or questioning, was the Chief's first order in the new campaign. This proved effective several years ago.

Louis Altiere was the direct cause of this command. When he told an interviewer that he was ready to "shoot it out" with O'Bannion's killers, and die smiling if he could get one or two of them, adding that he was well armed and prepared at all times, the ire of the Mayor was aroused.

Ernest Breckholz, 50 years old, jumped four floors to his death from a window near State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe's office yesterday. Breckholz had previously asked to be presented to Prosecutor Crowe, saying he carried important information. He carried a membership card of the Street Cleaners' Union, of which organization Michael Carrozzo, sought as a principal factor in the O'Bannon murder, is the president.

A forged, certified check for $41,000 given by O'Bannion to a confederate in settlement of a rum robbery deal, was passed on by the Federal Bureau of Investigation yesterday to the city police.

The man who took the worthless check did not complain to the police, as it represented his own share in the Sibley warehouse whisky robbery.

Whisky valued at $300,000 was stolen by the truckload from the warehouse during a period of six months. The manager of the warehouse and several others are under Federal indictment. O'Bannion is said to have bought the check for $100 from a professional forger, a member of the ring that specializes in such things. The ring had stolen, or counterfeited, the certifying apparatus of a big Boston bank.

ASKS CITY TO PAY FOR 1906 SEWER DAMAGE

Theodore W. Mertens Says Claim Was Never Paid in Full.

An appeal for compensation from the city for property damage caused by the breaking of a sewer in 1906 was made before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment today by Theodore W. Mertens of 1812 Cora avenue, for 50 years an ice and coal dealer in the city, once wealthy, but now "broke."

He declared that after paying the city a total of $150,000 in water bills and taxes, he was now seeking money to re-establish himself in the ice business, his plant at Fifteenth and Branch streets having been lost two years ago through bankruptcy.

Mertens said the damage to his plant in 1906 was fixed at $8400, and that the city promised to pay, but let the claim run unsatisfied for several years. When he finally brought suit in 1916 he was told the statute of limitations prevented him from recovering. Two years ago, he related, the city offered him a settlement of $2500, but withheld $1700 for an unpaid water bill and compelled his acceptance by keeping the water at his ice plant turned off until the $1700 was paid. He exhibited numerous old newspaper clippings describing him as the "Ice King of St. Louis" and declared that, although he was once worth $500,000, he was now penniless.

Mayor Kiel, after his plea, took the position that the city ought yet to recognize his claim if any legal method for doing so could be found. Comptroller Nolte, however, said further action would be impossible because no records now exist to show what the damage was and because Mertens had released the city from further claims when he accepted the $2500 settlement.

POLITICS, CHARGE OF OIL LEASE DEFENSE

Doheny's Attorney Argues Somebody Was Sleeping While Outside Wells Drained Field.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 14.—Defense arguments in the Government suit against the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Co. and Edward L. Doheny, its controlling factor, for cancellation of the $100,000,000 leases and contracts in Elk Hills (Cal.) naval oil reserve, were opened in the Federal Court here today by Frank J. Hogan of Washington. Hogan began with a charge that the Government attorneys in their arguments yesterday did not adhere to the Government bill of complaint.

"The arguments were quite distinct and different from the bill of complaint," Hogan declared, following this by detailed points.

By stipulation of counsel, Hogan introduced figures bearing upon testimony concerning royalties fixed in the Pan-American contracts and leases and the regular royalties fixed by the Government in other leases. The figures showed that up to last September the Pan-American had delivered to Government account royalties of 804,006 barrels, while under the regular royalties the delivery would have been only 620,258 barrels.

Executive Order.

Referring to the executive order of May 31, 1921, transferring control of the naval oil reserve from the Navy to the Interior Department, Hogan asserted that this was drafted by E. C. Finney, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, revamped by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Theodore Roosevelt and by the latter carried to the President for signature. He remarked on the absence of the name of the then Secretary of the Interior, Albert B. Fall, from this schedule of events.

Attacking the conspiracy charge in the Government's bill of complaint, defense counsel said: "It was utilized for two purposes, first, to bescirch the characters of certain people and, second, to change the political complexion of this country. In the first, it was temporarily successful; in the second, it was disastrously unsuccessful.

Higan asserted that prior to the Fall regime in the Interior Department the Government naval oil lands had lain idle while adjacent private company holding drained the underlying reserves of fuel. He said he did not criticise the private companies in this regard, but he did criticise the Government officials responsible, and he added: "Somebody slumbered while this golden stream poured out of the naval oil reserves."

Government's Contentions in Argument Closing Case.

Argument of the Government's case was opened with the presentation of briefs of fact and law by Owen J. Roberts, and was concluded with arguments of law by former Senator Atlee Pomerene.

The stand of officials of the oil company in refusing to testify relative to the contested leases and contracts was assailed by Pomerene in attacking a statement made at the opening of the trial that the defendants were pleased that the case was out of partisan politics and in open court, where the truth might be learned.

"I wonder whether or not we have all the facts?" the attorney questioned. "Two or three witnesses have been called by the defendants, and I wonder if they were wholly unbiased in their testimony."

The defense contention that secrecy was required in connection with the Pearl Harbor (Hawaii) fuel and oil storage base because it was a war plan, also was attacked by the attorney.

"Were So Solicitous."

"I wonder if it was war plans that they were so solicitous about? I wonder if it was not Doheny and Fall plans?" he said.

Pomerene declared that it was impossible to conceal the building of tanks at Pearl Harbor from the public and that it was never intended that the actual construction work should be a war plan.

Particular emphasis was laid on the $100,000 Doheny loan to Fall an din return the former Senator stated Doheny got a property which Doheny himself estimated would yield his company $100,000,000.

"I was troubled with pimples and blackheads for four or five years. The pimples were very large and red and would fester and itch and burn. They were scattered all over my face and were both uncomfortable and embarrassing. My face was disfigured.

"I tried different remedies but to no avail. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using it a few days I noticed an improvement so purchased more, which completely healed me." (Signed) E. H. Bollman, R. 3, Box 28, Bland, Mo.

NOT MRS. CROKER'S KIN 'PRINCESS' NOW SAYS

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—On the third day of testimony taking in the hearing of the larceny charges brought against "Princess" Atalia Unkalunt, otherwise known as Atalie Unkalunt and as Iva Rider, by Mrs. Lucy Benedict, daughter of George H. Ainslee, Fifth Avenue art dealer, the "Princess," reluctantly relinquished her past claims to a cousinship with Mrs. Richard Croker, when confronted on the stand with the latter's published statement that she never heard of Atalic Unkalunt.

"I am a relative by Indian parlance," she insisted however, during cross-examination by counsel for Mrs. Benedict and Ainslee, the gray-haired art dealer, who, the "Princess" has sworn, sought her hand in marriage if "only to save him from his children."

Motives of persecution were imputed to Mrs. Benedict, and a failing in chivalry to her father, in the testimony of Mrs. Catherine Parker Clivette, president of the Greenwich Village Historical Society, who introduced the "Princess" to the Ainslee family.

"I asked them why it would not have been more Christlike," Mrs. Clivette testified, "to have been less vengeful than to have had Atalie thrown into prison. Mrs. Benedict then related how her father had described the 'very charming young woman' he had invited to Ardsley. 'I detested her from the moment I saw her,' Mrs. Benedict said. 'I told my father the 'Princess' was not the kind of a woman she would have him believe her to be. I swore I would get her and I have got her.'"

A pair of opera boots figured in the day's testimony. They are alleged by the Onslees to have belonged to the late wife of the art dealer and to have been stolen by the "Princess." Mrs. Clivette and Mrs. Sarah J. Allen, of Jackson Heights, Elmhurst, testified they saw the "Princess" with the boots long before she knew the Ainsles.

KIRKWOOD MAN WINS 13 OF 14 FIRST PRIZES FOR CARNATIONS

W. A. Rowe Practically Assured of Taking Silver Cup for Sweepstakes.

W. A. Rowe of Kirkwood, triumphed over a field of national competition yesterday at the Fall Flower Show at the Coliseum, winning 13 of the 14 first prizes in the Carnation Day exhibition, and is practically assured of taking the silver cup offered as sweepstakes award for the grower winning the most first premiums.

More than 50 varieties of carnations were on display. One of them, the "Betty Lou," a heavy bloom of a deep pink color, was pronounced by experts as one of the finest types ever developed. It was introduced by Baur and Steinkamp, horticulturists of Indianapolis, Ind. A pink carnation, the "Winsome," winner of the gold medal last year at the National Flower Show, was also exhibited. A new, flesh-pink variety, the "Winter Beauty," was displayed by William Winter of Kirkwood.

Today is Violet Day, and all kinds ranging from the tiny purple variety to the type almost as large as a silver dollar will be shown.

It is anticipated by the secretary of the Flower Association, J. J. Beneke, that the attendance this year will far surpass that of previous exhibits. School children are admitted free, and this has resulted in their being twice as many in attendance as at last year's show. A large number of children from the various city institutions are visiting daily as guests of the Flower Show Association. The show is open from 11 a. m. to 11 p. m., and will continue until Sunday night.

Woman Scolds Holdup Man.

BOSTON, Nov. 14.—Faced by a revolver and a demand for money, Miss Mary G. Haviland, Boston elevated railway cashier, alone late last night in her cage, merely exclaimed "You mean thing" and took up the telephone beside her. The holdup man repeated his demand and then fled. In the till remained intact more than $100 of the night's receipts.

Parish Club to Give Play.

The Lyceum Club of St. Joseph's parish, 1220 North Eleventh street, will give a performance of "Stop Thief" at 8 o'clock tonight in the parish hall, 1439 North Eleventh street.

Memorial to John Coolidge.

PLYMOUTH, Vt., Nov. 14.—In front of the little schoolhouse which stands on the site of the school which President Coolidge attended as a boy, a flagpole was erected yesterday as a memorial to John Coolidge, great-great-grandfather of the President and a soldier in the Revolutionary War. The flagpole, which formerly graced the west wing of the Massachusetts Statehouse, was presented by the Massachusetts Sons of the Revolution.

BETTER THAN WHISKEY FOR COLDS AND FLU

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspironal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold fading away like a dream, within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night.

Many people, afflicted with sour stomach and other digestive disturbances due to fermentation, have found Pluto Water very beneficial. In thirty minutes to two hours, this harmless water physic starts flushing the intestines of long-standing accumulations. It never gripes. Dandruffy Heads Become Hairless

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. Four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

BOARD APPROVES $1,000,000 BUDGET FOR PLAZA PROPERTY

Comptroller Had Requested Action to Take Advantage of Offers Made by Owners.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment today approved a recommendation of Comptroller Nolte that the bond issue budget for 1925 include a fund of $1,000,090 for purchase of property within the area to be occupied by the plaza.

Nolte said that on numerous occasions pieces of property in the district had been offered to the city at a bargain, but opportunities to acquire it had to be lost because the city had no funds immediately available for the purpose. Three years ago, he said, the property on the northeast corner of Twelfth and Market was offered for $150,000, but now is priced at $250,000. A fund of $1,000,000, he said, would enable the city to take immediate advantage of such offers in the future. The recommendation now goes to the Citizens' Bond Issue Supervisory Committee for final approval.

SCHWEITZER FOR LAW CHANGE

Prosecuting Attorney Schweitzer, speaking before the Associated Retail Credit Men of St. Louis, at a meeting at the American Annex Hotel last night, said he intended to have introduced at the next meeting of the State Legislature a bill which would amend the existing laws governing the passing of bad checks so that not only could persons be prosecuted who received money for bad checks, but so action could be taken against those getting merchandise and various other goods for checks that were worthless.

The present law is workable to only a certain extent, Schweitzer said, but he believed his proposed amendment would make it cover all breaches. There is but one way to remedy the bad check situation, he contended, and that is to make it an offense for all persons who write a check with intent to defraud.

WETS HAIL ACQUITTAL OF HILL AS VICTORY

Assert Jury's Verdict May Be Cause of a Rewriting of Volstead Act.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Wine and cider made at home for home consumption may have whatever alcoholic content the local jury is pleased to consider non-intoxicatnig. The only guide for such a jury is an acquittal for 11 per cent wine and for cider with a kick of 2.7 per cent.

This is the outcome of Congressman Hill's triumph over the Prohibition Unit by his acquittal yesterday at the hands of a Federal jury in Baltimore. The wets hailed it as a fundamental victory—one of the most important since the Volstead act was passed. Dry leaders considered it hollow, since it did not establish any legal definition of "intoxicating in fact."

Prohibition Commissioner Haynes declared a similar case in a dry State would have caused a jury to convict, and served notice that the Prohibition Unit will not be guided by the Baltimore jury's findings. Those who make 11 per cent wine and 2.7 per cent cider at home will be prosecuted, he said, even though the manufacture is in Baltimore.

No Rule on Alcoholic Content.

The percentage of alcohol need be so high to cause a charge of law violation, but Haynes declined to say at what point of alcoholic content prosecution will begin. Neither Congress nor the courts has said definitely what is intoxicating, he argued, and, therefore, an executive department cannot.

Hill's wine and cider case comes under Section 29 of the Volstead Act, the only section to which the one-half of 1 per cent limitation for alcoholic content does not apply. Fruit juices for home use are exempted specifically,—but they must not be intoxicating in fact. Hill maintained that neither his 11 per cent wine nor his 2.7 per cent cider was intoxicating. The prohibition unit contended it was, prosecuted and lost before the jury.

Commissioner Blair's View.

Internal Revenue Commissioner Blair took the view today that the case involved nothing more than a jury's findings of the facts. This jury decided the fruit juices were not intoxicating; another in a different case might find otherwise. Haynes said no changes will be made in enforcement regulations.

Congressman Fred Britten (Rep.) of Illinois, wet leader in the House, made this comment:

"The Hill verdict bears out the contention I have made all along, that the Volstead act is ridiculous and should be amended. There was never any intention on the part of Congress to interfere with the manufacture of wines in the home for the purpose of cooking or for beverage purposes, for that matter. I would like to have some 11 per cent wine right now. Some of the best champagne is 11 per cent."

Foresee Change in Law.

A statement issued by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment said in part:

"The effect of this action by the jury in dismissing the Hill case may be far-reaching, in that it may be the direct cause of a rewriting of the Volstead act and regulations promulgated thereunder."

Attorney-General Stone said it would be impossible for the Government to appeal the Hill case. It was a jury trial and resulted in an acquittal.

Hill Says He Will Demand Passage of 2.75 Beer Bill.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15. — Congressman John Philip Hill of Baltimore, who yesterday was acquitted of charges of violations of the prohibition law by a jury in the United States Court, declared after the verdict that the verdict gave him an opportunity to go before Congress and demand modification of the Volstead act, and the passage of his 2.75 per cent beer bill, on the grounds that the Volstead act, in its present form, discriminates and is unfair.

OFFICE MANAGER CHARGED WITH LARCENY OF $144,561

Employe of Balimore Cotton Mills Concern Alleged to Have "Padded" Payroll.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 14.—Oscar A. Gustafsen, 38 years old, office manager and efficiency expert for the William E. Hooper & Sons Co., was arrested yesterday, charged with the larceny of $144,561 from the company in thefts extending over a period of four years. Gustafsen is being held for trial in default of $50,000 bail.

The arrest came, it is said, as the result of an investigation conducted for more than a month by a bonding company representatives and officers of the Hooper Mills, which manufacture cotton duck.

Gustafsen's discrepancies are said to have begun in 1921, when he was appointed to the position of office manager, and was entrusted with the office employes' payroll. For several years, it is said, the manager took no vacation, so that no one but himself had anything to do with the payrolls in his charge. About a month ago, however, investigators say, he was compelled to remain away from the office because of illness and it was discovered that the amount Gustafsen drew for these payrolls was nearly $1000 in excess of the amount needed.

HIPOLITE CO. IS SUED BY ITS FOUNDER FOR $100,000

W. H. Hipolite, Now Doing Business Under Own Name, Seeks Damages in Trade Dispute.

Suit for $100,000 damages, growing out of business differences, was filed today by W. H. Hipolite, Inc., 4300 Geraldine avenue, against the Hipolite Co., 204 Market street. Both concerns manufacture a marshmallow cream. W. H. Hipolite, the plaintiff, founded the Hipolite Co. in 1911, but left it in 1922 and organized W. H. Hipolite, Inc.

Later the Hipolite Co. filed suit to enjoin Hipolite from using his name in the marshmallow cream business, asking an accounting under a contract and seeking $50,000 damages. Circuit Judge Frey refused the accounting and damages, but ordered Hipolite to use his name on labels in a different way.

The suit filed today alleges that the Hipolite Co. then issued to the trade a purported full copy of the court decree, but which was incomplete and gave the impression the decree was entirely favorable to the Hipolite Co. and entirely unfavorable to W. H. Hipolite Inc., misleading the public into thinking Hipolite had ro right to manufacture the competitive product.

Mrs. Olive Buck, 40 years old, 6063 Kingsbury boulevard, was killed last night when an automobile she was driving overturned one mile west of Addieville, Ill., 52 miles southeast of St. Louis.

Mrs. Buck's husband, A. W. Buck, manufacturer of X-ray sundries, and Dr. and Mrs. J. T. Funkhouser, 3912A Lafayette avenue, who were in the machine with Mrs. Buck, were injured. They were brought to Missouri Baptist Sanitarium today.

The accident occurred when Mrs. Buck was forced off the hard road in attempting to pass another machine. She is believed to have lost control of her machine in turning sharply, causing the machine to turn over three times. She was thrown from the machine, suffering a fractured skull. The other occupants were pinned beneath the car, and were extricated by passing motorists. The machine Mrs. Buck was attempting to pass did not stop.

The party was returnnig from a hunting trip in Illinois at the former home of Dr. Funkhouser. While hunting, Buck suffered a slight injury to his foot and requested Mrs. Buck to drive home.

The body of Mrs. Buck was brought to undertaking parlors at 2707 North Grand boulevard today. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Woman, 75, Injured Monday, Dies at City Hospital.

Mrs. Mary Hurlbert, 75 years old, of 1223 Tyler street, died at city hospital last night of a fractured skull suffered when struck by an automobile at 12:15 p. m. Monday. Her death made the total of automobile fatalities 159 for the year, against 123 for the same period last year.

Mrs. Hurlbert, who resided at the home of the Rev. R. W. Adair pastor of the Trinity M. E. Church, was crossing Easton avenue at Newstead when knocked down by a machine driven by Robert Verschleiser, 23 years old, a salesman, of 1517 Goodfellow avenue. She was taken unconscious to the hospital, where, it was said, she had suffered a fractured skull, fractured left leg and internal injuries. Later she recovered consciousness sufficiently to give her name.

Verschleiser, who declared she became confused in the traffic and ran in front of his car, was arrested on a charge of felonious wounding and released on bond. He was rearrested following her death.

Mrs. Hurlbert was employed during the summer at a fresh air camp conducted by the Trinity Methodist Church on the St. Charles road, about three miles west of Wellston. Previously she had been employed for 12 years at the Missouri Baptist Orphans' Home at Pattonville. She is survived by only one near relative, a sister, Miss Cora McKenna, of Cape Girardeau, her former home. Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at the Baptist church at Pattonville.

Police Seek Driver Who Hit and Abandoned Pedestrian.

Two automobiles were wrecked and three men injured, two of them seriously, in a headon collision between two automobiles on Government drive in Forest Park, just west of the Municipal Zoo, at 10 a. m. today. The drivers Niel Venable, 52, a St. Louis County farmer, and Eugene Stealey, 34, of 5731 Terry avenue, each accused the other of "hogging" the road and each was charged with careless driving.

Venable, who sufered fractured ribs, and his brother-in-law, Samuel Edwards, 49, who suffered fractured knees, are in serious condition at Barnes Hospital. Stealey, who escaped with lacerations, was taken to Mounted District Station.

Henry Klapp, 58 years old, of 2204 South Fourth street, was assisted by pedestrians to the city hospital at 6 p. m. yesterday to obtain treatment for a fractured neck, a fractured left arm and scalp wounds, which he had suffered a few minutes before when struck by an automobile at Fourth and Walnut streets. After the accident, he said, the driver had taken him in a dazed condition to a point within two blocks of the hospital and there had put him out to shift for himself, declaring "You're all right, old man." Passersby had then come to his assistance.

The police today are looking for the driver, who is said to have been accompanied by two women. Klapp's condition is serious.

Mrs. Ozella Rumels, 37 years old, of 2905A Semple avenue, suffered lacerations of the scalp, jaw and arm at 5:50 p. m. yesterday when a Ford coupe in which she and her husband, Herman, were driving east in front of 4243 Easton avenue skidded on the wet pavement into the path of an eastbound Wellston street car. She was taken to her home. Rumels was not injured.

Farmer Hearing Shots and Daughter's Scream, Rushes Out and Fires at Blank Shooters.

By the Associated Press.

CHICHASHA, Ok., Nov. 14.—A practical joke resulted fatally for Tom Sissom, 30 years old. Sissom was shot Wednesday night by Sid Stewart, farmer, who was under the impression Sissom was attempting to harm Stewart's daughter, Eva Mae.

According to Stewart, he was in his house and his daughter was sitting with Charles Barger in the latter's automobile in front of the house, when he heard several shots followed by a woman's scream.

Thinking someone was attempting to harm his daughter, he seized a gun and rushed out. "I saw two men shooting, so I fired, hitting Sissom," Stewart said. It later developed that Sissom and a companion were attempting to play a joke on Barger and began shooting to frighten him. Their guns were loaded with blanks. The shots frightened Miss Stewart instead. Sissom died in a hospital yesterday. He is survived by a widow and four children. No charges have been filed against Stewart.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with twofold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and destroys the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, catarrhal bronchitis and other forms of throat and lung diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Verdict of Criminal Carelessness Returned Against Oliver Kaufmann.

A Coroner's verdict of criminal carelessness, holding Oliver Kaufmann, 22 years old, of Normandy, was returned today in the case of Paul Johnson, 76-year-old night watchman, of 2514 University street, who was killed early Tuesday by a truck of the Edward Miller Produce Co. of 909 North Third street.

The accident occurred at Tenth and Monroe streets as Johnson was on his way to work at the Standard Stamping Co., 2000 North Broadway.

At the opening of the inquest yesterday, Kaufmann testified the truck was equipped only with dim coal oil lamps and that Miller, the owner, had persistently refused to equip his machines with adequate headlights. Miller's arrest was then ordered. At the resumption of the hearing today he refused to make a statement. A warrant charging him with criminal negligence will be applied for today.

WORLD FLYERS AGAIN DELAYED ON TRIP HERE

Dense Fog Holds Up Airmen in New Orleans—May Arrive Here Sunday.

Further delays in the arrival in St. Louis of the army's world flyers was announced today by Joseph O'Neil, vice-chairman of the city's committee of welcome.

A telephone message from Lieuts. Eric Nelson and Leigh Wade, at New Orleans, said they were unable to hop off in that city early today, as they had planned, becuse of a dense fog. As soon as it lifted they would leave for Houston, Tex., where they plan to spend tonight. Tomorrow they go to Fort Worth to spend the day.

On Sunday they plan to fly to Scott Field, Belleville, a journey of six or seven hours, it is estimated, under the most favorable conditions.

"In the circumstances," said O'Neil, "they could not possibly arrive at Lambert-St. Louis Flying Field until about 5 p. m. Sunday, which is too late for the kind of reception we have planned. It will be necessary, then, to hold the public reception Monday.

"These plans, of course, are tentative, and based upon their being able to get away from New Orleans today and otherwise complete their schedule. The features of the St. Louis reception will follow the published outlines, the principal changes being in regard to time. A detailed program will be provided when we are reasonably certain of the time of the flyers' arrival.

"Meantime we are proceeding with arrangements to facilitate the movement of the crowds anticipated back and forth from the flying field at Bridgeton."

The delay to the New Orleans and the Boston II, the two planes at New Orleans, is due in part to damage to the tail skid of one of them in an effort to take off Wednesday. Temporary repairs were made and the stop at Houston, according to word received by the Chamber of Commerce, is necessary for permanent repairs.

Lieut. L. B. Mosely, commander of the army air forces at Los Angeles, and Lowell Thomas, who is official historian of the world flight, hopped off from Memphis at 8:30 a. m. today to join the world flyers in St. Louis and continue with them on their journey from here to Dayton next week. Lieut. Mosely and Thomas reached Memphis shortly before noon yesterday and took off two hours later for St. Louis, but ran into a heavy rainstorm near Dyersburg, Tenn., and were forced to return to the landing field at Memphis last night. Their jump to Memphis had been from Gunnison, Miss., where a fog on Wednesday night forced them to land on a plantation.

FOUR MENTIONED FOR SPEAKER OF THE MISSOURI HOUSE

Winter, Campbell, Parker and Peters Discussed as Candidates Among Republican Members.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 14.—Four probable candidates for the position of Speaker of the House of Representatives are being discussed among Republican members, who will control the organization of the House. They are E. H. Winter, publisher of a newspaper in Warrenton; John W. Campbell of Stockton, Cedar County; Jones H. Parker, an attorney of St. Louis, and David W. Peters, an attorney of Jefferson City.

All except Peters have served in the Legislature. Campbell was a candidate for the speakership in 1921, receiving the support of the St. Louis delegation in the House.

Winter, who has a considerable following for the position, was a member of important committees in the last House, serving on the Roads and Highways, the Public Schools and Library Committees. Campbell served on the Clerical Force, Agriculture and Criminal Jurisprudence Committees. Neither Parker nor Peters was a member of the last House.

TWO STORES REPORT HOLDUPS

Robbers Get $30 in One Place and $55.10 in Another.

Reports of robberies of two Pigly-Wiggly stores shortly after they opened yesterday morning were received by police last night. Both robberies are believed to have been committed by the same two young men. At 7:20 a. m. Earl A. Miller, manager of a store at 2916 North Vandeventer avenue, was forced to open the safe by two armed men, who escaped with $38 taken from the safe. Twenty minutes later two men held up four employes of the store at 530 North Taylor avenue, and escaped with $55.70 taken from the cash register and $30 from the safe, which was unlocked.

TWO MEN CAUGHT IN STORE

Police, Answering Burglary Call, Find Negroes in Hiding.

Responding to a telephone call by neighbors that the grocery of Arthur W. Bates at 2347 Scott avenue was being robbed, police at 10 p. m. yesterday surrounded the store and arrested two negroes found hiding behind an icebox. Cigarettes and matches were found in both negroes' pockets, and two baskets of provisions were found on the floor. They gave their names as Alfred Gill and Edward Anderson.

Select Gathering, Headed by President of Republic, Witness "The Miracle of the Wolves."

PARIS, Nov. 14.—Very conservative Paris Grand Opera House, in the Place de l' Opera, has been forced to yield to the ever-increasing influence of the kinematograph and last night, before a very select and brilliant gathering, headed by the President of the Republic, was produced the first "movie" show, "The Miracle of the Wolves."

The film was purely French, representing an episode of the struggle between Louis XI and Charles the Bold and the Duke of Burgundy, with incidental music written for the purpose by the famous French composer Rabaud, who is well known in the United States, where he conducted for several seasons the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

The producers of the film are backed by the Government. They intend to continue a series of bi-weekly performances and Thursday night's film was the first of a series of historical films which will be taken in the course of the next year. French history is so rich in thrilling adventures, which have the great advantage of not being fiction, that even American producers contemplate establishing branches in France, where they expect to take films, using as a background historic cities or castles where the action took place centuries ago.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 14.—Dean F. B. Mumford of the College of Agriculture of the University of Missouri, is being backed by the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation, other organization of the State for Secretary of Agriculture in the Coolidge Cabinet.

BARBER KILLS HIS WIFE AND 3 OTHER PERSONS IN HOME

EVERY SHOT HE FIRES ENDS A LIFE

After Spreading Death in Group Discussing Divorce, Slayer Turns Weapon on Himself.

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 14:—Four persons were shot and killed here last night by Henry Weber, lame barber, who then killed himself.

The victims were his wife, Mrs. Bessie Weber, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Shader and Mrs. Thomas Alexander.

Weber and his wife quarreled Sunday and he had not been home since, neighbors said. The man purchased a new rifle yesterday and last night went to his home carrying the weapon.

Shader, employe of a dental firm, who lives in a wing of the house where the Webers make their home, was the first person Weber met. He shot Shader through the head and then walked into the house. When he emerged a few minutes later the place was a shambles. In each case Weber shot his victim through the head and did not waste a shot.

Last night a note written by Weber to his wife was returned unanswered. The note found in the barbershop later, read:

"Here is all I can send you tonight. It isn't much but it may help a little. Good-by." Five dollars was wrapped in the note.

Another note, addressed to Weber's relatives, pleaded with them to "send mea nd Bessie to Hopkinsville together." Reese Weber recounted the marital difficulties of his brother to police. He said that his brother had been told that his wife had consulted a lawyer yesterday. "This nearly set him crazy," Reese is said to have told the police. "I tried to quiet him and told him not to have any more trouble. I was afraid of this."

The barber had brooded over his troubles until he was mentally unbalanced, police say. Neither Shader nor his wife had any connection with the domestic difficulties of the Webers, as far as is known, and Mrs. Alexander was a casual visitor at the Weber home.

From a sheet of paper found in the room where the tragedy occurred, police believe that at the moment when Weber entered the door his wife was discussing plans for a divorce from her husband with her visitors.

Mrs. T. W. Eddins, who roomed with Mr. and Mrs. Shader, witnessed a part of the tragedy. She fled and escaped. Mrs. Eddins stated that just a few moments prior to the appearance of Weber a messenger boy brought a note to Mrs. Weber, but that the latter refused to read it. Shortly afterward Weber kicked the door open and began firing.

Henry Weber came to Memphis from Elkios, Ky., according to police. He married his wife, a Memphis girl, about three years ago, when she was only about 15 years of age, her relatives say.

Mr. and Mrs. Shader are survived by two small children.

St. Louis police received a request from Memphis today to attempt to locate Mrs. Paul Harold, mother of E. A. Shader, who is believed to be working at a department store here. She may be known as Sadie Shader. Mrs. Harold is asked to call J. M. Shader, a relative of the slain man, at Main 3665, Memphis, Tenn.

Baby Tortured Day and Night by Eczema

Resinol Stopped Itching and Healed Sick Skin

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 10:—"I thought it might interest you to know how much Resinol has done for my baby. Her face was covered with scabs and the itching was so severe I had to keep stockings on her hands to keep her from scratching. I had to be up at night as it bothered her so she could not sleep. Two doctors, one of them a skin specialist, told me she had eczema. I tried several remedies, but nothing helped, so when I read in the paper about Resinol, I thought I would give it a trial. I can't praise it enough, for it has done wonders for the baby's skin and she sleeps all through the night now. I would advise anyone with a similar case to try Resinol Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. Rose Goersdorf, 27 Furman Avenue.

BRIDE OF MONTH AND MAN HELD FOR HUSBAND'S DEATH

By the Associated Press.

MUSKOGEE, Ok., Nov. 14.—Thelma Millsaps and George Manwarring were charged with murder of the former's husband, Theodore Millsaps, in warrants issued here yesterday.

The couple are accused of choking Millsaps to death and throwing his body into the Arkansas River near here during an alleged swimming party last August. At the time Manwarring and the girl, the latter a bride of a month, reported that Millsaps had drowned. He had been seized with cramps when he entered the water, they said, and they could not rescue him. Millsaps' body, clad in underwear, was taken from the water several hours later. None of the party, 't was said, had taken bathing suits along.

Manwarring and Mrs. Millsaps continued to be friendly after Millsaps' death. Several days ago officers started an investigation of their story, resulting in their arrest today.

Cod Liver Oil Now in Tasteless Tablets

Greatest Flesh Builder

No more will weak, thin, unfortunate children cry in protest when the nasty, fishy-tasting, horrible smelling cod liver oil is brought out.

Medical science progresses rapidly, and now you can get at your druggist's real, genuine cod liver oil in sugar-coated tablets that young and old can take with ease and pleasure.

Even the run-down and skinny grown-ups, who ought to take cod liver oil, because it really is the greatest vitamine food and builder of healthy flesh in the world, will feel extremely joyful when they read this welcome news.

Of course, doctors have been prescribing cod liver oil in tablets under another name for several years, but it is only of late that one can walk into a drug store and get a box of these flesh-producing tablets just as easy as a bottle of magnesia.

Thin, run-down, anaemic men, women and children who need to grow strong and take on flesh are advised to get a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets, and if you don't gain 5 pounds in 30 days just get your money back.

One woman gained fifteen pounds in five weeks, according to her own doctor—another ten pounds in three weeks. A very sickly child, aged nine, twelve pounds in seven months, and now plays with other children and has a good appetite.

Just ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., Judge & Dolph Drug Stores, Enderle Drug Co., Johnson Bros. Drug Co. or any good druggist will tell you that they are wonderful flesh and health builders. Only sixty cents for 60 tablets.

LABOR CHIEFS DIFFER ON POLITICAL ACTIVITY

Head of Building Trades Would Limit Unions to Economic Questions.

By the Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 14.—Campaigns to assure ratification of the child labor amendment to the Federal Constitution and to curb the marketing of the products of convict labor were advocated in separate departmental meetings of the American Federation of Labor yesterday.

The building trades, metal trades and label trades departments were in session preliminary to the general convention of the federation, beginning next Monday.

Members of the executive council of the federation continued the work of gathering and classifying divergent views on political policy, in preparation for a special report to the general convention on future political activity.

The metal trades division called upon every "justice-loving man and woman to press for legislative action" on the child labor amendment.

"No more important piece of legislation ever had been considered by a state Legislature," James O'Connell, president of the department, said in his annual report.

Million Child Workers.

"At the present time there are more than 1,000,000 children between the ages of 10 and 15 earning wages in this country. Approximately 400,000 of them are between the ages of 10 and 13."

John J. Manning, secretary of the label trades department, in his annual report, characterized convict labor as one of the chief foes of progress in unionism. To it he attributed, in part, responsibility for a decrease of 9000 in the affiliated membership role of the department during the year. The present membership of the 42 affiliated international unions he reported as 588,000.

"State and Federal legislation is necessary to eliminate this competition with free labor," he said. "The unions affiliated with the department should act in unison with every group working for the abolition of convict labor."

Two viewpoints on the political policy issue are embodied in the annual reports of two department presidents.

Divergent Views on Politics.

John Donlin, retiring president of the building trades department, admonished against an extension of political activity. He said:

'We have many who would make our economic movement a political one. One union must confine its activities to the economic welfare of its members, and the political and religious view of members must be of a personal nature and respected by each and all. The union must be absolutely economic and free from both politics and religion. The future is assured provided we remain steadfast to the fundamentals of the trade union movement."

President O'Connell, in his report to the metal trades convention, said in appraising the ultimate result of the American Federation's activity in the presidential campaign:

"I am quite sure that labor will not have lost any prestige, nor will its industrial cause in any way be weakened by the position we have taken politically.

"Never in the history of our movement has labor been so closely knit together politically as during the presidential campaign. I can see nothing but good results from the political position we have taken during the year.

"I am a firm believer in the nonpartisan political policy of the American Federation of Labor, and while there seems to be a growing sentiment in favor of a purely Labor party, I have not yet been convinced that this will be a wise policy to pursue.

"Every American citizen is free to vote as he pleases and every good citizen is rightfully jealous of this freedom. Nevertheless the right of labor in comparing party records, measuring up candidates and presenting these facts to its membership should not be questioned. We are not attempting to deliver the labor vote. We are endeavoring to inform it and trying to prepare it to vote intelligently."

George F. Hedrick of Lafayette, Ind., president of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers, was elected president of the building trades department of the federation to succeed Donlin. William J. Tracy, Commissioner of Conciliation of the United States Department of Labor, was elected secretary - treasurer, succeeding William J. Spencer.

Plans for Industrial Survey.

Co-operative action by 16 international labor unions affiliated with the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor, to obtain periodic information on labor conditions throughout the country is planned by the executive council of the department.

Under a resolution approved yesterday officers began today to set up the machinery for collecting and disseminating information concerning labor supply and demand in various localities, wages, hours and conditions, living costs, and other factors bearing upon employment. At its inception, it is planned, national surveys will be made every three months. Later, when the scheme is thoroughly organized, monthly surveys of the condition of industry will be available.

ARMY-NAVY SQUABBLES OVER AIR FORCE HALT PROGRESS

early Third of Navy's Planes Obsolete and 610 of Army's Useless—Services Overlap.

What is the United States doing aviation? The Post-Dispatch and the New k World have just completed an austive inquiry into the situa- , gathering the data from the r, Navy and Post Office Depart- nts and presenting for the first e, even to these officials, a com- te statement of just what has ppened, and what ought to hap- if American pre-eminence is to regained and maintained. The ails of this inquiry will be pre- ted in a series of articles, of ich the following is one.

IV.

By PETER VISCHER.

Because of the lack of an avia- policy on the part of the ted States and a consequent sh between the Air Service of Army and the Bureau of Aero- tics of the Navy, it would be difficult matter to determine exactly how many aircraft s nation ought to have for its ense.

Brigadier-General Mason M. Pa- k, commanding the Army Air vice, says that the army needs inimum of 2433 airplanes, 20 ships and 38 balloons. With h equipment, he says, he ld provide for adequate com- forces on the Atlantic and cific Coasts, maintain a zone of interior and protect the na- n's overseas garrisons.

Capt. A. W. Johnson, acting ief of the naval Bureau of Aero- tics during the absence of Rear miral William A. Moffett, says t if the Navy's present equip- nt of 728 airplanes and two id airships were modern and up date, the Navy would have "al- st enough" for its needs. How- r, 229 of the planes are ob- lete and many of the others are plus war stock.

Services Overlap.

Yet one cannot add 2433 to 728 d say that the United States ds 3161 airplanes. The Army d Navy overlap both in their pes and their duties. The Navy s some land machines, the Army e seaplanes. The Navy does siderable flying from shore sta- ns; the Army says the Navy has business within 200 miles from re. The Army says the Navy ht not do any flying except m ships at sea; the Navy says s working on that problem and s solution ahead, but that it has nty of work to do in shore.

The Army says that if some of money used by the Navy for iation purposes (it doesn't con- er any of the Navy's business) re converted to the Army's ds, we wouldn't be so woefully king in equipment. The Navy orts that, speaking of waste, k at the silly coast defense forts pt up with big appropriations, though they were built in Co- nial days and every one knows ey'd never get a chance to fire gun, no matter what kind of war got into.

And anyway, says the Navy, "we n't economize as we'd like to, be- use politics won't let us. We nted to shut down the Newport aining Station. We have two d we need only one. As a mat- r of fact, we don't care which e goes, but we mentioned New- rt. Such a howl went up from New England that we were ced to keep it.

Well, the upshot of it all is that e Army and Navy are not in gen- al agreement and co-operation as gards aeronautics. If any ene- y should land here (and whether u believe it likely or not that ssibility is the reason we have r keeping an Army and Navy) e Army would probably say the vy let them land; the Navy uld say the Army wasn't on the b to hold them off, and the two gether would undoubtedly claim at the flyers didn't do what they agged they could.

610 Planes Useless.

What have we in aircraft in the my Air Craft Service.

In commission today: Training, 2; observation, 457; bombard- nt, 59; pursuit, 78; attack, 8; al, 754. (In storage, 610 more, t all useless.)

Orders now out, with deliveries obable in six or eight months: Primary training, 50; advanced ining, 10; observation, 130; bardment or transport, 10; rsuit, 12; amphibians, for use in the Philippines and other insular ssessions, 9; total, 221.

What Gen. Patrick expects to ve on hand July 1, 1926, as given his report for the fiscal year 24, never published: Training, 8; observation, 581; bombard- nt, 66; pursuit, 182; attack, 20; al, 1107.

These figures need explaining. Of e planes in commission today the aining planes are mostly Jennies various kinds, with a few Voughts, a few SE-5s, all war designs and mostly war stock, pretty old stuff. The new primary training machines on order are Consolidated machines, considered excellent. The new advanced training planes are Huff-Daland, highly respected.

Call De Havilands Slow.

The observation planes are all rebuilt De Havilands. They are virtually new machines, however, with new bodies made out of steel tubing, reliable and strong. Yet there probably isn't a flyer in the Army who won't tell you that DH's are obsolete, dead, gone; that they are utterly useless, too slow, too clumsy. Some in the Navy will say that DH's are now and always will be useful ships, plenty good enough for their purpose. The Liberty engine has its proponents and its antagonists, yet foreign Governments have recently tried to buy some of the thousands we have left over from the war.

Whether this controversy is settled one way or the other makes little difference, because it is a fact that our surplus stock of DH's is virtually exhausted. The question of whether to throw them away or rebuild them, which confronted Gen. Patrick when he assumed charge of the Army Air Service three years ago, is about to die a natural death. There aren't any more to rebuild. And once they're gone, gone also will be America's main source of airplanes. We'll have to get some new ones then.

Of the bombardment planes, most are Martin bombers. These are now generally considered obsolete or obsolescent, because they haven't a high enough ceiling and because they are bi-motored and therefore more likely to give trouble than planes with only one motor. In the future, we will probably buy Douglass bombers, like the ones used on the around-the-world flight. At present we have four of these, with ten more on order.

Of our 78 pursuit ships, 25 are first-class fighting equipment — Curtiss pursuit ships. We have 12 more on order, from Boening, as good as the Curtiss ships, and, in the opinion of some pilots, even better. These are first-class ships, the finest in the world, America's one great development since the war. They are the direct result of the Pulitzer speed races and are 40 miles faster than any European pursuit ships.

One Attacker Ready.

Of our eight attack ships, only one is really in commission. The others are apart for tests. They are tri-planes, and it is quite unlikely that we will get many more in the near future. We don't quite know yet what kind of attack planes we want.

The figures Gen. Patrick gives as expected to be on hand in 1926 might well be ignored. He himself has evidently revised his plans, and unless be gets a much greater appropriation than he expects we won't have anywhere near these figures.

Now, are we making serious efforts to develop new planes? The answer to that question is not found so much in the $3,000,000 spent last year for experimental and research work as in Gen. Patrick's own statement of policy.

"I am trying to standardize our aircraft," he said. "I think that is necessary for economic reasons. I want a training ship that I know will be good enough for our uses for the next five years. I want an observation ship that I think will last five years at least and am having several designed now around an engine faster than the Liberty that may serve. I am sure we have a pursuit ship that won't have to be changed for five years.

"Attack presents a problem. An attack ship, you know, is used directly for attack on moving troops. It was the latest war development and the war ended while these planes were still very experimental. We don't know yet whether we ought to have a heavily armored plane, which will be immune against fire from the ground, or one which is so exceedingly fast that it can swoop down, attack, and be off before it can be brought down. I have ordered a competition for attack planes and expect to see three new types before long. We will test these three, give several orders of the best and then put the plans away in a drawer where we'll have them in case of war.

"Expect to Keep Abreast."

"Naturally, during these five years we expect to see some progress made in aviation and we expect to keep abreast of it with experimental machines. But I do not plan to make any great changes during that time in the standardized equipment I hope to have developed."

This announced policy of Gen. Patrick's makes it plain why there wasn't a single Army plane in the recent international air races at Dayton, O., which was of a design more recent than a year and a half.

The Navy has the following equipment, which is expected to be serviceable next June 30: Training, 117; observation, 147; bom-

JAPAN DEFENDS CHINA'S RIGHTS AT OPIUM DEBATE

OPIUM FROM CHINA USED IN SMUGGLING

Increasing Production Gives Surplus Which Flows Into Other Eastern Lands Says Delegate.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Nov. 14.—The international opium conference today, as the culmination of hours of exciting debate, decided to adopt no resolutions whatsoever concerning the opium evil in China.

Dominating the entire discussion was the dramatic manner in which Japan posed as the champion of China. Following the pro-Chinese stand of Viscount Ishii, manifest during the recent sessions of the assembly of the League of Nations, Mr. Sugimura, the chief Japanese delegate, presented a resolution voicing confidence that China loyally would endeavor to stamp out opium cultivation. The resolution also placed the Powers on record as determined to live up to the principle of nonintervention in Chinese internal affairs.

After astonishment had been expressed by other delegates over the introduction of a political question into the opium conference, Japan withdrew the political part of the resolution, but was none the less vigorous in fighting for China when John Campbell, an Englishman, who is representing India at the conference, introduced an amendment which virtually condemned China's handling of the opium evil.

Attitude of Delegate From India.

The amendment said the conference noted with regret the enormous illicit production and use of opium in China and the fact that large quantities of opium were reaching other countries in the Far East, thereby making control over opium difficult and some cases even imperilling all control. The amendment was inspired by the fact that one of the two objects of the present conference is to devise means to check the increasing production of opium in China.

For Japan Mr. Sugimura insisted that through the League of Nations there already had been too much criticism of China—a powerful nation, which, he declared, one day would play a great role in international affairs. No nation having any sense of honor or dignity, Mr. Sugimura asserted, could accept the Campbell amendment. He appealed to Western Christian civilization to see that China should not be asked to accept such an undignified reproach.

Alfred Sze, the Chinese plenipotentiary, in veiled language, though couched in terms which all his auditors comprehended, made clear he never could transmit such an amendment to his home Government and people, because it was incompatible with Chinese honor and sovereignty. Mr. Sze urged the conference to confine itself to making practical suggestions in the same spirit which animated the Washington conference on Far Eastern questions.

Resolutions Are Withdrawn.

"The people of China," Mr. Sze declared, "are waiting for what you are saying and doing here today. Their unofficial delegates are now sitting in this hall. Help us, but do not make forever impossible our sincere efforts to master our opium scourge."

After an impressive silence the president of the conference asked Japan to withdraw her original resolution voicing confidence in China to overcome the opium evil. Japan agreed to this, and this action caused the objectionable Campbell amendment to fail. Thus China emerged from the day's session neither mildly approved nor seriously condemned.

Some of the delegates described the result later as "a washout" and others as a "whitewash." Both the British and French delegates introduced draft agreements dealing with the further checking of opium smoking in the Far East, which forms the second object of the conference. Neither draft attempts to put any estimate on the amount of opium required for smoking. Both suggest a state monopoly on opium, recommend an educational campaign against smoking and stipulate that no children may buy opium.

NORMAN TO HEAD BANK OF ENGLAND FOR SIXTH YEAR

Directors Unanimously Decide on His Re-election: Tenure of Office Is Unprecedented.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The directors of the Bank of England have unanimously decided to recommend that the proprietors re-elect Montague Norman governor of the bank for the coming year, this to make his sixth consecutive year in office. Such an honor is unprecedented. The governorship is normally limited to two years, a previous rare exception being Lord Cunliffe, who served five years.

While it is recognized that the directors have paid a high compliment to Norman, it is also pointed out that the post-war financial problems, such as the funding of the British debt to America and participation in European reconstruction schemes, have made continuity of the governorship almost a necessity. It is understood that the customary two-year limit will be resumed when the situation becomes normal.

OTTO KAHN GIVES 10 RULES FOR SUCCESS IN BUSINESS

OTTO H. KAHN.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Otto H. Kahn, international banker, who has known Wall street intimately 30 years, patron of arts and one of of America's outstanding men of affairs, delivered last night to the Harvard Business School Club, in the Harvard Club, a "message to young business men," in which he outlined 10 principles for business success.

He did not dispute, he said, that he was offering "counsels of perfections," and explained he would not advocate "only a fractional attainment of a possible 100 per cent." He stressed the importance of performing minor as well as major tasks to the best of one's ability, and advised against skepticism, mistrust and suspicion.

"The milk of human kindness," a free rein now and then to the imagination, hard work, an interest in public matters and an appreciation and understanding of one's fellows were among other points that he emphasized.

Every Task Is a Test.

Kahn's 10 precepts follow:

"First, eliminate from your vocabulary in working hours the word 'perfunctory.' Every task is a test. However trivial it be, your manner of performing it will testify in some way and to some degree for or against you. Shrewd observers sometimes will 'size up' a man from the way in which he acts in unimportant matters, rather than from his conduct in more weighty things, because not observing himself and not believing himself observed, he is apt to disclass an unvarnished picture of his true self."

Kahn illustrated this point by a story of how he once obtained promotion by licking more stamps than either of two other stamplickers who worked with him for a firm that sent out hundreds of circulars daily.

"Second—Remember that the most serviceable of all assets is reputation. When you once have it, and as long as you hold it, it works for you automatically and it works 24 hours a day. Unlike money, reputation cannot be bequeathed. It is always personal. It must be acquired. Brains alone, however brilliant, cannot win it. An indispensable portion of the purchase price can only be provided by character.

"Third—Think! Exercise the springs of your brain as you exercise the muscles of your body. Quite apart from the requirements of your remaining work, practice your mental daily dozen. There is no better investment, from the material and every point of view, than thinking.

Be Ready, but Be Patient.

"Fourth—Go for a ride on the horse of your imagination from time to time. It's excellent exercise. It helps to keep you buoyant and elastic, and it may take you into new and interesting fields. But remember, it is a high strung animal and needs keeping under careful control, else it is apt to run away with you.

"Fifth—Be ready, be fully prepared, but be patient, bide your time, know how to wait. By all means, keep a sharp lookout for opportunities, recognize them and seize them boldly when they come within your reach, but do not think that every change means an opportunity. A very wise business man said to me at the beginning of my career: 'It is not only the head that counts in the race for success. There is another part of your anatomy—you might call it the opposite pole—which is of the utmost importance. Learn to think and act, but also learn to sit. More people have got on by knowing when and how to sit tight than by rushing ahead!'

Throw Ill Will Overboard.

"Sixth—Consider as one of the essential requisites of your diet a supply of the milk of human kindness. To be hard-hearted one does not have to be 'hard-boiled.' Be neighborly, be a good sport. Don't think that you can lift yourself up by downing others. It is willing arms that help to carry you upward, not bent backs. Even from the point of view of mere selfish advantage, it is more profitable to help others on than to keep others down. There is plenty of opportunity in America to go round. This is still the 'country of unlimited possibilities' today as much as ever. Most of our rich men and practically all the men at the head of our great corporate concerns have started from the ranks, from the very bottom of the ladder. If you would rise, throw overboard envy and ill will. They are worst than useless ballast. They corrode the things they touch; they blight your equipment.

"Seventh—Work hard, don't spare yourself, don't be an eight-hour-a-day man, but don't permit yourself to become a machine. Work will not hurt you, however heavy. But keeping your thoughts, interests and activities in the same old rut will. You are young. Presumably, you have ideals. By all means, keep them. Whatever they are, keep them. Do not let alleged worldly wisdom make you believe that they are useless and futile. They are not. They are an asset of true value, aye! even in business.

"Eighth—Take an interest and a due share in public affairs. It is not only your duty to discharge the responsibilities of citizenship in a self-governing country, but, even from the point of view of mere self-interest, it is good insurance to do so. Business cannot prosper unless the Ship of State is run on a steady keel and steered with reasonable competence. Rock the boat of government and you retard or even endanger the boat of business.

"Ninth—Meet your fellow men with confidence, unless you have reason to suspect. Deceitful intent does not find it easy to stand up before frankness, fairness and faith. Don't think that you have got to go through business life, or any phase of life, armed to the teeth. As a rule you will find shield, breastplate, helmet and so forth, needless and hampering weights. Skepticism and mistrust, in the case of men, are like great standing armies in the case of nations. They beget aggression.

"Tenth—To those of you who may attain conspicuous success, I would particularly address an admonitory word. The material reward which the world accords to business is very large. It is disproportionately large as compared to the material reward bestowed upon work and achievement in other lines of activity.

"If the so-called capitalistic system of society is to continue, as I believe it will, and should, because on the whole it has done and is likely to do more for the progress and prosperity of humanity and for the greatest good of the greatest number than any other system I know of, it is particularly incumbent upon those whom it places in positions of business leadership to exercise self-restraint and consideration for others in the use of their opportunities, to prove themselves imbued with a due sense of public duty and to exert their abilities not merely for their own advantage but also—and increasingly so as their potency increases—for the benefit of their fellow men."

MUSSOLINI WILL PROPOSE WOMAN SUFFRAGE MEASURE

ROME, Nov. 14.—Premier Mussolini has decided to bring in a woman's suffrage bill at this session of the Chamber of Deputies. It is practically identical with the bill he introduced 17 months ago, but which was laid aside after the committee stage, owing to pressure of other business.

At that time the Premier insisted he had no intention of granting women the suffrage beyond the limits of communal elections. Even then, only those who lost sons or husbands in the World War, whose educational standard is high and who pay taxes can vote.

For 61 years women suffrage bills have been introduced into the Chamber at intervals, but have always been private member bills and never received serious discussion. Few women in Italy even demand the vote.

NATION SOON TO IMPORT FOOD, PRESIDENT SAYS

Addressing Land Grant College Association He Discusses Effect of Population Increase on Farming.

IMPORTANCE OF SCIENTIFIC SELLING

Problem of Future Is to Maintain Prosperous Agriculture in Industrial and Commercial Country.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
20-23 Wyatt Building.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Within a few years this country will produce less in the way of agricultural necessities than it consumes, President Coolidge told the Association of Land Grant Colleges, meeting here last night. He said that although the farmer had been embarrassed with surpluses, he must plan for conditions exactly the opposite.

"We are not nearly a generation ahead of the time when our country will witness a reversal of its position to world agriculture," the President said. "I mean that within a very few years the natural increase of population and the inevitable tendency to industrialization will place us among the nations producing a deficit rather than a surplus of agricultural staples."

It was the President's first address since his election, but he kept it free from politics. At the outset he paid tribute to Henry C. Wallace, the late Secretary of Agriculture. He declared the land grant colleges, with their various other interests, are concerned in contributing in every possible way to bettering rural civilization.

Outlining some of this work, he admitted it was "large order," but added "we are going to omit no effort to prevent a repetition of the misfortunes which in recent years have involved agriculture."

The Immediate Problem.

The President expects to outline his views of farming conditions more extensively next Monday in opening the conference of the Agriculture Commission which he recently appointed to make recommendations for the permanent stabilizing of the industry.

The immediate problem, the President said is to bridge over the difficulties resulting from abnormal, and war-stimulated surpluses while, he added, preparation must be made also for the time fast approaching when "we are likely to be one of the greatest agricultural buying nations."

The hope lies, he declared, in organizations and methods which look to economies and efficiencies in producing and distributing.

Meanwhile, the President urged that the educators and farm leaders turn their attention to scientific marketing. The agriculture problem of today, he insisted, is not on the side of production, but on the side of distribution. Too little thought has been given to this phase, he added.

Farmer a Merchant.

"Up to the present time," Mr. Coolidge continued, "the main emphasis of our agricultural education has been placed upon production. I believe that was right, because unless there is economy and efficiency in production there is no need for thought in any other direction. But our experience of the last few years has demonstrated that it is by no means enough. The farmer is not only a producer, he is likewise a merchant. It does him no good to get quantity production, in fact it may do him harm, unless he can likewise have scientific marketing. I want to see courses in co-operative marketing and farm economies alongside of soil chemistry and animal husbandry. I want to see a good farmer on a good farm raise a good crop and secure a good price."

"In a very few years the natural increase of population and the inevitable tendency to industrialization, will place us among the nations producing a deficit rather than a surplus of agricultural staples. We were fairly on the verge of that condition when the world war gave a temporary and artificial stimulation to agriculture, which ultimately brought disastrous consequences. Even today, if in making up our balance sheet we include our requirements of coffee, tea, sugar and wool, we already have a considerable agricultural deficit. It may not be generally known, but even now we consume more calories of food in this country than we produce. The main reason is that we do not raise near enough sugar.

"Our only agricultural exports of consequence are cotton, meat products and wheat; and as to the two latter, it must be plain that the scales will shortly turn against us. We shall be not only an agricultural importing nation, but in the lives of many who are now among us, we are likely to be one of the greatest agricultural buying nations.

Must Readjust Methods.

"In this lies the assurance to the American farmer that his own future is secure enough. But he must readjust his methods of production and marketing until he comes within sight of the new day. Our immediate problem has been to carry him through the intervening period of abnormal and war-stimulated surpluses. After that, we shall face the real problem of our long future; the problem of maintaining a prosperous, self-reliant, confident agriculture in a country preponderantly commercial and industrial.

"It has been attested by all experience, that agriculture tends to discouragement and decadence whenever the predominant interests of the country turn to manufacture and trade. We must prevent that in America. I believe the land grant college is the main great agency for its prevention. It has added a new element to the equation which has never before been in it. You must make that element decisive.

"It is true there are some countries in which the balance of these elements has been so well maintained that agriculture has continued to flourish alongside prosperous industries and successful commerce. But these are found where the population is approximately static and the community comparatively self-contained. It is not our destiny to be a community of that kind. We must look forward to a long continuing increase of population. We must realize that our relationships with the outside world, already enormously important, will increase in number complexity, and importance in their influences on our social structure

Preparation for the Future.

"We cannot begin too soon to prepare for this future. It may seem contradictory to suggest that in a time when we are embarrassed with surpluses for which markets are not easily found, we must begin to plan for exactly opposite conditions. But it is not really a contradiction. The organizations and methods which look to economies and efficiencies in producing and distributing will be equally useful, equally necessary, in either set of circumstances. To fail in establishing these instruments will commit us to that most inexcusable of economic sins, a deliberate policy of sheer wastefulness. And wastefulness, whether in disposing of a surplus or permitting a deficiency, in the end can only result in calamity.

"Finally, you will remember that America has but one great staple product. We till the soil, we operate our industries, we develop transportation, we engage in commerce, we encourage the arts and sciences, but these are only means to an end. They are all carried on in order that America may produce men and women worthy of our standards of citizenship. We want to see them endowed with ability and character, with patriotism and religious devotion. We want to see them truly American, while ready and eager to contribute a generous share to world welfare. We want to see them honest, industrious and independent, possessed of all those virtues which arise from an adequate moral and intellectual training joined to experiences which come from the open country."

BUDGET DIRECTOR TELLS HOW NATION OVERCAME HABITS OF EXTRAVAGANCE

Says Country Came Out of War "Thinking and Spending in Billions"—Reviews Result of Budget System.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Before more than 6000 business men, assembled at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel for the annual dinner of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, Herbert M. Lord, director of the Bureau of the Budget, told last night how the United States, with a war-swollen expense account and a habit of spending and thinking in billions, had learned to live within its income.

Major-General Robert Lee Bullard, Commander of the Second Corps Area of the United States Army, of which New York is the key city, told of a radical revolution, drunk with power and ambition, which tried in 1919 to coerce this Government only to be thwarted by Elbert H. Gary of the United States Steel Corp. He pleaded for protection from future enemies "not only for protection from foreign enemies, but from domestic enemies."

Lord entertained as well as interested his hearers. He quoted scores of big figures and recited all from memory. When he said, for instance, that the peak of our national debt was reached Aug. 31, 1919, with a total of $26,594,267,878.45, he wasn't even a cent off from the figures given in the written report of his address. He got many a laugh.

Debt of $26,000,000,000.

"We went into the World War with a gross debt of $250,000,000," he said. "We came out of the World War Nov. 11, 1918, with a debt of $19,500,000,000, which on Aug. 31, 1919—in less than a year—had increased to more than $26,500,000,000.

"We also came out of the war with a swollen expense account and a habit of thinking and spending in billions. Extravagance in thinking and expending unfortunately was not confined to the Federal Government, but characterized the affairs of states, counties, cities, businesses, homes and individuals. It was evident that the Federal Government must set the example of retrenchment.

"On the one hand we had acquired a greatly expanded public service; on the other we faced the necessity for immediate national economy. It was imperative that we curb at once the rising cost of government in its peace-time activities.

"Fortunately at this time Congress in its wisdom gave the country a budget system and furnished the President an agency—the Bureau of the Budget—which he could use in imposing his control over estimates and for prosecuting a campaign of retrenchment in expenditures.

Reviews Annual Savings.

How well this has worked was shown when Lord said that in 1922, the first year of the budget, actual expenditures were reduced $1,742,738,189.46 below the cost of the preceding year. In 1923 expenditures were brought $263,033,233.52 below 1922. In 1924 (considering the fiscal year, of course) expenditures were brought $190,800,304.92 below 1923. In the third year of the budget, then, Federal expenditures were $3,196,571,727.90 less than they were in 1921, the last year free from budget control.

Gen. Bullard said in part:

"In 1919, soon after the war, radical groups, drunk with the dictation which they had acquired over the Government and the public in the stress of war, were demanding things that meant the overthrow of our whole system economic, social and political—'red revolutions.' The public was stunned and our Government seemed on the very verge of yielding.

"Then spoke a man, who, with a commission and at its head had been considering these outrageous demands. Firmly, definitely, he denied them all. He touched the button that electrified and recharged with courage the whole cowed and startled public. Then from more than one, recognized among us as great and wise, I then heard these words—'God bless Judge Gary.'

"The gateway to this vital region (of the nation) is here at New York. Strange to say, its vulnerability is also here, from the sea. In this vital and vulnerable region are inseparably bound together both your interests and the interests of the whole nation. Don't let the country, neglecting the protection of this region, neglect also the protection of your interests and the interests of the whole nation."

FORMER LABOR MINISTERS IN APPEAL FOR SOCIALISM

One of Signers Is MacDonald—Hope Expressed for Clear Majority at Next Election.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—"Our work now is to win the people for Socialism," is the slogan in an appeal issued by the Independent Labor party, signed by former Premier Ramsay MacDonald, R. Smillie, John Wheatley, Miss Margaret Bondfield and others prominent in the recent Labor ministry.

The appeal says:

"We must show that Socialism is not a destructive force, encouraging antagonism to existing institutions, but a constructive force making for order and true harmony, based on justice and service; that the Labor party is the only party whose program is founded on beliefs that will lead the world to peace and disarmament.

"While the Labor party in Parliament is doing its work as the opposition, the Socialists in the country must be educating the electorate and preparing the necessary organization for such a victory in the next election as will give Labor a clear majority."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Symphony Orchestra Growth.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE impression conveyed by the initial concert of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra's 1924-25 season was one of distinct improvement in the organization as a whole, but more particularly in its several component parts. There was throughout the evening abundant evidence of the presence of some new and very wonderful musicians in the various choirs. The brief solo parts, notably in the Tschaikowsky Fifth, were sung by the instruments assigned to them with exquisite taste and satisfying effect. Not only was the musicianship of a superior order, but it seemed as if finer instruments were distributed through the orchestra. Some notes and passages coming from the brasses were of surprising clearness and tremendous vigor, while certain specimens of work in the wood winds were of a character superior to anything heard in the past. The violins, large and small, have always been a compact and excellent body in the St. Louis orchestra, but here, too, there was evidence of growth. Their ensemble work was full, large and well rounded, with tone quality of the highest order. Pianissimos as finely spun as a thread alternated with big tone volume, demonstrating perfect control and commendable versatility. Nuances were discriminatingly worked out, climaxes were impressive, and in point of technical execution little was left to be desired. Altogether this first concert was quite up to anything given in the past, and in many respects exceeded in virtuosity anything done heretofore. It is established and very certain that patrons of the Symphony Orchestra are going to have a delightful season.

Director Ganz is to be congratulated upon his thorough and painstaking work. While his reading of the major work on the evening's program differed from the traditional, it was on the whole pleasing, and save in the waltz movement, one felt that pretty much everything in the symphony was effectually brought forth. For many persons who have attended these concerts year after year for one or more decades, the new grouping of the orchestra created surprise. The close neighborly contact, for instance, between harps and kettle drums, produced something of a shock at first sight. It must be said, however, that nothing developed to impeach the judgment which made for such disposition of these radically different instruments. Doubtless the entire scheme is in the nature of an experiment and can be changed or modified as its merits or faults unfold. This much can be said with absolute certainty: The organization is now easily in the front rank of American orchestras, and with its present personnel no one need have the slightest apprehension of its ability to undertake anything in the gamut of orchestral literature and acquit itself with high distinction.

Uncared-For Cripples.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WALKING down Olive street recently, I have noticed two or three badly crippled men seated on the sidewalk, selling pencils, or asking alms. One without lower limbs, and another with hands so paralyzed and twisted out of shape that he was evidently unable to do any kind of work. The weather has been so chilly that for a well man to sit on the sidewalk for any length of time would be sure to bring on rheumatism or worse. Yet hardly anyone pays any attention to these poor fellows.

Is there not some organization, or are there not kindly and well-to-do individuals, who will take these human wrecks to some home, where they could be properly cared for? Has the Community Fund organization any committee or other agency for looking after individual cases of suffering? These men should not be treated as common beggars, but be persuaded to accept such hospitality as organized charity or some city institution can offer. CITIZEN.

Back to Normalcy!

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE American Bankers' Association recommends that the U. S. Government enter into agreements with foreign Governments to abolish compulsory passports and visas.

The system is a useless annoyance to law-abiding citizens and undesirable persons have many ways to evade the regulations.

Led by the example of the United States the fees generally have been raised to $10 for the passport and $10 more for each visa. This is exorbitant. A serious handicap is the loss of time. If a sudden necessity forces a business man to travel to Europe, he cannot do it because it takes about 10 days to get the passport. Losses in business are unavoidable.

Probably it is not necessary to wait for agreement with other Governments. Until 1914 obligatory passports were demanded only in Russia and Roumania. Why should not the United States, as the most progressive country, be the pioneer in the abolition?

The United States gave the bad example for unreasonable fees. It should give a shining example in letting trade and travel return to normal.

REASONS FOR AN EXTRA SESSION.

Washington opinion is divided as to an extra session of Congress. It is the consensus that, if Mr. Coolidge consulted only his own wishes, there would be no extra session. As a Post-Dispatch correspondent observes, a President is happier with no Congress on his hands. Nor can there be any doubt that this is the position of many of the party leaders, as well as others close to the White House.

The prerogative of consulting only their own wishes, however, is no longer enjoyed by Presidents or Kings. Obligations have the right of way. That is the point stressed by Senator Borah in his statement publicly advocating the calling of Congress shortly after March 4. Farm relief, the railroads, the World Court, tax reduction—those are all questions of vital moment whose consideration, he contends, cannot fairly be postponed to suit party or official preference or convenience.

Mr. Borah's position is bound to have great weight with the President. The success of the Coolidge administration will depend, in an extraordinary degree, upon the Idaho Senator. With Borah lukewarm or in opposition, administration measures will be doomed in the Senate. It is true, of course, that all the senatorial regulars will have to be dependably regular, but that is peculiarly true of Borah, because his attitude will influence other Senators. Again, Mr. Coolidge is aware that he has no more disinterested adviser than Borah, no one in whose sincerity of purpose he can place greater confidence.

The reasons which he gives for calling an extra session are characteristic of Borah at his best. Agricultural legislation figured in the campaign. There were no definite promises as to what would be done, but Gen. Dawes specifically promised to find out what ought to be done, and without delay. What effect this promised Dawes plan for agricultural relief may have had in winning the farmer vote is conjectural, but the vote was won and the obligation on Mr. Coolidge and his party to keep faith with the farmer and do it promptly is unquestioned.

The necessity for railroad legislation and the drafting of conditions for our entry into the World Court may not be so strikingly urgent, but the necessity for tax reduction is as pressing as is that of farm relief. Mr. Borah is right in holding that tax reduction is an integral part of any sound plan for rehabilitating agriculture. The work of providing such relief for the country should be undertaken as soon as possible. This is the kind of work Presidents and Congresses are elected to do. These are the reasons for an extra session. If not conclusive they are certainly persuasive.

A QUEER IDEA OF REST.

Someone has deceived Ramsay MacDonald again. Announcement is made that he contemplates visiting America to recuperate after "his hard grind" of a year in the premiership. He finds himself in need of rest.

The implied charge that Rotarians have weakened is untrue. That Mr. MacDonald would have an opportunity to rest more than five hours daily, and that while he slept, is a direct reflection on all the Boards of Trade, Chambers of Commerce, standing reception committees appointed by the Mayors, trades union councils, city clubs and all other energetic entertainers throughout the country.

We would be glad to see the Labor Premier, but it is wrong to lead him to believe that he would have any chance whatever to rest. A false adviser has had his ear. Before committing himself finally he should consult the Prince of Wales, who by this time should have caught up with his sleep. He should ask the Prince, as man to man, just what chance there is for a distinguished visitor to rest in America.

A DICTATOR AND THE TIGER'S TAIL.

Through a correspondent of the Berlin Tageblatt, Gen. de Rivera, the Spanish dictator, tells the Post-Dispatch that about next March "normal conditions" will be restored in Spain. That would be about 18 months from the time when he grasped the Government, Sept. 13, 1923.

The acting head of the Directorate, Admiral Magaz, ruling while De Rivera personally directs the Morocco retreat, had promised that "The Directorate would become civil government in January," of course under De Rivera as Premier. An election and new electoral laws were to follow. But De Rivera himself seems to find a couple more months necessary—and there may be further postponements.

De Rivera's policy is simple enough. It is to withdraw from the numerous posts Spain has tried to maintain in the wild territory of the Riffs and concentrate the Spanish forces in a few strong points along the coast, leaving the natives except for occasional punitive expeditions, to stew in their own juice—and bloody broth it is likely to be. For the rest, he is like Mussolini in promising normal conditions with himself as Prime Minister; and like him also in finding reasons for delaying the date of normalcy.

"KIEL OR CHAOS."

Mayor Kiel happens to be the lucky possessor of the initial "K." Such fortune enables him to take over the most successful political slogan of the time without impairing the auditory alliteration. "Kiel," for all practical purposes, fits with "chaos" as well as does "Coolidge."

The real reason for the adoption of the "Kiel or Chaos" mummery, of course, is its reputation for success. The meaning matters not. It might as well mean "Kiel or cosmos." As an advertising sesame it works. That is enough.

If political opponents should burrow for a meaning, however, they might find one. As compared with the city hall vote-producing machine, for instance, all other political organizations thus far discernible are chaos. Kiel's official policies are known. All others, being unknown, could be branded as chaos. Our handsome Mayor believes in employing all the people for the city he can squeeze upon the payroll and letting well enough alone. The Bureau of Municipal Research, finding innumerable Kiel supporters with city jobs but without work, is chaos.

Popular majorities this autumn are inclined to the philosophy of the melancholy Dane that it is better to bear those ills we have than fly to others we know not of. Henry may be regarded right now as a preferable political yoke. But political temper is subject to rapid change. By the ides of March the voters of St. Louis may be either optimistic again or reckless.

VOLSTEAD UPHOLDS THE HILL VERDICT.

Congressman Hill, acquitted of violating the Volstead act in making for his own use cider and light wines, although these beverages contained far more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol, will be gratified at what Andrew J. Volstead, father of the prohibition law, has to say on this subject.

> It was not the intention of the act to prohibit home making and consumption of fruit juice that will not become wine. A fruit juice will not develop any alcoholic content without the use of sugar. Some persons would become intoxicated on a small percentage of alcoholic content, while others can consume large quantities of high content without exhibiting signs of intoxication.

Volstead does not appear to be well acquainted with the process of home brewing. He says that a fruit juice will not develop any alcoholic content without the use of sugar. But ripe fruits contain sugar, and with a little yeast, or even without yeast, will certainly develop more than one-half of one per cent—the magic formula that holds the commercial manufacturers, but is evidently not intended for the home brewer.

It was thought at first that the question of what is "intoxicating in fact" might come before the Supreme Court in the Hill case. That is not now necessary. And the Volstead pronouncement will tend to further encourage the great host of cider and light wine makers to follow Hill's example. Prohibition Commissioner Haynes, however, gives warning that the Hill verdict will not affect the efforts of the enforcement unit, as it was merely a "Baltimore verdict." Home brewers, take notice!

KLAN SPELLING BOTHERS CANDIDATE.

Charles Bowles, candidate for Mayor of Detroit backed by the Ku Klux Klan, claims that he was defeated because a large number of ballots cast for him were thrown out on account of misspelling of his name. It appears that the voters spelled his name in 120 different ways.

Now what else could a klan candidate expect, after the klan has so tampered with the English language that its own mother, if it had one, would not recognize it? The klan is supposed to be a special champion of education. It was even going to buy and run a university. If it would conduct spelling schools as well as klonvocations, it might be better for its political candidates and its own membership.

GET THERE!

Run, brother, run!
If you don't catch the 7:10
You'll surely miss your date, and then
You'll only be a poor "has been;"
Some other guy will cop the bacon;
The "kale," you'll find, will have been "taken."

Go, sister, go!
If you don't "punch the clock" on time
And make that old typewriter "chime"
Some other "sweetie" takes your seat
That moves on spryer little feet
And jobless you will walk the street,
O my! O my!

Rush, father, rush!
You had to do it when a boy,
In middle life it was a joy
To "get there first" and "beat the game,"
And now tho' you are old and lame
And joy has fled, it is the same,
You got'a go! "old boy."

Hump! mother, hump!
Pick up your feet and jump.
The spry "old girl" across the street
Will be "elected" and will greet
You as the one who met defeat—
And wouldn't that be "bitter sweet?"
So, move along!

Drive! mister, drive!
For seven "flivvers" just behind
Are coming fast and "of a mind"
To "get your goat" and "give you dust,"
And leave behind your "pile of rust,"
And they will do it, or you must
"Step on her tail" and drive!

Sir: I am enclosing you an article which I personally believe will knock all the wind out of the Invisible Government, if it can be brought to the attention of the public. Of course, it is out of the ordinary, but inasmuch as the power it is aimed at is out of the ordinary it will take an extraordinary effort to arrest it. The following is the article:

"THE LORD'S PRAYER AS INTERPRETED BY THE KU KLUX."

Our Imperial Wizard who art in the Invisible Empire, hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come, thy will be done in the United States government as it is in the Invisible Empire. Give us this day our Secret instructions. Forgive us our trespasses as we trespass upon the rights of the Jew, the Catholic, the Negro and all other aliens of the Invisible Empire. Lead us not into Public Exposure, but deliver us from the Righteous Indignation of Public Paritotism; for thine is the Kingdom, and the power and the Glory, forever. Amen.

Sir: I am wondering if you would pass along to Spassmacher this rather tardy appreciation of "The Thief," which appeared in your column some time ago. Spassmacher does with words what an artist does with paint. The poem is so small and so perfect and so beautiful withal that it partakes somewhat of the qualities of a miniature by a master.

Spassmacher takes a world-old idea, that of the youth yearning to bestow some gift upon the female of his affections, and brings to it a thought so original that it immediately captures our fancy. The words he uses are gems of many colors. One sees the red glow of the ruby and the amber sparkle of the topaz, jewels which themselves might be made into a necklace for a beloved maiden.

The tenderness and gentleness with which love's spell endows one is somehow epitomized in the line, "dew stolen soft from a sleeping elf's coat." The little poem is like a wild flower which blooming by the highway for a fleeting space nods saucily to such passersby as are able to appreciate its loveliness. Yours, J. E. H.

By RICHARD L. STOKES.

NE of the remarkable romances of music was embodied last night at the Odeon with the appearance of Roland Hayes, of an ex-slave, in a song recital which for exquisite refinement and emotional stress could challenge comparison with the art of Kreis-'s violin.

He was born 37 years ago on a little farm at Curryville, Ga., and despite unspeakable poverty contrived to educate himself and work his way through Fisk University, in Nashville. The beauty of his voice attracted attention while he was traveling with the Fisk Jubilee Singers, and he was taken in hand by Arthur Hubbard of Boston, teacher of Charles and Arthur Hackett. Six years ago he attempted a modest concert tour, and sang Poro College in this city before handful of listeners.

Two years later he went to London, and spent almost his last cent arranging a recital. It was so successful that during the same season he gave 15 concerts in the English metropolis, and was commanded to sing before King George Buckingham Palace. In Paris was soloist with the famous Colonne Orchestra, and in Vienna and Berlin repeated the triumph won London.

Soloist With Symphony Orchestra.

On his return to America last year, he was engaged as soloist with the Detroit and Boston symphony orchestras—the first of his race to achieve this cachet. He is engaged for three appearances with the Boston orchestra this season, and for one with the New York Symphony Orchestra. His recitals at Carnegie Hall are invariably sold out, and his fee is said to be $2000 a concert.

This career is the more creditable in that Hayes has definite vocal limitations, of which he himself is fully aware. His organ seems to lack high range—at least, tones above the staff which were sung with resonance betrayed strain. It is also wanting in power and splendor; last night he did not venture beyond a mezzo-forte. But within these bounds he has created a style in miniature of the utmost delicacy and finesse. He commands a pianissimo of such ethereal lightness that he can give an illusion of climax with the exertion of a minimum of force.

His diction, whether in English, French, German or Italian, is well-nigh flawless, so that scarcely a syllable is lost. The voice itself is of a peculiar sweetness, often resembling the milky timbre of a muted A-string on the violoncello. steady legato, in eloquence of phrasing and in color of shading, is handled rather with the deftness of a violin bow than with apparatus of diaphragm, lungs and vocal cords. This cunningly trained mechanism is ruled by a scholarly intelligence and the fastidious taste of an artist.

Has True Mozartian Method.

We recall no singer save John McCormack who could have delivered Mozart's concert aria, "Per pieta, no ricercate," in so genuine Mozartian style. A Handel aria which followed—"Would You Gain Tender Creature," from "Acis and Galatea"—was a masterpiece of dainty and fervent song. Then the singer turned to German lieder—Schubert's "An die Leier," "Die Forelle" and "Du Bist die Ruh'," and Hugo Wolf's dramatic "Beherzigung"—for an exposition of his feeling and skill in this formidable department of interpretation.

The soloist's enterprise as a program maker, already displayed in more than one avoidance of the stereotypes of the concert platform, had additional illustration in a superb song by the late Charles W. Griffes, "In a Myrtle Shade," which ended arrestingly on an unresolved harmony; in another unfamiliar ditty, "I Know a Shady by Whelpley. After Rachmaninoff's poignant "In the Silence of the Night" came still another novelty, Dvorak's setting of the psalm, "By the Waters of Babylon." Massenet's aria, "La Reve," from "Manon," was a further example of impassioned delicacy.

Sings Plantation Melodies.

Finally the singer turned to the songs created by his own people—the plantation spirituals, which he expressed with the same refinement and feeling that had been given to the classics. Those presented were "I've Got a Home That Rock," Harry T. Burleigh's arrangement of "Deep River," "Every Time I Feel de Spirit" and "Done Made My Vow to the Lord." It was made evident that has derived its syncopation and the "blues" their rambling recitative from religious ecstasy, which even the fleshly uses to which have been put. The last glimpse of the singer was as he stood alone on the platform, eyes closed, face uplifted and the silent form eagerly thrust forward, for an unaccompanied intonation of one of the oldest and most touching of the spirituals, "Crucifixion."

The audience was not as large as Hayes is accustomed to muster in cities where he is better known and consisted mostly of Negroes, who were admitted to boxes and parquet. The proceeds were for the benefit of the St. Louis Colored Orphans' Home. Clever and sympathetic piano accompaniment were contributed by William L rence.

You Are Entitled to Know the Facts!

Rudolph Valentino in "A Sainted Devil" has its world premier at the Missouri Theater Saturday. My opinion after viewing this marvelous production is that "A Sainted Devil" is really one of the finest photoplays created since the inception of motion pictures.

I have arrived at this conviction after having personally produced and supervised hundreds of great Paramount pictures such as "Male and Female," "Why Change Your Wife?" "The Covered Wagon," "Ten Commandments" and many Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks and Gloria Swanson Paramount productions. Photoplays that will live forever in the Motion Picture Hall of Fame.

You will agree with me after seeing Rudolph Valentino in "A Sainted Devil," that he has more than excelled his immortal performances in both "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse" and "Monsieur Beaucaire."

No expense was spared in the making of this great Rex Beach story to rival the pretentiousness and magnitude of any motion picture ever made. It is a pleasure to acquaint the lovers of good entertainment of St. Louis with these facts in order that you may grasp the opportunity to be among the first to see the photoplay "Triumph of Triumphs."

BAKER FACES CUT IN STATE SCHOOL FUND

STATE INSTITUTIONS NEED BUILDINGS

Condition of Finances Due to Reduction in Tax Rate Two Years Ago.

By CURTIS A. BETTS,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 14.—A necessity for curtailing State aid for the public school system and a tightening up on many activities of the State government is facing Gov.-elect Baker and the incoming State administration, "nless through an increase in the State tax rate or through an increase by legislation of the funds derived from some other source of revenue the State income is materially increased.

On estimates being prepared by the State Tax Commission in State will have approximately $2,500,000 less revenue per year than the amount necessary for the State to function as it has in the last two years.

The public schools will suffer directly from the shortage of revenue in exactly the proportion that the revenue is less than it has been during the last two years, as one-third of all State revenue is appropriated to the schools. Last year the schools received from the State nearly $4,000,000. It now is considered doubtful whether next year the amount will reach $3,500,000.

An abandonment of any plan for the construction of new buildings at State institutions also is in prospect. Because of the fact that there has been virtually no building in the last two years many of the institution are in need of new structures and will be handicapped by a failure to get them.

Two Years of No Building.

In the first two years of the Hyde administration the building requirements, which were large because few buildings were erected during the four years of the Gardner administration, were reasonably well met, but then followed two years of no building, during which some of the older structures became less suited for use.

The situation in which the State finances are now found is due directly to the action of the Legislature in 1923 in reducing the State tax rate from 15 cents on the $100 valuation to 5 cents, and to the reduction in the income and corporation franchise taxes. The State tax rate reduction followed an increase by the State Board of Equalization of the assessed valuation of property.

While official estimates of the revenue are not forthcoming from the Tax Commission, which has not completed its work, unofficially the information is given that a total revenue for the 1925-26 period of not to exceed $24,500,000 is to be expected. Two years ago the anticipated revenue was given as $30,000,000.

The receipts from taxation and from the various tax and license sources are expected to be between $22,000,000 and $23,000,000. There will be something remaining in the treasury at the close of the present biennial period, probably between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000, which will be available for reappropriation during the coming two years.

The attitude of the incoming administration toward increased expenditures is not known. Gov.-elect Baker, during the campaign, promised an economical administration, a rather elastic term, but avoided any pledge of tax reduction. The Democrats pledged a reduction in taxes and virtually promised to decrease the assessed valuation.

There are only two general ways Baker can get more money for the State. One is to increase the tax rate or the rate of some of the special taxes, such as the income or the corporation franchise. The other is to increase assessments through the State Board of Equalization. An increase in any tax rate can be obtained only by act of the Legislature, and it is extremely doubtful that the Democratic Senate would vote the increase.

It is even doubtful that Baker, if he should decide upon that plan, could get an increase through the Republican House. It is safe to say he could not unless the increase were made a Republican caucus measure and it were jammed through as a matter of party necessity.

The situation is one that probably will be embarrassing to the new administration, which will not want to increase taxes, but which will be subject to increased demands from nearly every State institution and State department.

The Navy's equipment is, on the whole, modern. The training planes, for instance, are new since the war, built by Boening and highly rated. The observation and scouting planes are war-time stocks, Martins and F-5's, and no longer first class. But the combined bombardment-scouting-torpedo planes are Douglass planes, like the around-the-world air cruisers. The Navy will have acquired during the current fiscal year 138 planes, a fair number, but not enough to offset the loss during the year, 175 by wear and tear and obsolecence.

The Navy would like more money for the purchase of aircraft, but it thinks that aeronautics isn't as yet highly enough developed to warrant the expenditure of huge sums of money. Planes bought now will become obsolete so fast the purchases won't be worth the money, in the opinion of Capt. Taylor. The Navy is busying itself, therefore, mostly with the problems of landing on and taking off from ships at sea.

The fifth article of this series will deal with the supercaution that has kept our development down.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

BELLO HORIZONTE, Minas Geraes, Brazil, Oct. 15.—Although Minas Geraes borders on the states of Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo, and spreads over the Central Brazilian plateau with a square mileage nearly equal to that of Texas, the rumors of revolutions and the spattering of machine guns in the surrounding states have not excited the contented Minas farmers. They are selling plenty of coffee and cattle at good prices, and the state government has lots of money in its pocket, thereby making unnecessary a policy of heavy taxation.

More people live in Minas Geraes than in any other Brazilian state. The population totals between 6,000,000 and 7,000,000. About 5,000,000 live in the country or in towns of less than 2000 inhabitants. There are only two cities having a population over 25,000, another proof that the state is rural in its make-up. These are Bello Horizonte, the state capital, with 60,000, and Juiz de Fora, a manufacturing city of about the same size.

With the exception of the southern part of the state, the Minas coffee is shipped directly to Rio de Janeiro. The cattlemen depend also to a great extent upon the Rio de Janeiro for their Rio eats 500 head of cattle day, and this continuous for fresh meat is nearly by the ranches in Minas

COMMUNITY FUND CAMPAIGN TO BE LAUNCHED TONIGHT

Solicitations Throughout City to Begin Tomorrow Following Dinner Meetings to Perfect Plans.

The 1925 Community Fund campaign, the goal of which is $1,751,521.15, thus making it the largest charitable and philanthropic endeavor ever conducted in St. Louis and St. Louis County, will be started with dinner meetings of workers in the Individual Subscriber and Colored Papulation divisions tonight. The former will be at Hotel Statler, and the latter at the Pine Street Y. M. C. A. Hotel Statler is donating the dinner given there.

Solicitation of funds throughout the city will begin tomorrow morning. The Employe division, of which John H. Holliday is chairman, which will solicit industrial, public and other working men and women, will be the last of the Community Fund campaign units to get into action. It will meet at Hotel Statler tomorrow night to open its work.

Two campaign divisions, the county, of which William H. Henby is chairman, and the Special Gifts Committee, in charge of Jackson Johnson, have been soliciting for the past three days.

The Community Fund campaign organization has a volunteer force of about 6000 workers, including the service divisions, which are the Supplies, Publicity, Auditing and Information and Appeals divisions.

For this reason, the various divisions have had to hold their opening meetings separately, a departure from the custom of previous years.

This evening's meeting at the Statler will begin at 6:30, with invocation by the Rev. Ivan Lee Holt. George B. Logan, chairman, will call the meeting to order, following dinner, at 7:30. Speakers will be Harry B. Wallace, general chairman of the fund; Thomas N. Dysart, chairman of the 1925 Campaign Executive Committee; John H. Holliday, chairman of the employe division; Mrs. George Gellhorn, chairman of the information and appeals division, and William H. Danforth, chairman of the publicity division.

Logan will give the workers instructions on the conduct of the campaign, which will include a house-to-house canvass.

There are 50 charatible and social service organizations which will participate in the 1925 fund. Their names and amounts allotted them in the budget were published in Wednesday's Post-Dispatch. They work for dependent and neglected children, for needy and homeless families and individuals, for the sick and injured and promotion of health, for protection and reformation of the wayward and delinquent, for character building, education and recreation, and for general community service.

Aim as to Contributors.

There were 52 agencies participating in the 1924 fund, but three of these have been dropped—the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, the South Side Public Health Nursing and Teaching Center, no longer in existence, and Euclid House, a branch of the Board of Religious Organizations, which will continue to receive support through the board's allotment. One new agency will participate in 1925—Wesley House, a neighborhood center at 3035 Bell avenue. Important agencies not now participating in the Fund are the Federation of Jewish Charities and the various Catholic charities, because they have their own means of raising money.

Before the advent of the fund in 1923, there were about 8000 contributors to the 50 charities and philanthropies in the fund. In its first campaign, the fund secured 75,000 contributors, and last year the number was increased to 90,000. The aim this year is to get 125,000 givers.

A window sign will be given to every home in the city and county that makes a contribution to the fund. It carries the fund slogan, a red heart with the words "Suppose Nobody Cared," and at the bottom, "We Care."

The daily returns of the campaign will be audited by a force of expert accountants placed at the disposal of the Community Fund by Ernst & Ernst.

Kiel Issues Statement.

"The man of Galilee once said, 'Ye have the poor with you always.' This is as true at the present day as it was 1900 years ago. To take care of 50 charities a budget has been made calling for $1,751,521.15. This amount has been suggested as the size of the heart of St. Louis. To aid in this great charity work I, Henry W. Kiel, Mayor of St. Louis, do proclaim the period, Nov. 14 to 24 inclusive, 'City - wide Community Fund Period.' It is my wish and hope that the citizens of St. Louis, recognizing the necessity of a community chest, will give liberally to aid those less fortunate than themselves."

MAN CHARGED WITH KILLING OTHER WITH SHOVEL ON TRIAL

The trial of Jacob Ditch, 50 years old, of St. John's Station, St. Louis County, on a charge of killing James Moddy, also of St. John's Station, with a shovel May 14, last, opened in Judge Wurdeman's court at Clayton today. Moddy died at city hospital May 19 with a fractured skull.

The first witness for the State was Joseph Barnes, 67, 4665 Rosa avenue, who testified that he was watching Ditch dig a hole in Marshal avenue, near St. Charles road, on May 14, when Moddy passed carrying a basket. Barnes said he inquired as to the contents of the basket, and that Moddy became angry and knocked him down. When he picked himself up, Barnes said, Moddy was laying on the ground with Ditch standing over him. William Manning, 13 years old, testified that he witnessed the assault on Barnes by Moddy, and then saw Ditch strike Moddy with his shovel.

In a statement to the Court, counsel for Ditch said it would be shown that Moddy died from the effects of alcoholism and an injury to his head sustained in an automobile accident prior to May 14. In refutation of this Dr. Theodore Carrier of the St. Louis Coroner's office, testified that Moddy's death resulted from a fractured skull, and that such injury becomes evident within several days after the impact causing it was delivered.

GIRL FIRES FIVE SHOTS AT YOUNG MAN IN FLIGHT

Passersby were startled at Washington avenue and Eleventh street at 8 a. m. today by the spec'acle of a young woman firing a pistol at a young man dashing north on Eleventh street.

None of the five shots fired took effect, and after the young man escaped the girl calmly walked east on Washington avenue to Tenth street, where she entered the Martin Building.

Police who reached the scene shor'ly afterward were told by witnesses that the two young persons had been engaged in conversation when the girl suddenly drew a revolver from her coat and began firing. Witnesses said the girl was well dressed and 'hat the young man was of swarthy complexion.

Police expressed the opinion that the revolver used by the girl contained blank cartridges because no plate glass in the vicinity was damaged and there was no evidence tha' bullets had struck any of the nearby buildings. They are searching for the girl.

GOMPERS SATISFIED WITH NEWLY ELECTED CONGRESS

By the Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 14.—Labor fared "almost phenomenally well" in the general elections, Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, said today in a public statement, commenting on results of the Nov. 4 election.

"In the face of the tremendous Coolidge landslide there were elected to the House of Representatives more members having labor's indorsement than are to be found in the present House," Gompers asserted.

DIVISION IN TARIFF BOARD

Disagreement Reported on Data to Be Given to President.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Data showing the comparative costs of sugar beet growing in this country and Cuba, requested of the Tariff Commission by President Coolidge in connection with his study of the report on sugar duties, will be submitted in a few days. Chairman Marvin told the President today.

The commission is understood to have divided both on the sugar report, a majori'y favoring a cut in the present duty, and on the character of the additional information to be submitted to the President.

Wm. Jardine Named on Commission

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—William M. Jardine, president of Kansas Agricultural College, was appointed by President Coolidge today as an additional member of the President's agricultural commission. White House offiicals said his name was omitted from the original list of members through error. This makes the total membership of the commission nine.

DR. ECKENER GIVEN FAREWELL

By the Associated Press

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Zeppelin ZR-3 on its record flight from Friedrichshafen, Germany, to Lakehurst, N. J., was tendered a farewell dinner last night by the United German Society of this city. Dr. Eckener sails for home today.

Lauded by Mayor John F. Hylan and David Maier, head of the New York State Steuben Society, as a messenger of peace, Dr. Eckener replied in German that the welcome accorded him in the United States "surpassed his most pleasant dreams." This tribute, he declared, testified to the fact that antagonism of the World War had been forgotten.

CONSUL HAEBERLE, HOME, TELLS OF SAO PAULO REVOLT

Physical Damage to City Has Been Repaired and American Interests Suffered Little, He Says.

A Yankee Consul who stuck to his post in last July's rebellion in Sao Paulo, Brazil, in spite of the fighting which materially damaged that thriving city, is home in St. Louis for a brief visit. He is Arminius T. Haeberle, Consul-General at Sao Paulo.

Though his lips are sealed against discussion of political and revolutionary matters by a standing order of the State Department, Consul Haeberle was able to give the Post-Dispatch today some general statements concerning what had happened, and to voice assurance that life and business had returned to normal in Sao Paulo, which is Brazil's second city and the center of its great coffee exporting region.

Dispatches have pictured Sao Paulo as having many buildings wrecked or damaged by shell fire of the attacking Federal troops or explosions caused by the retreating rebels. A State Department announcement at Washington placed the number of civilians killed and injured in the combat at 3000.

"The fighting has had no effect on the prosperity, growth or business conditions of Sao Paulo," Consul Haeberle declared, at the home of his brother, Dr. Frederick S. Haeberle, 3206 Hebert street. "New companies," he continued, "are being formed with the usual rapidity.

"Physical damage to the city has been repaired with remarkable rapidity. In many places after a few weeks few traces of damage were left. American interests suffered little. There were no casualties among the American colony of several hundred persons, so far as could be ascertained. Fortunately, American property sustained little physical damage.

"Many inhabitants of Sao Paulo left the city after the fighting began, and among them were some American families. Some few other Americans found temporary abodes in safe districts. A number came to my residence. Free movement of Americans was not molested by the belligerents, who issued permits."

Two big American packing plants are operated in Sao Paulo, one by Armour & Co., the other by the Continental Products Co. Other important commercial interests of this country are represented there. It is reported that the fighters requisitioned some supplies from business establishments, for which foreign concerns probably will have claims against the Brazilian Government. Consul Haeberle said the Government had shown every consideration for American interests.

The Consul related that foreign residents showed a spirit of calmness throughout the rebellion, which lasted from July 5 to July 27. Dispatches related that Americans were beginning to wonder how much longer the city would be tenable, before the rebels were driven out; food and water were holding out then and sanitary conditions were all right.

Activity Confined to City.

Consul Haeberle was asked whether it was true, as some dispatches had asserted, that the rebels had advanced on Santos, Sao Paulo's nearby seaport. He said that was not true. He was asked whether there had been any rebel activity outside Sao Paulo city, and whether active rebel forces remained after the evacuation of the city. He replied that there was no outside activity to amount to anything, and that there had been only rumors of remaining forces.

The rebellion is understood to have been precipitated by Sao Paulo State police and Federal soldiers stationed in Sao Paulo city. State President Carlos da Campos made his way to Rio de Janeiro, refusing to join the rebels.

Arminius T. Haeberle was born in St. Louis 50 years ago, and was graduated from Washington University. He entered the country's foreign service in 1908, previously having been head of the modern language department of McKinley High School. He served successfully in Mexico, Spanish Honduras, the Azores, Pernambuco and Brazil, then, after the World War, was temporarily in charge of the Consulate-General at Rio de Janeiro, going to Sao Paulo in April, 1923. He is married. Mrs. Haeberle remained in Sao Paulo throughout the rebellion and is there now.

The Consul's visit here is primarily to see his father, the Rev. Dr. Louis Haeberle, who is ill. He left Sao Paulo Oct. 12 and avoided ship news reporters upon arriving at New York. After reporting at Washington, he came directly here. He will not have opportunity during his short stay to discuss Brazilian business with business men, but had the following to say of interest to them:

"The present greatness of Sao Paulo had its origin in the war, when Euprope was not producing goods. It is the second largest manufacturing center in South America. In 1923, its record year, the boom was about equal to the boom that Chicago started with. The population is about 700,000, and Americans sometimes compare the city with one of our Middle West.

"It is the center of coffee exporting—some ranches in the State have as many as 5,000,000 coffee plants. The second great export is frozen meat. The cotton business is advancing, and cotton sometimes sells there for more than in foreign markets.

"Textiles, shoes, hats, chemicals, pharmaceutical preparations, and furniture are the leading manufactured products. The development extends throughout Sao Paulo state on account of the good new roads. There are about 14,000 automobiles in the State, chiefly of American make, for which gasoline is imported.

"St. Louis exporters should emphasize agricultural machinery, small trucks, road machinery, iron and steel and chemical preparations in dealing with Sao Paulo. The rebellion hasn't affected markets, though it made business somewhat conservative."

Hotel on the Meramec Looted.

The hotel at Castlewood, Meramec River resort, above Valley Park, was looted of all its furnishings during the early part of the week, the proprietor, R. Hencke, reported to police last night. He had visited the place yesterday, he said, and found a moving van must have been used to carry away the loot. It included phonographs and records, chairs, kitchen equipment, sheets, spreads and other linens and all valued at about $2000. A caretaker at the place, he said, could not be located by him.

PREVENTION

Without health we lose the power to work and to enjoy—we lose, perhaps, even life itself. But what are we doing to prevent disease, to keep our health, to improve it?

We take reasonable care of our automobile, or any other machine we may possess, but often we neglect our body—the most precious machine of all!

Few of us realize, for example, the amazingly large proportion of all diseases that enter the body through the mouth. This has been estimated as high as eighty per cent.

Therefore, it is absolutely essential to our safety that we keep the teeth clean and sound, and the gums firm and healthy.

Every time we eat, tiny particles of food lodge in almost inaccessible places in the mouth Brushing alone cannot dislodge them; they remain, ferment and form acids which attack the teeth and gums, causing conditions which may lead to Pyorrhea, lowered vitality, rheumatism, heart and kidney disease.

What a penalty for neglect! What a penalty for failure to recognize the harm done by those acids! Therefore, we must practice prevention. We dare not wait until the damage is done—we must prevent it!

KATZ' LIFE OF ART, LOVE AND JEWELS HAS DRAB FINISH

JEALOUS HUSBAND OF BLONDE HELD

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 14.—In life Harry I. Katz, shot to death in his luxurious Los Angeles apartment, which he had purchased for $50,000, paying for it in diamonds, was the center of a world of wealth, art and beauty, where he dealt with beautiful women and in precious stones and played feverish Hungarian love songs on his 22 soft-toned violins.

But death tore away the glamor from the diamond broker. Katz was a yachtsman, a virtuoso, a dilletante, until the mysterious hand of death today revealed him to be the son of a poor immigrant.

To an undertaker's drab chapel an old man shuffled his way this morning to kneel at a death slab. He was Isaac Katz, a peddler of kitchen utensils and culinary knick knacks. He came away for the day from his seat on a huckster cart in the city's slums to grieve at the bier of his son, Harry.

Beside Isaac Katz's round-shouldered form there knelt a little old mother with a black shawl over her white face. There also were two of Harry Katz's sisters and two brothers in the group.

"Harry Was Good to Us."

"Harry never lived at home," said one of the sisters to the undertaker, "and we didn't know much about his life out there. Father had never been where Harry lived until the night he died. But Harry was good. He was good to all of us."

The family waited in an anteroom while the son's body was prepared for burial—waited alone. None of Katz's rich friends, none of the beautiful women, was there. Dorothy Carroll, an alabaster blonde, was not in the undertaker's nor was Rosita Martini, Hollywood beauty.

"That bad woman, Rosita," as she signed her letters to Katz, was in retirement.

"All right, come in," the undertaker's assistant motioned, and the wealthy broker's waiting huckster father, his gray-haired old mother, his brothers and sisters, walked slowly to a room cluttered with coffins and flowers and human bodies. There they were left alone with Harry.

Woman's Husband Grilled.

Meanwhile, in their investigation of the murder, the police today grilled Charles E. Carroll, husband of Dorothy. Carroll, a barber, according to police, was intensely jealous of his wife, who sued him three months ago for divorce. Prior to that in Bakersfield, Cal., Carroll had shot and wounded a man in the progress of a "party" attended by Mrs. Carroll.

Conflicting statements concerning the ownership of a .32-caliber pistol such as was used to kill Katz held two men in the city jail as material witnesses pending further investigation of the pistol's history and how its magazine came to be short one cartridge. The two men, Carroll and Earl H. Bridges, his roommate, are both quoted by the District Attorney's office as denying ownership of the pistol, each insisting the weapon belongs to the other. Carroll admitted under questioning last night that he once owned a .32-caliber pistol and had used it at Bakersfield, Cal., two years ago in the shooting affray growing out of the behavior of another man toward Mrs. Carroll. Mrs. Carroll has told the police she spent considerable time with Katz, and was with him on two evenings immediately preceding his murder.

"Is That a Death Threat?"

While investigators were checking the alibis offered by Carroll and Bridges, police detectives were told by a woman tenant of Katz's apartment house that a few minutes before the shooting she had heard Katz arguing heatedly with another man and that just before the shot rang out she heard Katz cry, 'Is that a death threat?" This woman, whose name was withheld, and several other tenants of the apartment house are expected to be the chief witnesses at the Coroner's inquest.

Loss of Pickford Jewels.

A development today was admission of the authorities that in connection with Katz's murder they were investigating the theft of $40,000 worth of jewels from the Los Angeles home of Jack Pickford, motion picture actor. Katz, according to the officers, with another man, now being sought, were the purchasers of the Pickford loot.

A check of oil paintings obtained by Katz in his diamond-trading operations revealed that two of them, valued at $15,000, had been placed on consignment in a Los Angeles art store, and two others, valued at $2500, had been turned over to Albert Mors, husband of Mrs. Theresa Mors, for whose alleged murder here last August Kid McCoy, ex-pugilist, is being held.

That Katz had figured in police investigations in Chicago also was asserted by the police. The slain diamond dealer is said to have incurred the enmity of a Chicago gem theft gang in a deal involving $100,000 worth of diamonds. Katz is reported also to have been involved in a shooting in Chicago, where he resided 10 years ago.

SOAKS RIGHT IN AND LIMBERS UP STIFF JOINTS

It took a good many years to get together a combination of pain subduing and swelling reducing agents declared to be the one remedy that almost instantly penetrates through skin and flesh and starts right in to make swollen, inflamed, creaky, pain racked joints as good as new.

They call this new and wonderful preparation "Joint-Ease" because the medical man who turned the trick, worked for years to perfect some low-priced remedy that would really benefit the millions of people who have one or more joints that need helpful attention.

So "Joint-Ease" is prepared only for people who have a swollen, painful, creaky, distorted or stiff joint, whether it be in knee, elbow, shoulder, ankle, neck or finger and whether it is caused by rheumatism or something else.

Of course, it can't help but quickly put an end to such superficial ailments as lumbago, neuralgia, neuritis, aching muscles, stitch in the side, crick in the neck or sore feet because of its penetrating action, but what it is really recommended for is joint ailments of any nature whatever.

Ask for a tube of "Joint-Ease." You can use it several times in one evening for quick results, because it goes right through the skin with only a few seconds rubbing. It surely is a swift penetrator and when it gets under the skin, it starts right in to clean up all joint trouble.

Every rheumatic sufferer ought to send today for free book, "The Inner Mysteries of Rheumatism" (just out.) Address H. P. Clearwater, box 800, Hallowell, Maine.

SCHOOL BOARD AGAIN FAILS TO NAME SECRETARY-TREASURER

Salaries of Superintendents of Three Mechanical Divisions of System Increased.

The Board of Education again failed, at its meeting last night, to select a secretary-treasurer to succeed Charles P. Mason, who died 10 months ago. The matter was not even discussed. H. W. McNamee, a leading candidate for the post, is acting secretary-treasurer.

The position of Assistant Commissioner of School Buildings was created by the board and the post of Superintendent of Construction abolished. Frank A. Borgsteadt, who holds the latter post at an annual salary of $4000, will occupy the new position at $5000 a year.

Salaries of the superintendents of three of the mechanical divisions of the system were increased, so that they will receive as much or slightly more than the compensation of the foremen working under them, whose wages, fixed by union scale, amount to $312 a month. The increases are: Superintendent of shops from $290 to $325; superintendent of plumbing from $274 to $312, and superintendent of electric work from $243.50 to $312. Members Schollmeyer, Heier and Mrs. Michaels voted against the increases, declaring they did so to be consistent with the recent action of the board in denying increases to teachers.

Plans for the erection of a 10-room school to replace the portable buildings now in use as the Shenandoah School were approved.

CHRISTOPHEL ADVISES DENIAL OF FILLING STATION PERMIT

He Is Believed to Be Opposed to Erection of Stations in Former Protected Zones.

A recommendation today by Director of Public Safety Christophel to the Board of Public Service, refusing an application for a permit to erect a gasoline filling station at 5826 Nina place, is believed to indicate he is opposed to granting permits for erection of filling stations in localities formerly protected by the city zoning ordinance.

The application today was the first on which Director Christophel has acted since he took office about a month ago. Although the application will not come up for formal hearing until next Friday, other members of the Board of Public Service indicated they would follow Christophel's recommendation.

Several property owners in the vicinity of 5826 Nina place were present when the application was presented by W. E. Groom. The property owners, represented by Attorney John P. Leahy, left when Christophel gave his opinion. Leahy explained that homes in the vicinity of the proposed filling station were restricted by deeds against erection of business houses of any kind.

The refusal recently by the Board of Public Service to grant a permit for a filling station at Kingshighway and Cabanne avenue, on the ground it was less than 250 from a church, has caused the applicant to institute mandamus proceedings to compel the board to grant the permit. The proceedings are pending. The recommendation for refusal of this permit was made by former Director of Public Safety McKelvey, who resigned.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 14.—Directors of the Centropolis Bank at Kansas City, total resources of which amounted to about $867,000 today closed the institution and placed it in the hands of the State Finance Department for investigation because of the serious illness of the president, Joseph R. Gant.

SUPER-DINOSAUR FOUND

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The remains of a gigantic pre-historic animal, probably twice the size of the Carnegie diplodocus, has been discovered in Tanganyika, Africa, and officials of the British Natural History Museum are negotiating with the discoverer in an attempt to obtain them.

Sir Sidney Hormer, director of the museum, told the Morning Post that the bones were finely preserved, and gave an idea of their size by saying that, while the upper arm bone of diplodocus was three and a half feet long, the corresponding bone in the Tanganyika dinosaur was seven feet. The newspaper says the only obstacle to acquiring the remains is the provision of necessary funds, estimated between 5000 and 10,000 pounds sterling (between $23,000 and $46,000).

MILLIONAIRE CAUSES ARREST OF WOMAN WHO SUED HIM

Former Catsup Maker Says Muriel Buell Demanded Money and Raised Disturbance.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Jefferson Livingston, millionaire sportsman, yesterday caused the arrest of Miss Muriel Buell of Los Angeles and Mamaroneck, N. Y., who recently sued him for breach of promise and asked for $1750 a month for life.

Livingston, who is 60 years old and was formerly head of the Snider Catsup Co. of Cincinnati, accused Miss Buell of creating a disturbance in his Wall Street office, the climax, he alleged, of numerous demands for money and pilfering of his private papers.

Miss Buell, who is 28, when arraigned in Tombs Court, denied that she had attempted blackmail. Her chauffeur, she said, drove her to Livingston's office in the $16,000 car he had given her, and when ordered out, she refused to go. Livingston locked the doors, she asserted, and called detectives. The case was postponed until Monday. Miss Buell's suit was settled out of court Sept. 19, Livingston said, for $12,500.

Safety Meeting Tonight.

A mass meeting of industrial foremen and superintendents will be held at Community Center Hall, Grand boulevard and Vista avenue, at 8 p. m. tonight, under the auspices of the St. Louis Safety Council. Jamie Heron: Scotch humorist and lecturer of the National Safety Council, will talk on "Building Men for Safety."

SCOUTS TO 'CONTROL' THE CITY TOMORROW

Boys Will "Fill" Important Positions as Community Fund Campaign Is Launched.

The municipal government will be controlled entirely, tomorrow, by Boy Scouts of St. Louis, who will "take office" for the period of one day. May Kiel will "resign" in favor of Scout Augustin Jones, 4471 West Pine boulevard, and the offices of Chief of Police, Fire Chief, Police Board President, Postmaster, Board of Public Service President, Director of Public Welfare, Director of Public Safety, Director of Streets and Sewers, Director of Public Utilities and President of the Board of Aldermen will be filled by the youthful citizens.

Mayor Kiel has proclaimed Saturday Boy Scout and Community Fund day, to officially recognize the "rule" of the Boy Scouts and to launch the fund campaign for $1,751,521.

Other scouts than those who will hold civic offices will be directors of the Merchants' Exchange and the Stock Exchange and the president of the Chamber of Commerce. Others will be traffic policemen, 165 having been recruited for 54 stations in the downtown district. Nine outlying stations will be handled by the boys.

The new "Board of Aldermen" has promised to pass two "important bills," and the new Mayor has threatened to sign them at once before his term of office expires.

Officialdom in Maplewood and Kirkwood also face the loss of their offices, when Troop 85 of the Boy Scouts take over the city offices there for the day. The Mayors, Chiefs of Police and City Councils will "resign" and the places will be filled by scouts.

OPPOSES MOBILIZATION OF FLEET IN HAWAIIAN ISLES

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 14.—Resolutions urging that the proposed mobilization of naval forces next spring be held elsewhere than in the Hawaiian Islands and expressing the hope that immigration legislation be revised, even to the extent of admitting ultimately the Japanese to the quota provisions of the law, were adopted yesterday by the ninth annual meeting of the American Council of the World Alliance for International Friendship through the churches.

Other resolutions were approved advocating entrance of the United States into the World Court, a sympathetic study of the Geneva protocol, creation of a Federal Commission for the promotion of world peace and participation of the United States in a disarmament conference.

SLAYER OF WIFE EXECUTED

By the Associated Press.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Nov. 14.—Proclaiming his innocence, Harry Diamond, 26 years old, convicted of the murder of his wife, who was shot to death near Gary, Ind., last February, was electrocuted at the state prison here at 12:01 o'clock this morning. Diamond went to his death calmly, stating to prison officers while in the act of being strapped in the chair: "You men are more guilty of murder than I."

Although informed late yesterday that Gov. Branch had refused his plea of clemency, Diamond waited expectantly up to the time of his execution for a word of reprieve. To his sister, Fannie, Diamond is said to have confessed yesterday that he killed his wife, but declared that the crime was committed while he was suffering an epileptic fit.

Was skeptical of Kellogg's Bran until it gave him back his health

Naturally Mr. Carter—whose letter follows—was skeptical. He had tried practically everything for the relief of constipation. All had failed. But Kellogg's Bran brought him permanent relief, just as it has done for thousands of others. Read his letter:

Gentlemen:
I am 43 years old, and have been for years a great sufferer from constipation. I had to resign a clerical position because of rushes of blood to my head, some of which caused me to fall to the ground. I took an outdoor laboring job and tried for the first time, skeptically I admit, your Krumbled Bran. The result has been wonderful. I began to be normal after I had been on the Bran about three days. No more enemas, no more Old Dr. So-and-So's Pills, Epsom salts by the ton, etc., ad infinitum! You have the most wonderful product for constipation I have ever seen or tried. Yours very gratefully,
L. T. Carter, 294 Nineteenth St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, does not irritate the intestines like drugs and pills. It acts exactly as nature acts. Eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to relieve permanently the most chronic case of constipation, or your grocer will return your money.

You will like the exclusive, nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases with every meal. Eat it with milk or cream and in the recipes on every package. Sold by all grocers. Made in Battle Creek.

POISONED WINE SHOWN AT TRIAL OF WOMAN

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LARNED, Kan., Nov. 14.—A bottle of wine containing enough strychnine to kill 30 persons was the silent witness with which the prosecution struck at Mrs. Mary K. Eggleston at the close of yesterday's testimony in her trial on a charge of attempting to poison Dave Ely, wealthy Larned real estate man. The bottle was produced as a climax to the testimony of W. C. Pool, laborer, and R. C. Burgess, detective, that Mrs. Eggleston had put the poison in wine and agreed to pay them $200 to use it to kill Ely.

According to the testimony of the State's witnesses, Mrs. Eggleston wished Ely killed so that she might benefit by the will in which he had bequeathed her $50,000.

Following a two-hour cross-examination of Pool by George W. Finney, chief defense attorney, in a futile attempt to break down Pool's story of how Mrs. Eggleston had signed two contracts for the poisoning of Ely and shooting of Mrs. Laura Eggleston, first wife of Mrs. Mary Eggleston's deceased husband, the prosecution call Burgess to the stand. Burgess corroborated Pool's story of the visit of Mrs. Eggleston's home the night of April 9, when Burgess posed as a Kansas City gunman who would carry out the poisoning for her. He told how she had agreed to pay the $200 as soon as Ely was dead, and Mrs. Laura Eggleston had been shot.

Says Woman Laughed.

Burgess told of Mrs. Eggleston's laughing as she explained that the strychnine to be used on Ely had been bought for her by him. He identified the bottle of poisoned wine and the vial of strychnine with which it had been poisoned. He took the bottle and the vial to Blaine Roberst, County Prosecutor he testified and later to a chemist for analysis.

Burgess also identified a revolver he testified Mrs. Eggleston gave Pool with which to kill Mrs. Laura Eggleston.

Finger prints which the State charges are those left by Mrs. Eggleston on the bottle of poisoned wine were photographed and an attempt will be made to submit that as evidence tomorrow.

Accusations by Finney on cross-examination that Burgess had gone to the Eggleston home for the purpose of inducing Mrs. Eggleston to commit the crime met with a vigorous denial from the detective.

Enough to Kill 30.

George Duncan was the last witness for the State today. He told of the bottle of poisoned wine and the vial of strychnine being brought to him by Burgess and the county Prosecutor. He testified he found more than 15 grains of poison in the pint bottle and that that amount would have killed 30 persons.

JEWELER DENIES PART IN ALLEGED MORS SMUGGLING

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Arthur Medianski, wholesale jeweler, appeared before Federal authorities yesterday with the announcement that he was "the Medianski" described by the Treasury Department at Washington Wednesday as the ringleader in a huge smuggling venture which involved Mrs. Theresa Mors, whom Kid McCoy is charged with having murdered at Los Angeles.

The Washington report was that Medianski was in flight to foreign lands to escape prosecution. The jeweler, through Myron Sulzburger, his attorney, declared he had no intention of leaving the United States.

His connection with the case, said Medianski, was that of an expert on gems and antiques. Because he had served as purchasing adviser to the late Mrs. Mors and her husband, Albert, in Vienna five years ago, he said, he was called as a witness to identify valuable imports Government operatives discovered among Mrs. Mors' effects after her death.

"Two special customs agents from New York came to me after Mrs. Mors was murdered," Medianski said. "They told me they had brought from California certain merchandise that had been smuggled into America after being purchased in Vienna through me, and asked me to identify the pieces. I did, so far as I was able, serving as a voluntary witness."

Although the Treasury Department reported having seized and identified smuggled jewelry valued at $250,000 Medianski declared that Mors had used in Vienna, only half of a $100,000 letter of credit for the purchase of merchandise for his New York store, and that jewelry, ostensibly purchased for Mrs. Mors, would amount to about $30,000 more.

Girl Accosted by Negroes.

Three negroes, one armed, attempted to force Mildred Graber, 16 years old, 2713 Stoddard street, into an alley between Elliot and Gamble street at 6:30 p. m. yesterday as she was returning from work. The girl's screams attracted residents of the vicinity and the negroes escaped as a crowd began to gather.

Chinese Students Need Funds.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—As a result of the recent fighting in China, 30 Chinese citizens sent to Columbia University by their country, are without funds and have been enduring actual hunger, Bursar Daniel, of the university said today. The students have appealed to the Chinese mission in Washington for transportation China.

CLEVELAND DOUBLE SLAYING DUE TO LIQUOR FEUD

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 14.—Remnants of the old Sly-Fanner gang and five bootleggers were sought today in connection with the killing yesterday of Louis Rosen, 29 years old, of Cleveland, and his brother-in-law, Adolph Adelson, 28, son of a wealthy Philadelphia manufacturer, victims of a war between bootleggers and "hi-jackers."

Rosen, who police say was a "bootlegger" and specialized in distributing alcohol to shops selling synthetic gin, ran afoul of a gang of hi-jackers two months ago when a carload of alcohol belonging to the latter disappeared. He and Adelson were shot from ambush in the rear of Rosen's home, where Adelson was visiting. There is nothing to indicate that Adelson was implicated in the feud.

Four suspects are held. Two of these were friends of Dominick Benigno, who, with two other gangsters, were executed for the murder of Wilfred C. Sly and George K. Fanner, Cleveland manufacturers, in a payroll robbery four years ago.

A partner of Rosen, who was looking for Rosen shortly before the shooting in an attempt, police said, to warn him of the "hi-jackers'" ambush, was questioned. Although detectives believe he holds the secret to the killing, he said he merely wanted to discuss a business deal.

Federal prohibition enforcement officers' records here show that Rosen pleaded guilty of illegal transportation and was fined $500 in 1920.

Woman Injured in Fall.

Mrs. Eva Sobelman, 24 years old, of 4407A Evans avenue, suffered internal injuries, bruises to the head and injuries to the right ankle yesterday when a banister on an outside stairway at her home gave way, causing her to fall five feet to the concrete sidewalk below.

YOUNG DAUDET'S DEATH STILL PUZZLES FRENCH

Special Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch

PARIS, Nov. 3.—Nearly a year has passed since the death of Philippe Daudet, son of the royalist leader, Leon Daudet, and grandson of the famous novelist, Alphonse Daudet, and the legal inquiry into the affair is still in progress. What appeared at first to be an ordinary case of a despondent boy's suicide—and was so accepted by the family—has become an unusually complex criminal mystery.

Philippe, who was 14 years old, had occasional fits of depression and a habit of running away. After several experiences of the kind, the family placed a sum of about $100, which they called "Philippe's traveling money," in an unlocked drawer, so that when the fit seized him, he need not voyage without funds.

Last November Philippe disappeared and the money with him. The family were naturally worried, but expected he would return when his money gave out.

A few days later Mme. Daudet, who was reading every line of the newspapers for news of her son, saw a three-line item telling of the death of an unknown boy who had shot himself in a taxicab. Her husband went to the hospital and identified the corpse. An appeal was made to Poincare, then Premier, to hush the matter up, which was done. Philippe was buried with royalist honors, and the royalist newspaper announced that he had "passed away after a brief illness."

Anarchists Publish Story.

A week later, however, the anarchist paper, La Libertaire, came out with a special edition, giving in great detail Phillippe's movements on the days preceding his death, and publishing in facsimile not only a farewell letter to his mother, but a collection of anarchistic poems which the boy had left behind. The explanation was given that Philippe had come to them anonymously, had confided that he was a son of "bourgeois" parents, and that he wanted to work for the anarchist cause. He showed a revolver, and said he was ready to assassinate anybody they might designate, himself suggesting Poincaire and Leon Daudet. The anarchists counseled him to do nothing of the kind, but gave him some clerical work to do. All that they knew of him was that he asked to be called "Philippe."

A day later he borrowed money in small amounts from several of the anarchists. Afterward, he said he was going away, and left a sealed envelope, "to be opened if anything happens to be." "But," they asked, "how shall we know, since we do not know your name?" Philippe replied that they would learn in one way or another. It was the three-line newspaper item, coupled with the news of Phillipe Daudet's burial, that gave them the clew, they say.

When the "Libertaire" published this news, Leon Daudet quickly abandoned the suicide theory and filed a formal complaint of murder. At first, many believed he was only attempting to make political capital of the affair, but a number of disquieting facts soon developed.

Warned of Assassination.

First, it was found that, on the day of Philippe's death, the police had been informed by an "anarchist" bookseller that a young man was about to commit an assassination. This bookseller, named Flaoutter, reported that a boy of 14 had come to his shop and, knowing he was an anarchist, had stated his intention of killing either Poincare or Leon Daudet. The bookseller had asked him to return the same afternoon to see him, and had meanwhile notified the police.

The police story from that point is that they organized an ambush around the bookshop, but failed to see any boy answering the description given them enter or leave it. Nevertheless they learned later from Flaoutter that the boy had come and gone.

The taxi-driver says the young man hailed him at the Place de la Bastille. After they had driven a few hundred yards he heard a loud report, which he thought at first was a tire exploding. He stopped and got down, and noticed blood flowing from under the taxi floor, which he opened and then say the boy with a bullet hole in his head. He then called a policeman and they drove the boy to the nearest hospital.

But after nearly 12 months of inquiry into the affair there appear to be many reasons to doubt this simple story. Here is how Leon Daudet has reconstructed the affair:

The police, warned of dangerous armed assassin by the anarchist. Flaoutter (it is Daudet's theory that the police and the anarchists are in league) organized the ambush, not only outside but also inside Flaoutter's shop. When the boy entered they lured him into a back room and there shot him. But they quickly learned his identity, probably from his name sewed into his coat—which name had been removed subsequently to avoid identification—and, fearing trouble, decided to make it appear a suicide. Thereupon they took the taxi driver, Bajot, himself a former policeman, into the affair, thrust the dying boy into his cab, and sent him off to the hospital, instructing him to stop on the way and pick up a policeman, to whom he should report that the boy had just shot himself.

Chauffeur's Contradictions.

As supporting this theory, Daudet cites the numerous contradictions of Bajot—his insistence that the boy had no overcoat, although he had one when he arrived at the hospital; his fantastic story of blood already flowing under the doors of the cab an instant after the supposed shot; also the fact that, although an empty shell was found in the cab after it had been cleaned and had been in service for several days, no trace was ever found of the bullet itself, although the windows and doors of the cab were shut and the ball passed entirely through the boy's skull. Finally there is the mystery of how the Libertaire got Phillippe's picture (which Daudet believes was furnished to the anarchist paper by the police) and the curious fact that it has never been possible to ascertain what photo-engraver reproduced the letters and poems of the dead boy.

Daudet has not hesitated to place a share of responsibility for the failure to clear up the mystery on Millerand, then President, and Poincare, then Prime Minister. He declares that Poincare protected one of the high police chiefs because he was his brother-in-law and asserts that Millerand was afraid to act against another because of a certain scandalous affair in which his son and secretary Jean Millerand, had been embroiled, and which was well known to that particular officer.

There is also the disquieting detail that, many days after the affair had been taken out of the hands of the police and placed under the control of the courts, a police officer was sent to the hospital to inquire if Philippe had said anything before he died. This irregular proceeding, in Daudet's opinion, could only arise from a guilty conscience and a desire on the part of the murderers to set their fears at rest.

The testimony taken before the magistrate charged with the affair already fills many enormous volumes, and the end of the inquiry is not yet in sight. It appears likely that the case will provide many sensations before it is finished.

Hotel Guest's Grips Stolen.

John Hansen of Peoria, Ill., a guest at Hotel Claridge, placed his two grips in an automobile preparatory to leaving last night, then stepped back in the hotel to check out. When he returned to the machine the grips were gone, he reported to police. They contained beside $200 in clothing, three gold bonds of a telephone company valued at $1500 and personal papers. Hansen is secretary-treasurer of a tire company of Peoria.

MORE DEPUTIES TO BE NAMED TO THWART BANK ROBBERIES

Madison County to Have Five Additional Officers, Six Motor Cycles and More Riot Guns.

At the request of the Madison County Bankers' Association and indorsed by Sheriff Edward Deimling, the Board of Supervisors yesterday authorized the appointment of five additional Deputy Sheriffs, the purchase of six motor cycles and a number of riot guns, revolvers and tear tombs in order to cope with the depredations of gangsters who for more than a year have been robbing banks of the county.

Fifty members of the Bankers' Association held a meeting Wednesday night at the Country Club, at which R. C. Saunders, head of a detective agency in Des Moines, Ia., spoke for an hour and a half on the work done in "cleaning up Iowa." The decision to ask the County Board to provide for additional service in Madison County followed.

In addition to the road patrols, which supplement other patrols which the bankers have organized, there will be a system of phone service, whereby the roads leading back to St. Louis will be blocked as soon as a robbery takes place.

The salaries of Deputy Sheriffs in the county were increased to $165 per month by the board.

WANTS TO BE A SLAVE AGAIN

Negro, Born in Bondage, Offers to Sell Himself to Highest Bidder.

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 14.—Green Hutchinson, 91 years old, negro, a former slave in Kentucky and Missouri, yesterday offered himself to the highest bidder who will furnish him a home as well as work.

Born a slave in 1834 and remaining one until the emancipation, the old man declared yesterday that he was "still a slave" to labor, but without "any master that's got to feed me or clothe me." "The most money gits me again," said Green. "Winter's comin' on an' there ain't no steady work for wages." Green declares his father and mother are still living in Kentucky.

"I had the worst unruly hair any man ever wrestled with, until I tried Stacomb. Now my hair stays the way I comb it and was never in better condition."
Mr. B. H., Colorado Springs, Colo.

"The hair achieves an amazingly smooth and lustrous beauty when Stacomb is used. I wish every woman and girl could know what remarkable things this delicate cream can do."
Miss Berenice Ackerman
(In the latest edition of the "Ziegfeld Follies")

"I never could keep my hair in place—now it looks better and healthier than ever before"

MEN and women everywhere are enthusiastic about this marvelous cream that keeps the hair so naturally smooth and neatly combed.

You used to put up with untidy hair because there was no satisfactory, safe way to control it. But now no one tolerates any untidiness in hair.

Now a safe way to keep your hair smooth, lustrous

Just a touch of Stacomb in the morning keeps the most unruly hair in place all day long without making it greasy like the ordinary pomades, or drying it the way water did.

This delicate cream is actually beneficial to the dry scalp so prevalent today. The healthful oils in Stacomb keep your scalp cleaner and healthier than ever before. It is just by giving your scalp the right amount and kind of oil it needs, that Stacomb keeps the hair so smooth and lustrous. Use it freely. Any skin specialist will tell you it cannot possibly harm the hair or scalp.

Stacomb now comes in two forms—the original light, velvety cream, and Liquid Stacomb. Both non-staining and non-greasy. At all drug or department stores.

"A little Stacomb in the morning shapes my bob marvelously and keeps it that way all day—nice and close to my head."
Mrs. P. K. B., New York, N. Y.

"I never could keep my hair in place before. But with Stacomb it stays the way I want it all day—and it looks better and healthier than it ever has."
Mr. A. G. E., Wyoming, New Jersey

"I really thought my hair was hopeless—too thin and wiry for the new severe styles. But with Stacomb I can keep it perfectly smooth and close to my head. I've used Stacomb about a year now and have discovered it also keeps my eyebrows, which used to be very straggly, smooth and neat."
Miss F. M., Lincoln, Nebraska

"When I first tried to part my hair in the middle it wouldn't lie down on the sides. Then I tried Stacomb and found it was easy to comb my hair this way and make it stay."
Mr. M. F., Seattle, Wash.

By the Associated Press.

BERKELEY, Cal., Nov. 14.—Labor day, Armistice day, Decoration day, and Washington's birthday have been stricken from the list of holidays observed by the University of California and Stanford University, it was announced here today by Dr. W. W. Campbell, president of the State university.

The two universities will observe July 4, admission day, Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's day, Dr. Campbell announced. Dr. Campbell said that the decision to cancel the holidays was arrived at in a recent conference between Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University and himself. The announcement was made after a number of the students had inquired of President Campbell why they were compelled to attend classes on Armistice day this year. The ruling was attacked editorially today in an issue of the Daily Californian, the student paper

ALLEGED PLOTTERS OF RONDOUT MAIL ROBBERY ON TRIAL

Former Postal Inspector and Two Others Are Said to Have Aided Six Men in $2,000,000 Holdup.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Taking of testimony proceeded today in the trial of William Fahy, former postal inspector, James Murray and Walter McComb for alleged complicity in the $2,000,000 mail train robbery, last June, at Rondout, Ill. The jury was obtained and opening statements of counsel were made yesterday.

H. A. O'Dwyer, a clerk in the Treasury Department in Washington, testified late yesterday. He told how, on the night before the Rondout holdup, he had prepared for shipment a pouch containing a hundred $5000 Liberty Bonds.

Some indications yesterday that the loot, generally estimated at about $2,000,000, was beyond that figure were minimized today, when C. A. Freeberg, a shipping teller for the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, corrected his testimony. He testified previously that he had prepared for shipment on the train which was held up, 10,000 $100 bills and 5000 $50 bills, but today said he had been in error and that the correct amounts were $5000 in $50 bills and $10,000 in $100 bills.

Loot Hidden in Kansas City.

Herbert Holliday of Kansas City, one of the six men who have pleaded guilty, is said to have disclosed where $175,000 of the loot has been hidden. It was understood he told Government agents today that that portion of the stolen securities and currency was distributed among several safety deposit boxes in Kansas City.

Assistant District Attorney John E. Byrne, in opening for the prosecution, asserted that the holdup was perpetrated by six men, Jesse, Joe Willis and Willie Newton, Robert Holliday and Brent Glasscock, upon information furnished them by Fahy and Murray, West Side politicians. The Federal Government is in possession of written confessions made by the six named as actual robbers.

Byrne then continued to outline his case, winding it up with the declaration that the loot, after having been hidden in a Chicago garage for 10 days, was divided among Murray, Glasscock, Willis and Jesse Newton. The other members of the band were in jail at the time, excepting Fahy, who, Byrne asserted, received his share later from Murray.

Met in McComb's Home.

The prosecutor said McComb's apartment on the West Side was to be the hiding place for the robbers in an emergency, and it was there that Murray, Holliday, McComb, Willie and Joe Newton were taken into custory, Willie Newton having been wounded accidentally in the course of the robbery.

Attorney Robert A. Milroy, representing Fahy, brought out that his client's work was largely concerned with the apprehension of mail thieves. He asserted that Fahy was the postal inspector who had made a thorough investigation into the practicability of using armed guards on mail trains and that he had arranged for the use of Police Department shooting galleries as practice grounds for these guards.

The lawyer also related Fahy's part in the work of cleaning up the Rondout robbery, saying he had signed the complaitns against the Newtons and Holliday after the latter were arrested.

HOMICIDE VERDICT IN CASE OF MAN FATALLY BEATEN

A Coroner's jury was unable to fix responsibility today for the death of John Unger, 23, a laborer, who was fatally beaten early Monday morning when an unidentified man accosted and attacked Unger and Engelbert Marhierer on Spruce street, near Broadway, as the two men were returning from a dance at Schmitt's Hall.

Marhierer told the jury the man said something in English which he did not understand and then struck him and attacked Unger. The latter was knocked down, his head striking the curb and he died at the city hospital at 6:40 Monday morning. The Coroner's verdict charged homicide at the hands of parties unknown, and the case was referred to the Homicide Squad for further investigation.

PASSPORT SEALS STOLEN FROM SPANISH CONSULATE IN PARIS

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—On the same night of the recent arrest of two Spaniards, on charges of buying munitions salvaged from the battlefields, says Le Matin, the Spanish consulate in Paris was robbed and all of the seals and stamps used on passports and other official documents were stolen.

Police searching the residence of Rodriguez Jiuano, one of the Spaniards under arrest, found additional rifles and pistols, with munitions of different calibers which obviously have not been dug up on the battlefields.

Anarchistic propaganda pamphlets, newspapers and revolutionary proclamations also were found with letters revealing the existence of at least three other stores of munitions. Some of the letters bore the letterhead of the Anarchist Committee of Paris.

AMERICAN SETTING FOR REYMONT NOVEL

Polish Nobel Literature Prize-Winner's Works Deal Mainly With Peasant Life.

By the Associated Press.

WARSAW, Nov. 14.—Wladislaw Reymont, the Polish writer, who has been awarded the 1924 Nobel prize in literature, received notice of the honor while here recovering from a serious attack of pneumonia.

His first stories were published in magazine form in 1893. His most famous work, the novel "Peasants," issued in four volumes —"Autumn," "Winter," "Spring," and "Summer"—has been translated into all the European languages. M. Reymont is wealthy and has an estate near Posen.

Physics and Chemistry Award Postponed to 1925.

By the Associated Press.

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 14. —The award of the Nobel prize for physics and chemistry has been postponed until 1925.

Wladislaw Reymont is a novelist and poet better known in Europe than in this country, which he visited in 1919, mainly to study the condition of the Polish peasant in the United States, in order to get a background for one of a cycle of novels on which he is now working. His work has dealt mainly with peasant life, though one of his important productions is a recital of Polish history.

Of a shy, retiring disposition, he did not attract wide attention here except among his own people and the literati. Rupert Hughes wrote a story of him published in the New York Times, which included the following biography he prepared himself:

"Wladislaw Stanislaw Reymont was born on May 6, 1868, in that part of Poland which at that time remained under Russian domination. He was one of a family of 12 which was very patriotic, rigidly Roman Catholic—and poor. His mother took, with her five brothers, an active part in the insurrection of 1863.

Schools Expelled Him.

"The schools were at that time instruments of Russiafication. School children were not allowed to speak Polish within the walls of the school. Reymont went from one school to another, expelled from all of them. He early began to earn his living. He was a store clerk and a telegraph operator. He was an actor in a wandering theatrical troupe. He was twice a railroad employe. He tried farming and even entered the famous monastery of the Paulist Fathers in Czestochowa with the purpose of becoming a monk.

"He entered the literary field in 1894 with the publishing of a short story entitled 'Death.' In the following years he published a whole series of short stories in various papers. In 1896 his first novel, 'The Comedienne,' was published. The book was a success. It had five editions and was translated into several foreign languages. After that came a two-volume novel, 'Fermenty' (Fermentation), dealing with the life in a little provincial railroad station, that of enriched peasants and of the heroine of the preceding novel.

"The Promised Land."

"Following the two-volume novel came 'The Promised Land,' depicting the Polish Manchester, the city of Lodz. The book was a tremendous success.

"In 1898 Reymont went to Paris. There he wrote several volumes of short stories. In 1902 he began to write his four-volume novel,'Chlopi' (The Peasants). The work was finished in 1906. Reymont's nevt novel was 'Wampir' (The Vampire). The background is the life of London and the novel develops a plot dealing with Theosophic Spiritualistic problems.

"Next came the novel 'Marzyciel) (The Dreamer), of which the hero is a railroad employe living in the loneliness of a little station. In 1912 Reymont began the writing of a triology dealing with the fall of Poland and the Kosciusko insurrection. This work was finished during the war. Reymont's novels form 23 volumes. He is now working on a cycle consisting of six novels, one of which will have its background in America."

Slayers of Sergeant Caught.

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 14.—Harry Meaders, 17 years old, confessed this morning, according to Chief of Detectives Sidebottom, that he was in the automobile with three other boys when Sergt. Archie B. Wood was shot and killed Thursday while escorting the four to the police station for questioning in connection with a reported effort to take an automobile from its parking place. Meaders was taken at Murfreesboro Thursday night from a freight train going south. The three other boys who were on the train made a getaway, but were caught later near Tullahoma and are being brought to Nashville.

The Federal income tax for 1923 of James L. Nelson, secretary-treasurer of the C. Nelson Manufacturing Co., cabinetmakers, was published erroneously in last Tuesday's Post-Dispatch as $20, whereas he paid $2447.

Two Violins Reported Lost.

Police are seeking two violins, one classed as Stadlemann, valued at $1000, and the other valued at $100, which were last Saturday night or early Sunday by Arne Arnesen, a musician, of 3679 Lafayette avenue. Police were told Arnesen rode in a taxicab from West St. Louis late Saturday night. Later when he arrived at Seventh and St. Charles streets the violins were missing, he said. He could not tell how or when they had disappeared.

Pepsodent Scientifically Lightens Cloudy Teeth

Removes the stubborn film that makes teeth ugly and often leads to decay. The method to quick tooth beauty urged by leading dentists—acts without bleaching or harsh grit.

Modern science now tells us how to clear up dingy teeth, quickly. A new way widely urged by high dental authorities. A method that succeeds beyond the power of old type dentifrices—that safely removes and combats, without harsh grit, the stubborn film that covers teeth and masks their natural luster and beauty.

Run your tongue across your teeth. You will feel that film. Under it are the pearly teeth you envy in others. Remove that film, and your teeth will then show their natural beauty. Mail the coupon for a 10-day tube free. Results will amaze you.

The great enemy of teeth

Film is the great enemy of teeth beauty. And a chief cause, according to world's dental authorities, of most tooth troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs by the millions breed in it. They, with tartar, are the common cause of pyorrhea. It holds food in contact with teeth, inviting the acid that causes decay.

Weil, Tackle and Ingamells, Guard, Will Miss Contest With Tigers — Special Train for Rooters at Contest With State University Eleven.

Determined to give their best despite overwhelming odds, Washington University's football squad departed this morning for Columbia where the Pikers play their "big game" of the year with the University of Missouri eleven tomorrow afternoon. The Pikers were scheduled to arrive at the scene of battle in time for a light practice session this afternoon.

Missouri is a top-heavy favorite to win tomorrow's classic easily, the more enthusiastic Tiger supporters giving 4 to 1 odds on a victory by two touchdowns, while others are betting even money that Missouri wins by 30 points. In view of the fact that the Pikers always play their best against Missouri, these odds are considered somewhat reckless, but there is every reason to believe that the Black and Gold players will capture the game.

The Tigers have one of the best elevens the State institution has produced in years, and a team which is making a serious bid for the conference championship. Missouri has defeated such powerful elevens as Chicago, Ames, Kansas Aggies and Oklahoma, and has lost only to the University of Nebraska. Missouri is in top shape for the game and in addition will enjoy a weight advantage of from five to 10 pounds per man.

Pikers' Unimpressive Record.

The Pikers have little to throw against Missouri except courage and determination to make Missouri fight for all she gains. The Red and Green players of 1924 own three victories by narrow margins over unimportant teams, and were defeated in both their conference engagements. Grinnell College turned back the Pikers by a 14—0 score and the University of Kansas machine crushed the local players by a score of 48 to 0. After the Kansas game two weeks ago the Piker team was reorganized. Entirely new plays and signals were given to the players and it is still questionable if the eleven has had enough time yet to master the new formations.

To make its task still harder, the Washington team will take the field tomorrow without the services of the two regular linemen, with the presence of a third one still in doubt. Paul Weil, tackle, the heaviest player on the team and one of the best, was hurt in scrimmage this week and will not play. He is probably lost for the year. Dwight Ingamells, guard, is a casualty and will not play, while "Loonie" Avis, end, was sick yesterday and may not be able to start.

Tigers' Advantages.

Thus it may be seen that the Pikers are not entertaining any hopes of duplicating their astonishing victory of last year. This year Missouri is fighting for the championship and will not be caught off guard, and in addition to having marked advantages in weight, experience and skill, the Tigers will be playing on their home field.

The Pikers, however, will not be alone when the whistle blows tomorrow, for a goodly representation of Washington students and alumni is expected to be in the stands at Rollins Field to cheer for the Red and Green warriors. A special train departs this afternoon for Columbia, and other trains tonight and tomorrow morning are expected to swell the Piker ranks.

Probable W. U. Lineup.

The football squad was accompanied by the cross-country running team, which will race against the Missouri harriers in one of the features of the game. The harrier squad included Capt. Savignac, George, Kreyling, Schwartz, Newhouse, Merten and Easthan.

Missouri-Kansas Game Tickets Will Be Ready Monday

COLUMBIA, Mo., Nov. 14.

TICKETS to the Missouri-Kansas football game here Thanksgiving day will be ready for delivery to both mail and local applicants next Monday, C. L. Brewer, director of athletics at Missouri, announced today. Except for 1000 tickets sent to Lawrence for distribution among K. U. students and alumni, all of the 14,000 tickets available will be distributed from Columbia.

Under the system of allotment adopted this year, season ticket-holders and life membership subscribers to the Memorial Stadium project are given first preference, alumni and former students who are not stadium subscribers second, and the general public third.

With stadium subscribers limited to four seats for each $100 subscription, and season ticket holders to one seat for each season ticket held, the number of applications on the preferred list has been kept down, but there probably will not be enough tickets to take care of the demand.

Wet Field May Bring Change In St. Louis U. Style of Attack

The St. Louis University eleven, its prestige considerably enhanced by last week's victory over the Michigan Aggies, will meet the Oglethorpe University squad of Atlanta, Ga., tomorrow afternoon at St. Louis University Athletic Field in the only collegiate game on the local program.

The game is expected to be a close contest for several reasons. Both teams have scored impressive victories this season, the Southerners' crowning achievement being their victory over Sewanee (University of the South).

Effect of Wet Field.

The weather may also play an important part in the final outcome of the fray, as indications point to a damp if not a slippery field. This is going to hold back the St. Louis backfield, whose chief asset is its fleetness. If this circumstance presents itself, the Billikens will not use their direct pass formations, but will revert exclusively to plays in which the quarterback stands right behind the center and gets a good grip on the ball, after which he hands it to another back.

Savage had intended yesterday to let the day pass without practice, but decided that the experience on the wet field, handling a slippery ball, might be good practice for his men in the event of rain at game time.

McKenzie Unable to Play.

Karst was tried out at quarterback in the signal drill, no scrimmage being indulged in, and will be ready to relieve O'Reilly, who will start at quarter. Capt. McKenzie will be unable to play because of his injured knee but it was announced yesterday that, inasmuch as the cartilage which had slipped out of position had gone back into place, the Billiken leader would probably be ready for the Thanksgiving day attraction with Centenary. Tomorrow's game will be the first McKenzie has missed in his football career.

The probable lineup for Saturday is as follows: Stanton and Kahle, ends; Kearns and Schwartz, tackles; Higi and Klausner, guards; Hannegan, center; O'Reilly, quarterback; Fischer and Levis, halfbacks, and Ramacciotti, fullback.

OGLETHORPE BOASTS STAR GROUND-GAINER

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 14.—If William Alexander, head football coach of Georgia Tech, knows what he is talking about the Oglethorpe Petrels of Atlanta, will beat St. Louis University when the two teams clash on the latter's grounds tomorrow. Alexander, in addition to producing the powerful Golden Tornado that recently defeated Penn State, is an authority on football, as played in all sections of the United States.

Alexander bases his prediction of an Oglethorpe victory on the remarkable record the Petrels have made to date. Not a single member of the S. I. A. A., the oldest athletic organization in the South, has been able to stop the Petrels. Georgia Tech was the only team able to beat the Petrels and that victory was scored early in the season.

Adrian Maurer, captain and All-Southern halfback of Oglethorpe, scored four touchdowns as Oglethorpe defeated Howard College, 32 to 7. Maurer is an open field runner who the best of Southern colleges have not been able to stop, and last fall he scored two touchdowns on the famous Golden Tornado of George Tech. One was made after picking up a fumble and racing 60 yards and the other by working a trick pass for a 35-yard gain.

But if the St. Louis eleven lends all of its attention to Maurer the result is likely to be disastrous for the Petrels have two other star ground gainers, who although not as brilliant as Maurer, are just as consistent. They are Bob Kilgore, fullback, and Redfern, a graduate of last year's freshman squad. The latter is running as Maurer's mate and has shown flashes of brilliance.

The Sewanee Tigers, who held Alabama and Kentucky to three touchdowns between them, devoted all of their defense to Maurer in the recent game here and the Petrels won, 7 to 0, when Kilgore battered his way down the field.

The Petrels have four players, who are expected to be all-southern picks this year. They are Maurer, Kilgore, Cooper, left tackle, and Clay Parrish, center. Sport writers of the South, who have seen Parrish in four games, declare that he is the best pivot man in the South.

Veteran Coogan Knocked Out by Youngster Terris

By Hype Igoe.

Of the New York World Sport Staff

The old war horse, globe-trotter and excellent boxer in his best day crumpled before the youngster's blows in the sixth round at the rink in Brooklyn last night and he was counted out as he rolled like a wounded animal, trying to get off his side, which seemed numb and unresponsive to an effort to regain his feet.

One of the prettiest one-two punches I have ever seen sent Coogan flat on his back. He had made a brave effort to keep youth away from his chin, but it couldn't be done. When Terris elected to crash it over he just crashed, that's all.

Luis Vicentini, the hard-hitting Chilian, came sauntering down the aisle just as the sixth round started. He saw a wonderful little fighter putting the coup de grace to a man, who has been through the mill hundreds of times. Vicentini blinked and his mouth opened wide as he saw Terris stiffen his man with a left to the chin and then drive his right straight home to the button with almost the same movement of his body.

Real Rival for Leonard.

It was one-two perfection, as neat as Joe Gans even sent it over, as deadly as Willie Lewis ever tagged a man with. Terris won as he pleased. Coogan rushed aimlessly from the start and at times he did send right hooks to the head or body but this remarkable Terris lad was always pivoting with the blow. His speed was amazing. He did clown the job some and for this he should be censured by his best advisers. For instance, in the third round he came out of a clinch and staggered from side to side. He pretended that he was about to sink to the floor. Suddenly he straightened up and let fly a perfect volley of blows. It was Leach Cross and his old possum play that came to life again. It didn't gain Terris any friends. They hooted him for it. Perhaps the crowd resented his playing clown against an old timer like Coogan. But Terris won. It was a clean cut victory and one of his best efforts. The boy is a wonder. They'll never take that away from him and if he isn't a real Leonard contender right now then I don't know the real thing when I see it.

Coogan weighed 133½ and Terris 133¾.

Paddy Flynn knocked out Joe Scoggni with a hook to the body in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-round bout. Joe got a terrific wallop in the pit of the stomach and he went down much as Jim Corbett did at Carson before Fitzsimmons. Charley Ferici of New Orleans and Larry Roche boxed six rounds to a draw.

Dolan Disappears; His Suit Against Landis Not Filed

Attorney Who Said He Would Ask for Damages Has Taken No Action.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—If William J. Fallon intends to bring an action against Kenesaw M. Landis, Ban B. Johnson and John A. Heydler, constituting the advisory council of the American and National League, in behalf of Cozy Dolan, late coach of the New York Giants, for damages to reputation and a share in the world's series moneys of 1924, he had as yet made no move toward it.

Fallon threatened three weeks ago that he would "put Landis over the jumps." He was appearing, he said, for a man who had been terribly wronged by another man who had exceeded his authority as an "iron rule" over baseball.

Dolan was brought to the office of Fallon and told his story of Jimmy O'Connell's confession to 20 or 30 newspaper men. He put over a straight tale, and his denials were emphatic. Fallon had said before the session started that if Dolan's story was not convincing to the newspaper men's jury he wouldn't take the case.

For more than a fortnight now the public has been waiting for the filing of an action by Fallon asking for at least $100,000 damages in behalf of Dolan from Landis and the other members of the advisory council.

And in the meantime, Dolan has disappeared. His apartment at No. 3800 Broadway is vacant. The furniture has been removed. Mr. and Mrs. Dolan have left for either the South or West, persons in charge of the apartment house were sure yesterday. They left no forwarding address for mail. Cozy's home is in Oshkosh, Wis., but telegraphic inquiries failed to locate the Dolans there.

Baseball Pleases French Children

Youngsters Are Guests at Paris Game Between Giants and White Sox.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—It remained for the children of Paris to appreciate the American national game of baseball, when their elders had failed miserably to do so. Lusty-lunged crowds of French war orphans—boys and girls—yesterday cheered the New York Giants and the Chicago White Sox as they played their final game in Paris, and many of them were even keen enough to see the fine points of the play.

There was whistling and applause from the youngsters in the second inning when the Giants tallied four runs, and still more when the White Sox, during their time at bat, made seven tallies. Again pandemonium broke out in the seventh when the Giants, who had scored a run in the fifth, brought in two more runs and tied up the game, 7 to 7, and when the Sox immediately afterward scored what proved to be the winning run, making the score 8-7.

The orphans attended the game by invitation of Managers McGraw and Comiskey, who had been disappointed by the failure of the grownups to show any interest in the sport.

The heroes of the day were Bentley and Stengel, each of whom made three hits. The crowd, reminiscent of his war-time record, acclaimed Hank Gowdy every time the Giant catcher came to bat.

Yesterday's game evened the overseas series, each club having six wins to its credit. The players will leave here Saturday for Rome, after which their trip will be purely a sightseeing one. Most of the men, except Heinie Groh and Frankie Frisch, who are planning to go to Germany, intend to sail on the Leviathan from Cherbourg for New York Nov. 25.

Baseball Pleases French Children

Youngsters Are Guests at Paris Game Between Giants and White Sox.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 14.—It remained for the children of Paris to appreciate the American national game of baseball, when their elders had failed miserably to do so. Lusty-lunged crowds of French war orphans—boys and girls—yesterday cheered the New York Giants and the Chicago White Sox as they played their final game in Paris, and many of them were even keen enough to see the fine points of the play.

There was whistling and applause from the youngsters in the second inning when the Giants tallied four runs, and still more when the White Sox, during their time at bat, made seven tallies. Again pandemonium broke out in the seventh when the Giants, who had scored a run in the fifth, brought in two more runs and tied up the game, 7 to 7, and when the Sox immediately afterward scored what proved to be the winning run, making the score 8-7.

The orphans attended the game by invitation of Managers McGraw and Comiskey, who had been disappointed by the failure of the grownups to show any interest in the sport.

NEW HIGH SCHOOL BREACH, INVOLVING CENTRAL AND SOLDAN, AVERTED

Eligibility of Louis Gazzolo Is Established

Investigation Followed Report He Was Over Age When on Soldan Teams.

BROTHERS NAMED ALIKE

Confusion Due to Records of Birth of Louis Gazzolo on Dates Nearly Two Years Apart.

By Dent McSkimming.

A serious misunderstanding be- n Central and Soldan high ools, based upon inferences that Louis Gazzolo was ineligible ile playing as a member of Sol- n's champion football, basket- ll and baseball teams in 1919- 20, has been averted as a result a thorough investigation con- ted by Soldan, establishing be- d question that the player was hin the prescribed age limit and refore eligible for competition. A statement made public by the rscholastic League last night, ring four closely-typed pages, kes it plain that the League rd has established "forever and olutely" the fact that Gazzolo s eligible. The statement bears signature of the principal, a ulty representative and a stu- t representative of every school the league. In the case of Cen- l, only Principal Douglass and culty Representative Gould ned the document. There was student representative present the meeting at which the evi- ce in the case was reviewed.

Investigation by Soldan.

The investigation on the part of dan resulted directly from the laration at a mass meeting at tral high, on Sept. 30, that is Gazzolo played for Soldan le ineligible and a copy of a h certificate was presented at meeting as evidence of the rge that the player was over at the time of his participa- . Soldan made no public refu- on of the charge at that time immediately began its investi- tion of records.

It was found that the birth cer- ficate in question was actually at of Louis Gazzolo's brother, drew Louis, who was two years der than the Louis in question. e Central investigators evident- were not aware that there were brothers, each christened Louis."

Records at the City Hall further closed that the real Louis was ered on the books as "Howard," his date of birth March 12, . He was later baptised by Rev. Caesar Spigardi in St. rles Borromeo's Church as is Francis Gazzolo." Therefore ing the season of 1919-20, he only 19 years of age, whereas the rules at that time permitted a boy to play through the term in which he became 21.

Grammar School Records.

The confusion regarding the ages of the brothers, emphazised by the fact that each was christened "Louis," was heightened by the discovery that the younger, or the real Louis, had graduated from the Hempstead Grammar School a year and a half before his older brother. Andrew. When this was first brought to light it seemed to lend credence to the charge that Louis was older than Andrew, but the Hempstead records agreed with the birth and baptismal records in showing Andrew to be two years older than Louis.

Further documentary evidence was produced at the special meeting held at Yeatman High School on Nov. 6 last, including honorable discharge papers of Andrew Louis from the navy, a life insurance policy, and original school registration cards. In all cases the dates corresponded, showing that Andrew Louis was born on Oct. 21, 1898, and Louis Francis on March 12, 1900.

Clean Bill of Health.

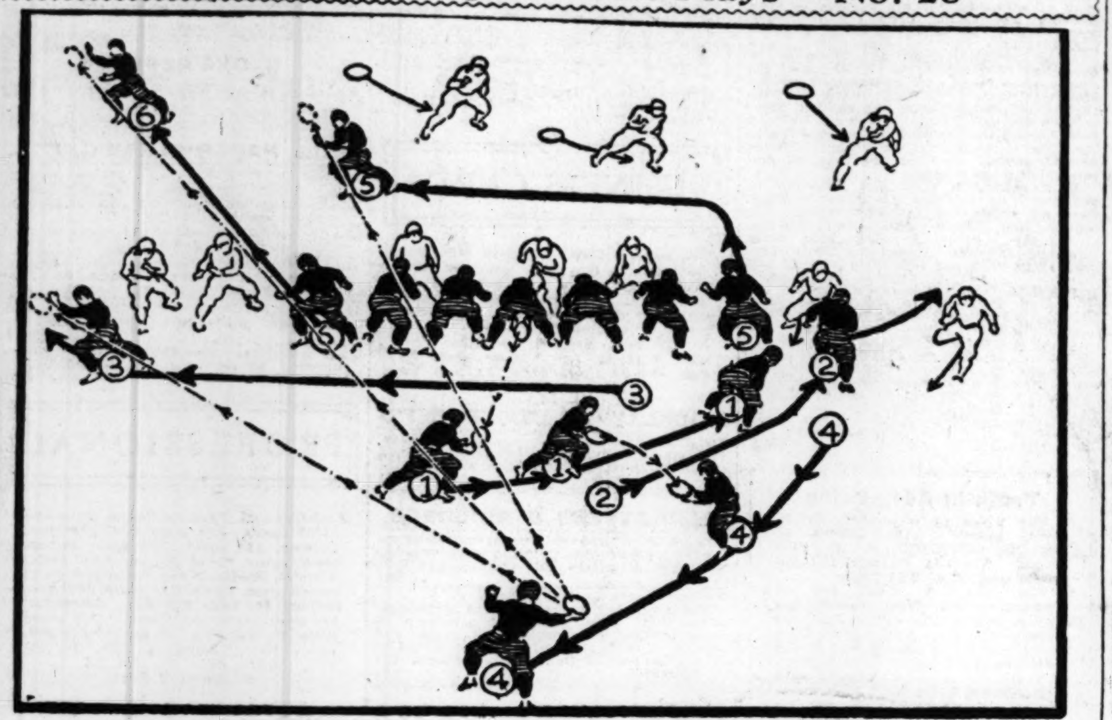
At the conclusion of the discussion, a motion was made by Principal Miller of McKinley and seconded by Principal Douglass of Central, clearing Louis Gazzolo of all charges of ineligibility. The motion was unanimously passed by the representatives of the five schools and the signatures of principals, faculty and student representatives were later obtained.

It became known yesterday that Soldan had resolved to cancel its football game with Central Saturday if satisfactory exoneration had not been obtained within a reasonable time before the game. The delay in making public the findings of the board was occasioned by difficulty in obtaining the 14 signatures on the completed report.

Tomorrow's Schedule.

An afternoon double-header is the high school football attraction for tomorrow. The games will be played at Francis Field. The Central-Soldan contest will be played first, with Yeatman and McKinley meeting in the nightcap.

Famous Winning Football Plays---No. 28



MORAN'S BUCKNELL DOUBLE PASS.

THIS play by Coach Charlie Moran of Bucknell, whose Centre teams were noted for their offensive power, is a double pass to a forward pass or a reverse play to a forward pass.

No. 4 passes to Nos. 3, 5 or 6, but No. 6 is the logical receiver.

By Lawrence Perry.

(Copyright. 1924.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—While the Nebraska-Notre Dame game at South Bend; the Cornell-Dartmouth game in New York and the Pennsylvania-Penn State tussle at Franklin Field rank high in point of interest among tomorrow's games the Princeton-Yale battle in Princeton stands out in traditional flavor and in the promise it holds of a thrilling contest.

Both elevens in preliminary games have been developing toward that point where they may be said to have found themselves. Princeton found herself in the game against Harvard last Saturday and since they have a genius at Princeton for working football players to the peak of physical condition and holding them there over the Harvard and Yale games, it is altogether likely that the Tigers will be as fit and as eager to play football as they were at Cambridge.

Yale is expected to find herself in the Princeton game. If this is not the case then the Elis are in for a trimming. But the chances are that Yale will be ready mentally and physically and the result of the game therefore will depend upon the merits of instruction in each camp. The New Haven team has not yet met the desires and expectations of its well wishers. West Point played the better game when the two met and should have won. Then the eleven narrowly escaped a beating by Brown and was extremely lucky to get an even break with Dartmouth while all that got her a victory in the Georgia game was a forward pass decision that did not look any too good.

Good Fortune Aids Yale.

In other words, good fortune rather than good football has served to keep Yale among the unbeaten teams of the country. But as every one who follows Big Three football knows what Yale, Harvard or Princeton do in October is not always an indication of what they will do in November. Princeton demonstrated this quite clearly at Cambridge last Saturday.

Picks Tigers to Win.

Picking winners in football has always been a difficult job. So many elements unknown to the critic, enter into a modern football game, and then, too, coaches have rational objections to taking anyone in their confidence as to the exact status of their teams in the days preceding a crucial game. But being in form as shown to date and allowing for a rather decided improvement on Yale's part, it would seem that Princeton should win by a small margain after a tough game. One can say no less than this in view of what the Tigers showed at Cambridge and what Yale has shown thus far. Breaks of various sorts might upset all this, but one has to assume that breaks will not occur—even though so often they do.

Penn State Likely Winner.

Michigan, on form, should certainly beat Ohio State and now that Penn State has solved her early problems she is likely to score more frequently than the Quakers. Georgia Tech should beat Vanderbilt; Georgia should vanquish Auburn and Alabama will probably smother Centre. Iowa probably has the power to defeat the uninspired Wisconsin eleven and Illinois probably will prevail over Minnesota.

The Notre Dame team has been pointing for the Nebraska game and Knute Rockne, the coach, is determined to break the two-year jink. But the Cornhuskers have also been pointing for Notre Dame and Fred Dawson, the coach, believes he has discovered expedients that will make a lot of trouble for the South Benders. We shall see. Not knowing what these expedients are or how effective they will be there is no alternative to selecting the Indiana eleven as the winner.

Minor Leagues Oppose Increase In Player Limit

Fear Expressed That Major Circuits Will Have Strangle Hold on Supply.

By John B. Foster.

(Copyright. 1924.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Minor league owners are lining up in opposition to the major league proposal to increase the maximum player limit of the major league clubs to 50. That would put 800 players into possession of the majors.

It takes just 144 players to play out a day's schedule of the 16 major clubs, provided there are no substitutions. However, in these days of mental gambling regarding pitchers, a baseball "nine" frequently runs to 15 in any given game.

It was never intended that baseball should be a game of limitless competition, so far as individuals are concerned, and the present system is the outgrowth of the ability of clubs to corral a lot of players. The minors have felt for years that the majors were taking more players than they had. The minors have an equal right to extend their player limit if they wish to—but most of them would go broke if they did.

25 Limit in Midseason.

In the midsummer playing season, the major league clubs limit themselves to 25 players each, or 400 men. During that period they must farm 400 more out if the limit is increased to 50. If the minors were to shut down on taking players from the majors there would be less desire on the part of the majors to acquire them, but so long as it is easy to farm players out, the big fellows will go on with big lists.

The minors have thought for some time that the present limit of 40 players was too high for the majors and have thought that 30 would be about right, in view of the fact that the majors concede they can get along with 25 in midseason. The majors' theory, of course, is that the early part of the season is experimental and that they must have a good list from which to choose the eventual 25.

Where Will It Stop?

If the majors extend the limit to 50, they will have a strangle hold on practically all the good baseball material in the country. For of all America's millions, there are very few young men who can play the big league brand of baseball.

The Race Horse Tipster And His Trusting Fish

A True Story of a Man Who Thought He'd Make Some Soft Christmas Money, but Who Now Thinks There Is No Santa Claus.

Persons inclined to hock the family plate and wager their cash on any race horse tipster's advice, might learn something from the experience of a bettor which has come to the attention of the Post-Dispatch.

The bettor answered an eloquent and flowery advertisement in a racing publication, an advertisement in which the tipster had a long list of winners which had paid from 5 to 20 to 1. The tipster advertised "service for $50 a week," service consisting of telegrams giving the name of a horse each day. The advertisement mentioned a $15 "super" daily and it was for this $15 "super" that the bettor involved in this story fell. He wired to the tipster, who advertises under a name similar to—say "Honorable Old Oscar" and the next day a telegram was sent to his home which said:

Whitney entry in fourth at Pimlico. Bet $10 for me straight.
HONORABLE OLD OSCAR.

The fish called his home several times during the morning. Tipsters file their telegrams as late as possible, so that the fish can't resell the tip. And after the telegram had been read over the phone to the fish he laid his money on the Whitney entry in the fourth race at Pimlico. That was Wednesday and the Whitney entry in the fourth race at Pimlico included Courageous and Overall.

Hook, Line and Sinker.

The fish waited impatiently for that fourth race. He had visions of long odds, perhaps winnings enough to buy the wife a fur coat for Christmas. But when the news of the race came over the ticker the names of Courageous and Overall did not appear until the also rans were sent. The form sheet yesterday showed that Courageous ran sixth and Overall eighth. The odds on the entry paid by the mutuel machines would have been 75 to 100.

Campfire Tales won the race and when the poor fish read that the horse had paid $41.10 on a $2 mutuel ticket, he was close to tears.

But his woe was to be made greater. When he opened the racing publication yesterday morning he saw another big advertisement by "Honorable Old Oscar" and at the top of the advertisement was the announcement in bold face type that "Honorable Old Oscar's" $15 "super" had gone over again on Wednesday. His horse, the advertisement said, was Campfire Tales, at $41.10 to $2. Fifty years in the business, winner after winner; come on you fish, get in line with a live wire and get on the list of Honorable Old Oscar.

The poor fish thought that he might have some recourse. It appeared that he had been bamboozled and bunkoed. But there had been no transaction. He had sent no money to Oscar. He merely had wagered on the tip, with the understanding that if the horse won he was to send the winnings of a $10 bet to Honorable Old Oscar.

How does Oscar make any money like that?

There have been cases where tipsters sent out the names of every horse in a race. Suppose Oscar sent the name of the Whitney entry to 50 persons and the name of Campfire Tales to 10 persons. If each of 10 persons had bet $10 on Campfire Tales for Oscar, his winnings on the race would have been $1955. If the Whitney entry, the general favorite, had won he would have received from his fish $375. The advertisement in yesterday's racing publication said Campfire Tales was a $15 "super." That indicates that in tipping the horse he asked for the winnings on a $15 bet. In that case his winnings on Campfire Tales would have been $2822 instead of $1955.

Perhaps a few of the fish don't remit when the tip goes over, but when a man has a potential income of $2000 a day he can stand a few losses from welshers.

Spalla Challenges Jack Dempsey

Italian Titleholder Posts Forfeit With International Boxing Official.

By the Associated Press.

MILAN, Nov. 14.—Ermino Spalla, Italian heavyweight, yesterday deposited 2000 lire with Giacomo Grassi, vice president of the International Boxing Union, as a guarantee of the authenticity of his challenge to fight Jack Dempsey for the world's championship.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Ermino Spalla, who has challenged Jack Dempsey to a world's title match, holds the European heavyweight championship. He has twice invaded this country, the last trip being made last summer after a stopover in the Argentine, where he was knocked out in 14 rounds by Luis Firpo.

Spalla was knocked out by Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight champion, at the milk fund bouts here in June. He challenged Dempsey while in this country, but neither promoters nor Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, displayed any interest in prospects of such a match.

DISTRICT MANAGER.

Somewhere in St. Louis is a young man, 25-35 years of age, that is on the lookout for opportunity. He has perhaps managed a crew or worked under a good manager, selling any of the many articles sold "house to house," but is dissatisfied with his future. He will know opportunity when he sees it. He is not "broke," "badly beat" or otherwise disabled, surgically, financially or mentally, and willing to work 8 hours every day for success. We have developed a new idea in the merchandising of a staple every-day article that up to this time has been sold exclusively through stores. Our present organizations are producing results and making money and we will now organize St. Louis.

If you believe that you not only can "pep-up" an organization but add to its number, write us in all confidence. Tell us your age, experience for the past five years, and what special qualifications you possess that leads you to believe you are the man for the place. Give telephone number and home address. ANSWERS TO QUERIES

The Post-Dispatch reserves the right to reject any query. Personal and telephone calls, or answers by mail, cannot be given attention, except letters on medical questions of undoubted sincerity, when accompanied by stamped addressed envelope.

Wm. A. B.—The election clerks act in accordance with the election laws of the State.

A. B. C.—The sentence "The wine is to be drunk," meaning at a future time, is correct.

B. F. R.—Claude I. Dawson is the American Consul General at Mexico City. Address him there.

TWO STENOS.—The sentence "Will you kindly obtain this information and advise us," should be followed by a question mark.

SPARTA.—Take the bird to a taxidermist to have it mounted. They are listed in the classified section of the telephone directory.

CARDS.—Full information regarding the games of "Michigan," "Solitaire" and "Spoil Five" can be seen in books on cards at the Public Library.

HENRY G.—The amount of money that would be received in Germany would depend upon the rate of exchange. The United States money is converted at Cologne, upon receipt of advice from this country.

S. O. S.—The motor vehicle registration division of the Secretary of State of Missouri issued a total of 524,478 State automobile license plates up to Oct. 1. The 524,478 automobile licenses issued included 474,320 for passenger cars and 50,158 for motor trucks. In addition the division has issued 2686 licenses to dealers, 18,190 chauffeurs' badges, 3095 operators' badges, 1970 motorcycle license plates, 932 licenses for trailers, 2190 plates for State cars and nine plates for State motorcycles. The division has issued 241,910 certificates of title.

S. O. S.—The bride who is happy in receiving a great number of presents spends every spare moment in writing her notes of thanks, which must always be written by her personally. Telephoning will not do, and neither will a verbal "Thank you so much" as she meets people here and there. She must write a separate letter for each present. Notes of thanks can be very short, but they should be written with as little delay as possible. When a present is sent by a married couple, the bride writes to the wife and thanks both: "Thank you for the lovely present you and Mr. Smith sent me." (2) When Mrs. B—— orders a present sent to a bride, she encloses a card reading: "Mr. and Mrs. Sam Brown Smith." Nearly every married woman has a plate engraved with both names, but if she has not, then she encloses Mr. Smith's card with hers. Some people write "All good wishes," or "With best wishes," but most people send cards without messages.

FRED.—Following is a process for boiling linseed oil. Although it goes by the name of boiling it is not so in the proper sense of the word, but a heating having for its object an initial oxidation of the oil, so that it will dry better. Linseed oil is a type of the drying oils, those which when exposed in thin coats to the air absorb large quantities of oxygen and are thereby converted into tough, solid sheets having properties very similar to those of soft India rubber. The process goes on much faster with the aid of heat than at ordinary temperature, and the rate at which the boiled oil will dry in the ink can be exactly regulated by heating it for a longer or shorter time. Prolonged heating gives an oil which will dry very quickly on exposure in thin coats to the air, the shorter the heating the more slowly will the ink afterwards made with the oil dry. Linseed oil must always be boiled in vessels where it has plenty of room, as the oil soon swells up and it begins to decompose so energetically at a particular temperature that there is considerable risk of its boiling over and catching fire. Various contrivances have been thought out for boiling large quantities of the oil with safety, such as pans with an outlet pipe in the side, through which the oil escapes when it rises too high instead of over the edge of the pan, and fires built on a trolley running on rails so that they can at once be moved from under the pan if there is any probability of the latter boiling over. The best apparatus for preparing thickened linseed oil is undoubtedly one in which the oil offers a very large surface to the air, and on that account requires to be moderately heated only. The oil soon becomes very thick under these conditions and if necessary can be diluted to any required consistency with unboiled oil. In boiling linseed oil down to the proper thickness by the old method there are two points demanding special attention. One is the liability of the oil to boil over, and the other consists in the development of acroleine, which has a most powerful and disagreeable smell, and an intense action upon the eyes. The attendant must be protected from these fumes, and the boiling must therefore be done where there is a strong draught to take the fumes as fast as they are produced. There are various contrivances to cope with boiling over.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS.

Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered, Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given.

M. J. S. D.—Itch is a parasitic infection of the skin by the itch mite. It is as a rule readily amendable to treatment carefully and conscientiously carried out, with care as to the prevention of reinfection, which readily occurs. Proceed as follows: (1) Provide clean underclothing, clean bedclothing and clean night clothing which is to be used, and not changed, until the completion of the treatment. Then all of the above mentioned clothing must be again replaced by clean clothing. That used during the treatment must be removed and well boiled to prevent reinfection, and the outer clothing ironed by a very hot iron, especially about the neck and the ends of the sleeves. (2) Take a hot bath of soap and water, using and rubbing well with a coarse rag to break down any lesions on the skin in which the itch might be lodged. No other bath is to be taken until the completion of the treatment. (3) Rub in thoroughly, in every inch of the skin below the chin, the following ointment, which should be well made and smooth, night and morning until five rubbings have been done: Four drachms of washed sulphur, 4 drachms of balsam of Peru, 2 ounces of vaseline made into a smooth ointment. (4) The night or morning following the fifth rubbing take a hot soap and water bath, after which all clean clothing should be used. It should be borne in mind that the ointment may for a few days occasion an itching and time should be allowed for this to pass. If a cure has not been effected the treatment should be repeated.

Threaten Appeal to U. S. Court in Trading Ban.

ATLANTA, Nov. 14.—Leading cotton and stock brokerage houses threaten to appeal to the Federal courts to prevent enforcement of the old Georgia statute which prohibits "buying and selling of futures on margin." Offices of members of the Commercial Exchange were raided under this statute this week.

TRADE SHIFTS TO RAILS IN LATE MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The Evening Post, in its copyrighted financial review today, says:

"Heavy profit taking in stocks and grain on the one hand, and strength in sterling and cotton on the other, were contrasting features of the day's fiancial markets. While profit taking in stocks was fairly general this did not prevent new high levels being touched by a large number of issues, and the main trend of prices appeared to be upward. The volume of trading, however, showed signs of halting, and for the first full trading day in over a week, the turnover failed to pass the 2,000,000 share mark, the day's total falling just under that figure. For the greater part of the day the industrials again held the center of the stage, but toward the close spectacular advances in some of the rails turned attention again to that group. The closing was irregularly higher. Bonds were active and generally firm, speculative rails being in especial demand. Call money held at 2 per cent throughout.

Sterling Continues to Rise.

"Further strength in sterling again was the outstanding feature of the foreign exchange market. Sterling at $4.64 not only made a net gain of 1 3-8 cents on the day but established a new high record since last summer. New high records for the year also were made by Dutch guilders and Argentine and Uruguayan pesos. French francs, on the other hand, were slightly easier at 5.29¼ cents, but others were generally firm. Actual business transacted was rather small. Unquestionably other factors than trade and confidence born of the election account for the rapid and sustained rise in sterling, and it is probable that the explanation may be found in international transfers of funds in connection with foreign borrowing in this market, particularly on the part of Germany. So far as our own money situation is concerned, the weekly statement of the Federal Reserve system shows no important change. Discounts were lower but earning assets gained through the addition of approximately $13,000,000 in acceptances. Acceptance rates meanwhile have advanced. Gold reserves were increased by the addition of $9,000,000. Incidentally, gold imports appear to be gaining. The excess of imports in October rose to $15,576,000, as compared with only $1,975,000 in the previous month.

Cotton Report Bullish.

"Along with the increase in exports of cotton domestic consumption during October also made a sharp gain, the total consumed amounting to 532,629 bales as against 435,216 in September. Stocks held in warehouses also were higher and the number of active spindles increased by nearly 1,000,000. These figures support the view held in many quarters that improvement in the textile industry has gone further than is generally appreciated. Spinners now have ample supplies assured and at present prices they can make goods which can be sold at prices that the public apparently will accept. The attitude of domestic and foreign spinners toward the market from now on will be the determining factor in the price of the staple. The consumption report was construed as bullish by the trade and the market rose sharply, although profit taking brought recessions from the best prices. At a late price of 24.*84c the January future was 15 points higher.

Wheat Reacts on Profit Taking.

"Sharp reactions followed early advances in grains. Wheat has been setting a fast pace and doubtless had reached on overbought position. At any rate after touching $1.62½ heavy profit taking set in which left the price 3 1-8 cents lower on the day at $1.58⅞. Corn also slumped, losing 1¼ cents at $1.17½.

Foreign Trade Improves.

"So far as industrial news was concerned the day's quota was especially interesting when considered in connection with the commodity markets. Our foreign trade figures for October were published this morning. They show an increase of $25,000,000 in imports, which is offset by a gain of $100,000,000 in exports, bringing a favorable trade balance for the month of $217,000,000 an increase of $75,000,000. These totals are comparisons with the previous month. Compared with a year ago the gain in exports is even more pronounced as is also the favorable balance.

"At the same time the Census Bureau made its monthly report on cotton consumption and exports. Cotton shipped out of this country during October reached a total of 947,556 bales, a new high record for foreign takings of our cotton in any single month. Exports of grain meanwhile have been running at record amounts. It therefore seems altogether likely that the greater portion of the October increase in exports was due to foreign buying of our farm products, and details of British imports for the month bear this out. Nevertheless, other forms of exports are at least holding their own.

Purchase of National Sugar Refining Authorized.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Directors of the American Sugar Refining Co. today authorized the officers to complete the purchase of the National Sugar Refining Co., in which it already owns a one-fourth interest. Acquisition of the National Co., Earl C. Babst, president of the American Co. announced, would enable the later to restore its refining position in New York harbor. Both companies, it is understood, will retain their corporate identities. Details of the transaction were not revealed.

Properties of the National Co., a $15,000,000 corporation, are located at Brooklyn, Yonkers and Long Island City, New York. Its output represents about one-eighth of the refining business of the country.

ACTIVE TRADING IN MANY GROUPS ON THE CURB

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Trading on the Curb Exchange was active in many groups again today, but movements were irregular, especially in the baking shares. United Bakeries started at 129¼ and went to above 134, while Ward Baking "B," after showing a fractional loss, moved up 2 points on heavy loading. Continental "A" stock opened up 6 points at 100, followed by a reaction of some 2 points, but was again strong in the afternoon. Goodyear Tire was one of the most prominent features, the heavy dealings for some time past increasing in volume and the broader demand carried it up 3 points to 17¼.

Radio issues also were prominent, transactions in those stocks indicating heavy public participation but attracting chief attention was the appearance of important interests as buyers of Thermiodyne, which was the strongest of the group. Freed-Eisemann made a fractional advance and there was a good volume of business in rubber, which rallied after a fractional decline.

There were large transactions in many of the petroleum stocks, but most interest in that group was in the pipe line issues. Northern Pipe Line advanced 6 points and a substantial gain was made in Indiana Pipe. Dealings were heavy again in Standard Oil of Indiana around its recent range and Standard Oil of New Jersey shares were heavily traded, the price holding about 45.

Mining stocks, including the low-priced Goldfield and Copper issues, were active but without material change.

Bond Market Review

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—The buying movement which has been under way in the bond market this week appeared to have spent most of its force today, but the strong underlying demand for high yielding issues held prices firm in the early dealings. Railroad liens again led in popularity, but advances mainly were confined to fractional limits. Demand centered in Seaboard 4s and adjustment 5s, International Great Northern adjustment 6s, Norfolk & Southern 5s, Chicago & Eastern Illinois 5s, St. Paul refunding 4½s and Frisco income 6s. Industrial bonds were steady with buying orders flowing in for a number of rubber company issues. An easier tone developed in the United States Government 1st. An offering of $3,500,000 Louisiana oil refining corporation 5½ per cent serial debentures was oversubscribed.

COTTON PRICES ADVANCE ON NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—An opening advance of 18 to 34 points met a great deal of realizing and considerable hedge selling in the cotton market today. It was absorbed by covering or fresh buying on a decline from 24.98c to 24.85c for January, however, and the market soon turned firmer on continued buying, the price of that month advancing to 25.02c by the end of the first hour, or 24 points net higher and into new high ground for the movement.

The census report showing home consumption of 532,629 bales for October compared with 435,236 for September was factor on the advance which also was promoted by firm late cables from Liverpool and reports that sales of print cloths in the Fall River market had aggregated 300,000 pieces for the week.

Trading later expanded, with buying apparently of the broader scale encountered during the recent advance. It was sufficient to absorb heavy realizing but the demand tapered off somewhat as prices reached 25.14 for January and 25.45 for March, or about 45 to 50 points above yesterday's closing. The realizing then had more effect on prices, with the midday market showing reactions of some 18 to 20 points from the best.

The market was quieter in the early afternoon, but after easing off to about 24.82c for January, or within 14 points of yesterday's closing quotations, held fairly steady. Prices at 2 o'clock were 18 to 20 points net higher.

CHOPPY MARKET FOR WHEAT ON THE CHICAGO BOARD

Special to the Post-Dispatch

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—Traders in wheat were a little more conservative today and there was a tendency to hesitate over buying except on the break. Price action today was choppy and advances appeared difficult to hold. Conditions in corn and oats were similar to those in wheat. Provisions followed the grain trend.

Closing prices of wheat were the lowest for the day and losses of 2 to 3⅝c were registered. Liquidation and stop loss selling featured the late trading. Dec., $1.52 to $1.51⅝; May, $1.58⅝ to ⅝; July, $1.38⅞ to ¾. Corn closed 1¼ to 1⅝c lower; Dec., $1.12⅝ to ½; May, $1.17⅝ to ⅝; July, $1.18 to $1.17⅞. Oats were 1¼ to ⅝c lower; Dec. 52⅝c; May, 57⅝ to ⅝c; July, 55⅝ to ⅝c. Lard closed 7½ to 37½c lower; no trade in ribs or bellies. Local cash sales were 65,000 bu. corn, 18,000 bu. oats. The Seaboard reported 500,000 bu. wheat and 100,000 bu. rye taken for export.

Bulls in wheat received a disagreeable surprise when they arrived at the Board of Trade this morning. Liverpool failed to become excited over our advance of yesterday and futures there were unchanged to ⅛d higher. This was due partly to rains in the Argentine and the advance in sterling exchange also were a factor. When the markets opened buyers were inclined to hold back. There was pressure from houses believed to be acting for a big Eastern operator and this enticed pit traders into taking the short side. After a moderate setback houses with seaboard connections absorbed the wheat and this set shorts scurrying for cover. Prices advanced readily on this demand, but after they had evened up their trade another setback was recorded because of the indifferent buying power. Much of the trading today was in the way of spreading. A belief exists that December wheat which was 7½c under May at the close last night would work closer. As a result of the buying of December and selling of May the spread narrowed to 6⅝c. Elevator interests are expected to transfer their hedges to the May at this difference, thus netting them a good carrying charge. This means small deliveries next month. Seaboard reported export sales over night of 500,000 bushels. Duluth reported Seaboard exporters after wheat in that market, but local holders were asking too high prices for these buyers. More rain was shown over the winter wheat belt, improving the condition of the crop.

Corn followed wheat. Locals bid up prices at the opening and then the market weakened for want of support. Bull leaders became aggressive on the break and forced a sharp rally, but realizing sales carried prices back to the previous closing level. Shipping demand for corn remains quiet. Cash corn basis was unchanged.

Oats also had a choppy trend in sympathy with other grains, the East is buying little cash oats, but shows a disposition to resell earlier purchases for profit on the bulges.

Provisions were affected by the action of grain. Market started out lower, then had a little recovery only to meet with hedging pressure and recede again.

So Big

By Edna Ferber

FORTY-ONE

SHE enjoyed these rare trips into town; made a holiday of them. Dirk would take her to the theater and she would sit entranced. Her feeling for this form of entertainment was as fresh and eager as it had been in the days of the Daly Stock Company when she, a little girl, had been seated in the parquet with her father, Simeon Peake. Strangely enough, considering the lack of what the world calls romance and adventure in her life, she did not like the motion pictures. "All the difference in the world," she would say, "between the movies and the thrill I get out of a play at the theater. My, yes! Like fooling with paper dolls when you could be playing with a real live baby."

She developed a mania for nosing into strange corners of the huge sprawling city; seemed to discover a fresh wonder on each visit. In a short time she was more familiar with Chicago than was Dirk—for that matter, than old Aug Hempel who had lived in it for over half a century but who would never had gone far afield in his pendulum path between the yards and his house, his house and the yards.

The things that excited her about Chicago did not seem to interest Dirk at all. Sometimes she took a vacant room for a day or two in Dirk's boarding house. "What do you think!" she would say to him, breathlessly, when he returned from the office in the evening. "I've been way over on the northwest side. It's another world. It's—it's Poland. Cathedrals and shops and men sitting in restaurants all day long reading papers and drinking coffee and playing dominoes or something like it. And what do you think I found out! Chicago's got the second largest Polish population of any city in the world. In the world!"

"Yeh?" Dirk would reply, absently.

There was nothing absent-minded about his tone this afternoon as he talked to his mother on the telephone. "Sure you don't mind? Then I'll be out next Saturday. Or I may run out in the middle of the week to stay over night. * * * Are you all right?"

"I'm fine. Be sure and remember all about Paula's new house so's you can tell me about it. Julie says it's like the kind you read of in the novels. She says old Aug saw it just once and now won't go near it even to visit his grandchildren."

The day was marvelously mild for March in Chicago. Spring, usually so coy in this region, had flung herself at them head first. As the massive revolving door of Dirk's office building fanned him into the street he saw Paula in her long low sporting roadster at the curb. She was dressed in black. All feminine fashionable and middle-class Chicago was dressed in black. All feminine fashionable and middle-class America was dressed in black. Two years of war had robbed Paris of its husbands, brothers, sons. All Paris walked in black. America, untouched, gayly borrowed the smart habiliments of mourning and now Michigan boulevard and Fifth avenue walked demurely in the gloom of crepe and chiffon; black hats, black gloves, black slippers. Only black was "good" this year.

Paula did not wear black well. She was a shade too sallow for these somber swathings even though relieved by a pearl strand of exquisite color, flawlessly matched; and a new sly face-powder. Paula smiled up at him, patted the leather seat beside her with one hand that was absurdly thick-fingered in its fur-lined glove.

"It's cold driving. Button up tight. Where'll we stop for your bag? Are you still in Deming place?"

He was still in Deming place. He climbed into the seat beside her—a feat for the young and nimble. Theodore Storm never tried to double his bulk into the jack-knife position necessary to riding in his wife's roadster. The car was built for speed, not comfort. One sat flat with the length of one's legs stretched out. Paula's feet, pedaling brake and clutch so expertly, were inadequately clothed in sheer black silk stockings and slim buckled patent-leather slippers.

"You're not dressed warmly enough," her husband would have said. "Those shoes are idiotic for driving." And he would have been right.

Dirk said nothing.

Her manipulation of the wheel was witchcraft. The roadster slid in and out of traffic like a fluid thing, an enamel stream, silent as a swift current in a river. "Can't let her out here," said Paula. "Wait till we get past Loncoln Park. Do you suppose they'll ever really get rid of this terrible Rush street bridge?" When his house was reached, "I'm coming up," she said. "I suppose you haven't any tea?"

"Gosh, no What do you think I am? A young man in an English novel!"

"Now, don't be provincial and Chicago-ish, Dirk." They climbed the three flights of stairs. She looked about. Her glance was not disapproving. "This isn't so bad. Who did it? She did! Very nice. But of course you ought to have your own smart little apartment, with a Jap to do you up. To do that for you, for example."

"Yes," grimly. He was packing his bag—not throwing clothes into it, but folding them deftly, neatly, as the son of a wise mother packs. "My salary'd just about keep him in white linen house-coats."

She was walking about the living room, picking up a book, putting it down, fingering an ash tray, gazing out of the window, examining a photograph, smoking a cigarette from the box on his table. Restless, nervously alive, catlike. "I'm going to send you some things for your room, Dirk."

"For God's sake don't!"

"Why not?"

"Two kinds of women in the world. I learned that at college. Those who send men things for their rooms and those that don't."

"You're very rude."

"You asked me. There! I'm all set." He snapped the lock of his bag. "I'm sorry I can't give you anything. I haven't a thing. Not even a glass of wine and a—what is it they say in books?—oh, yeh—a biscuit."

In the roadster again they slid smoothly out along the drive, along Sheridan road, swung sharply around the cemetery curve into Evanston, past the smug middle-class suburban neatness of Wilmette and Winnetka. She negotiated expertly the nerve-racking curves of the Hubbard Woods hills, then maintained a fierce and steady speed for the remainder of the drive.

"We call the place Stormwood," Paula told him. "And nobody outside the dear family knows how fitting that is. Don't scowl. I'm not going to tell you my marital woes. And don't you say I asked for it. . . . How's the job?"

"Rotten."

"You don't like it? The work?"

"I like it well enough, only—well, you see we leave the university architectural course thinking we're all going to be Stanford Whites or Cass Gilberts, tossing off a Woolworth Building and making ourselves famous overnight. I've spent all yesterday and today planning how to work in space for toilets on every floor of the new office building, six stories high and shaped like a dry goods box, that's going up on the corner of Milwaukee avenue and Ashland, west."

"And 10 years from now?"

"Ten years from now maybe they'll let me do the plans for the dry goods box all alone."

"Why don't you drop it?"

He was startled. "Drop it! How do you mean?"

"Chuck it. Do something that will bring you quick results. This isn't an age of waiting. Suppose, 20 years from now, you do plan a grand Gothic office building to grace this new and glorified Michigan boulevard they're always shouting about! You'll be a middle-aged man living in a middle-class house in a middle-class suburb with a middle-class wife."

Who's he?"

"Good G——, how often have you been in London?"

"Three times."

"Next time you find yourself there you might cast your eye over a very nice little structure called St. Paul's Cathedral. I've never seen it, but it has been very well spoken of."

They turned in at the gates of Stormwood. Though the trees and bushes were gaunt and bare, the grass already showed stretches of vivid green. In the fading light one caught glimpses through the shrubbery of the lake beyond. It was a dazzling sapphire blue in the sunset. A final turn of the drive. An avenue of trees. A house, massive, pillared, porticoed. The door opened as they drew up at the entrance. A maid in cap and apron stood in the doorway. A man appeared at the side of the car, coming seemingly from nowhere, greeted Paula civilly and drove the car off. The glow of an open fire in the hall welcomed them. "He'll bring up your bag," said Paula. "How're the babies, Anna? Has Mr. Storm got here?"

"He telephoned, Mrs. Storm. He says he won't be out till late—maybe 10 or after. Anyway, you're not to wait dinner."

NEW YORK.—Shawls are making the grand tour. From the Paisley of old and new England the fashion jumped to Spain and thence to China. Now the most popular shawls for evening wear are Italian, in the softest of gold, silver, cream, lavender, blue, gray, rose, pink, black and white.

PARIS.—The latest creation of the Parisian corsetiers has shoulder straps to hold it up. It has no back at all until the hip line is reached, but extends high in front and to within four inches of the knee.

NEW YORK.—When English women go to a sporting event, they wear sport clothes, but the majority of the young girls attending the Princeton-Harvard game wore fur coats over combination dresses suitable for either afternoon or evening, and the lightest of footwear. The answer is "They won't go home till morning."

NEW YORK.—Silk is silk and wool is wool, but like Kipling's East and the West, they frequently meet and join—in bengaline, the newest material for autumn suits, coats and street frocks. It is a silk and wool mixture and procurable in penny brown, copper, bottle green, beige and other colors.

THE HOME KITCHEN

THIS is the day of food specialization. "Celery-fed ducks, milk-fed chickens, rice-fed geese, jumbo squab" featured on public menus demonstrates the care that is being taken to bring these foods to the highest perfection for market. The growers have learned that proper feeding means fine flesh, better flavor and top prices. A visit to a modern poultry farm is a revelation. Each variety has its separate feed-houses, runways, brooders, spring-boards to patent nests, granaries, green-food patch, cookhouse and emergency hospital.

There is plenty of other poultry to be had in market, much of it excellent, though it cannot boast of being as carefully bred and fed as that for which we must pay a higher price. The specials are dry picked and iced just enough to keep them the distance they travel, but they are not frozen, which takes from the delicacy of their flavor. The poultry from a distance must naturally be iced to thoroughly chill in order to get it to market in fair condition. That which is sent alive and fresh killed is a better buy except in extreme weather.

A poultry buyer must know poultry. The eyes of young chickens and fowls should be clear and full, the end of the breast bone soft and pliable, the feet limp and limber, skin clear and smooth, yellow or white according to its breed, and the body free from bruised spots. When conditions are otherwise the birds are advanced in age and not up to the standard. Most poultry in reliable markets is "dry picked," which is desirable, for the bird that has been plunged into hot water, without cleaning, and must be cooled again after picking loses the flavor and delicate texture of the meat.

Broilers range up to three and a half pounds, after that they are too large to broil well and must be "oven" broiled, which is bound to dry them out. Young pullets are for frying, roasting or fricassee, while fowls are for boiling. Short, compact chickens with deep breasts are the best buy. In choosing a turkey a short thick bird is the best and cuts to good advantage. When the bird weighs over 10 pounds the flesh is apt to be coarse grained and dry if it is not cooked and prepared very carefully. Roasting it on its breast keeps the white meat from drying out.

Guinea hens are too frequently neglected, for cooks think they are hard to prepare, though they may be cooked in any way a chicken is cooked. Native to West Africa, they are cousins of the pheasant and resemble it in color. The flesh is delicate in flavor, and easily digested. They are in season when game is out, so should be more widely known and used. The eggs are rust colored, spotted with brown and are rich and of good flavor used in omelet or other cookery.

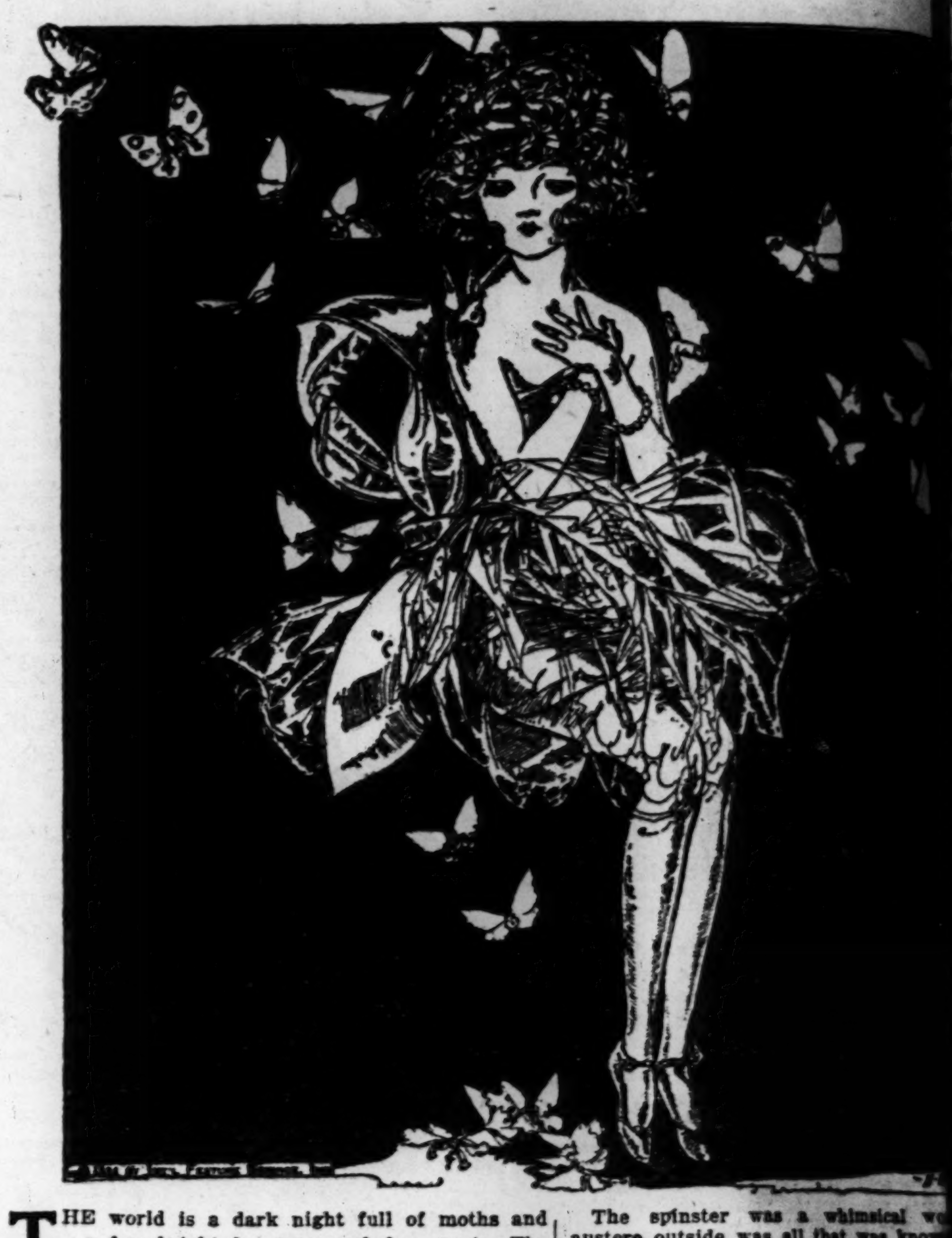
A goose is called "green" until it is 4 months old. Up to that time it is generally cooked without stuffing. Ducklings and smaller goslings are cooked in the same way. The stuffing preferred may be made and heaped in the center of the roasting pan and the spit or jointed bird be placed over it to cook, though the birds are not stuffed in the usual way. The Canadian way of cooking the holiday goose is to stuff it with a savory stuffing, sew it up well and then boil it until it is tender, then lift it and place in the oven, dust with pepper and salt, baste with lemon and onion juice mixed with a little melted butter, and when it begins to brown, dredge it lightly with flour to plump it.

The force of education is so great, that we may mould the minds and manners of the young into what shape we please, and give them the impressions of such habits as shall ever after remain.

When two start into the world together, he that is thrown behind, unless his mind proves generous, will be displeased with the other.

Moths

DRAWN NELL BR



THE world is a dark night full of moths and a few bright lamps spaced far apart. The moths are the regular "ordinar'" folks drawn by beauty. And the bright lamps thrown afar apart are—BEAUTY. All the world, man and woman, sighs for it. Men go without shoes and overcoats that they may put a bit of it in their children's lives.

Mothers make over black silk dresses from the year One for the same things. Children lift their faces to it as a sunflower follows the sun around the zenith. Some steal for it. Everybody prowls for it, hoping to see its dazzling flare, its bright face, just around the corner; and they hunt for it in such widely different places, from the last street by the river-front to a hillside farm, from a Florida jungle with its silence of pine and palm and its color note of blue heron and wild tiger-lily, to a Broadway show with its blare of sound and light, its rainbow of settings and beautiful girls.

Try This When You'd Look Especially Lovely

LUCREZIA BORI

EVERY woman should take such particular beauty care of herself that she looks her best at all times. Clear, sparkling eyes, the smooth complexion and glistening coiffure all bespeak the health that is induced by proper diet and plenty of sleep and exercise.

If you possess these blessings and keep yourself always spotlessly clean, if your finger-nails look their cleanest at all times and your clothes are becoming and immaculately fresh, the result will be that you look your best for any occasion that may arise.

Of course you have to devote plenty of time and care and attention to achieve the results just enumerated. But, as I have told you before, if you are efficient at working in the small attentions to nails and hair and skin, you will find that you have still time left for numerous other things besides beauty culture.

Now, aside from these general precautions in caring for yourself, there are times when you want to appear particularly charming. I am going to give you here a special treatment for your complexion. It is very simple and easy to give, but is most effective to use before dressing for dinner, or before you go out in the evening, or at any time during the day when you want to look especially fresh and well.

All you need is:

A piece of ice
A bit of fine cheesecloth
Some absorbent cotton
Some refreshing toilet water.

First wash your face thoroughly in warm water, using a soft sponge or wash cloth. Then rinse your face in cold water and dry it gently with a soft old towel.

Now take your small piece of ice and put it in a little square of cheesecloth about the size of a pocket-handkerchief. In this way you can hold the ends of the cheesecloth and have a small ice pack.

Rub this over your face, with a gentle upward motion. Be careful to rub well about your mouth and the corners of your nose and the little places beside your eyes where wrinkles sometimes come. The ice is very stimulating in effect. It tones up the muscles of your face and closes the pores.

When you have rubbed with the ice for a minute or two, dry your face again with the towel, Now wet the absorbent cotton with toilet water of some refreshing scent, like lavender or violet and rub this over your face.

You will feel wonderfully rested and refreshed. Dust your face lightly with fine powder, and you will be ready to go on your way with your complexion appearing its most charming.

TO SERVE WITH COFFEE

By Hannah Wing

An Authority on Matters Pertaining to Household Management.

DURING the autumn and winter weather the afternoon cup that cheers is much more likely to be coffee than tea. There is something both warming and refreshing in the rich aroma of freshly made coffee if it is well made.

Certain foods seem particularly suited to serve with coffee, because of a pleasant blending of flavors. The richer bread stuffs, brioche, coffee cake, nut breads or brown breads replace the cinnamon toast, hot buttered crumpets and muffins which one finds on the table at which tea is served.

Brioche, a rich modified roll mixture, while slightly more difficult to make, can be kept in the icebox for several days and freshly baked each afternoon. Probably more people rely on the quickly made breads some of which may be made with yeast quite as well as with baking powder.

One of the most delicious of these breads is a wholesome prune bread in which the nutty flavor of the whole grain flours is used to good advantage with the prunes.

To make this bread sift together two cups each of whole-wheat flour, white flour and graham flour (six cups in all), and two tablespoons of sugar and two teaspoons of salt. Add a cup of prunes, steamed, stoned and cut in pieces. Dissolve a cake of yeast in tepid water and add enough more tepid water to make a stiff batter with the other ingredients. Beat well and add one-half cup chopped pecans or other nuts. Stir in the nuts and let the mixture stand in the mixing bowl until it is about double its bulk. Stir well and turn into a greased baking tin. Bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F.) for one hour.

This recipe has the advantage of making muffins equally as good as the bread. All that is necessary is to bake the mixture in greased muffin tins. Dates may be used in either the bread or muffins instead of prunes.

A quick coffee cake may be made from the following recipe: Scald a cup of milk and cool until tepid. To this add a cup of flour and a cake of yeast dissolved in one-fourth cup of tepid water. Beat this mixture and let it rise until very light. Add a slightly beaten egg, two-thirds of a cup of sugar, one-fourth cup of melted fat and another cup of flour. Let rise again until double in bulk. Pour into a greased shallow pan and let rise. When light sprinkle with sugar, cinnamon and chopped nuts. Bake for 20 minutes in a hot oven.

Philosophical Phrasings

No receipt opens the heart but a true friend, to whom you may impart griefs, joys, fears, hopes, suspicions, counsels, and whatsoever lies upon the heart to oppress it, in a kind of civil shrift or confession.

All the possible charities of life ought to be cultivated, and where we can neither be brethren nor friends, let us be kind neighbors and pleasant acquaintances.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Clean It First.

Wash the kitchen range with warm water and soap before applying blacking. It will mean a much higher finish.

Summer Draperies.

The summer cretonnes may be washed without fear in warm water in which soap and bran water are mixed. You will be surprised how much dirt those cretonnes contain, too.

Quicker Drying.

Stockings and socks will dry much more quickly if, after washing, rinsing and wringing, you run your hand through them all the way to the toe and thoroughly separate them.

Don't Be Careless.

Wash your milk bottles thoroughly before returning them to the milk company with which you deal. It is not only more sanitary, but the bottles look a lot better outside your door than half-washed bottles.

Brittle Nails.

Rub vaseline on the brittle finger nails nightly and give them the extra oil that your system lacks. If more butter, olive oil and fats are eaten, the necessary oil will be supplied to the system and brittle nails will be avoided.

When the Gas Burns Low.

WHEN the flow of gas in your gas range is poor it does not follow that the meter is giving unsatisfactory service.

Take out the burners, brush them, then put them into the dishpan, containing a gallon of water, to which one-half pound of washing soda has been added. Boil well, rinse and brush; then wipe dry with soft paper, and after replacing burners on stove light the gas to thoroughly dry them.

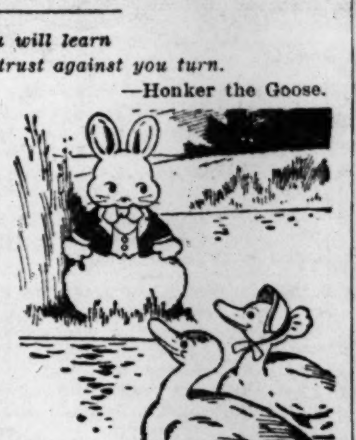
Peter Learns What Treachery Is

A bitter lesson you will learn
When friends you trust against you turn.
—Honker the Goose.



"But what about the goose who had done all the calling?" said Peter

PETER RABBIT, sitting on the edge of the pond of Paddy the Beaver, listening to the talk of Honker the Goose and Mr. and Mrs. Quack, learned many things, and some of them seemed to him more dreadful than anything he had ever known. It was there that he learned the meaning of treachery.

"Were you bothered much by the hunters with terrible guns on your way down from the Far North?" inquired Mrs. Quack.

Honker the Goose nodded. "Did you ever make that long journey without being bothered?" he inquired. "It was worse this year than ever, for there were more guns than ever. A lot of my friends will never see the Sunny South. No, sir, they'll never see the Sunny South." Honker sighed sadly.

"Only day before yesterday I saw a dreadful thing happen. We were flying rather high over a lake, which was so far from the homes of men that it seemed perfectly safe. We needed fresh water to drink. Just as I was trying to decide whether or not to stop a Goose began to honk to us from over near the shore. Then we saw him swimming about, and near him a whole flock sitting quietly on the water. It looked like a splendid place to rest and drink, and perhaps find a little food.

"But I learned long ago that sometimes the safer a place looks the more dangerous it may be. So I led the flock down well out in the middle, and there we drank and rested, and I watched. That goose kept calling and calling to us. Some of my flock wanted to go over there, but I was still suspicious. Then we heard another flock coming. That Goose over by the shore heard them, too. He honked harder than ever. That flock turned and flew down toward him. The leader of that flock was young. He led his flock down to the water some distance out, and then they began swimming in. He didn't notice that that other flock of geese on the water near the one that was honking hadn't moved. But I had noticed it.

"Straight in swam those Geese. Nearer and nearer to the shore they swam. Then suddenly from the shore terrible guns began to bang. Bang! Bang! Bang! Bang! they roared. You should have seen those Geese flapping their wings as they tried to get into the air. Some of them did, but several of them lay still or fluttered on the water. Still the guns banged, and some of those that were in the air fell."

Peter Rabbit could stand it no longer. "What became of all those Geese who were sitting there all the time?" cried Peter eagerly.

Honker and Mr. and Mrs. Quack looked at Peter pityingly. "Those were not real Geese," said Honker. "They were make-believe Geese, put out there by the hunters to make us think that they were real Geese and that it was safe there. I believe the hunters call them decoys."

"But what about that Goose who had done all the calling?" cried Peter. "What happened to him?"

"Nothing," sighed Honker. "He was a decoy, too. He had been trained by the hunters to call the Geese flying over. The hunters took care that when the shooting began he should not be hurt."

"But," cried Peter, "that is a dreadful thing to call your friends in where they will be hurt or killed; I didn't suppose there was any one who would do such a thing."

"You don't know the Great World, Peter," said Mrs. Quack. "I have seen Ducks do that same thing for their masters, the hunters. It is a dreadful thing and it is called treachery?"

Tested by 300,000 Women

More than 300,000 women have made this test. Results are amazing. The charm of glorious hair is now available to any woman who desires to have it.

The Infected Sebum in Your Hair

Sebum is an oil. It forms at the follicles of the hair. Its natural function is to lubricate the hair. But frequently it becomes infected, cakes on the scalp, clogs the follicles and plugs them.

Germs by the millions breed in it, then feed on the hair. Soon your hair begins falling, loses life and lustre.

New Life to Hair

Remove the Sebum and a wonderful change takes place. The hair takes on new life, new brilliancy and softness. It stops falling. New growth generally begins.

A little regular use of the Van Ess treatment will show you this. The new method penetrates to the follicles of the hair, combats the Sebum and removes it. Marvelous results. Hair stops falling. New hair begins to grow in 90 days. We know you will doubt it, so we guarantee it.

At Our Risk

In justice to yourself, give this new treatment a fair trial. Since you take no risk, it is folly not to try it.

Go to any Drug or Department Store today. Ask for the Van Ess 90-day treatment. Written guarantee accompanies it.

IN the early days two cowhands were riding back to the home ranch in Arizona. From behind a butte out dashed a war-party of painted Apaches.

If they tarried, the best they might expect was to be killed and scalped. With thoughts of the torture stake in their minds the two cowboys sank the spurs into the flanks of their ponies and were off, with the Indians in hot pursuit.

The chase was an hour old and still the protection of the bunkhouse was miles away. One of the fugitives presently took note that his partner was losing ground. He sought to stir the other into yet more desperate efforts.

Between jolts the beleaguered one made passionate answer:

"I s'pose," he said, "I s'pose, you think I'm tryin' to throw this race!"
